

Only from a critical interchange of critically acquired opinions, can we hope for clearness and for the clarification of the medical atmosphere now charged with confusion and indifference.

Your communication, indicating your interest and your expectation of being present at the meeting in Boston on October 27, next, is eagerly awaited, and on receipt of the expression of your interest, further developments will be communicated to you personally in due time.

Please address your communications at the earliest possible date directly to JAMES KRAUSS, M.D., 419 Boylston Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Yours fraternally,

(Signed) JAMES KRAUSS, M.D.,

Chairman Committee American Association Clinical Research.
419 Boylston Street, Boston. August 18, 1909.
