

the only thing to which we object, but if the managers of the Conservative party in Ontario do not agree with Mr. W. R. White, K.C.; when he said that the Conservative party had not fallen so low as to need the aid of a man like Gagey it is their own funeral. It would be little use for Mr. Whitney to become premier of Ontario at the present time because the people recognize him as only the figurehead. Today the Conservative party seems to be represented by Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, 'the President of the Conservative Association, and by a self-confessed crook named Gaine.
