WELCOME LIGHT UPON RELIGION

Prof. J. Balcom Shaw of Chicago Has No Fear of Higher Criticism—Graphic Variety Sermos

"What is the answer of the present age to the question 'What think ye of Christ?'" asked Rev. Balcom Shaw, D.D., of Chicago, in the university sermon yesterday morning. Wycliffe convention hall was well filled at the service. Three Falconer and a number of the members of the faculty were on the platform.

"It is the supreme question of the age in which we live," he said. "The great question asked in St. Matthew's gospel xlii, 42. I remember putting it to a socialist. Not the type of socialist we are largely in sympathy with, but the other and more extreme type. On coming down to the breakfast table at the hotel, I greeted him. He immediately began to berate everything. After I had listened to him for a long time, I asked if he would permit me to put one question to him. He respectfully assented. Then I asked him what he thought of Jesus Christ. He fixed his eyes on the tablecloth and sat silent. Then he answered: 'I think of Him so highly that if the principles He taught were put into practice they would change this earth into a heaven.'

"When preaching in the old Echo Mission, New York, before a more motley crowd, including Jews and people of every persuasion, I quite unwittingly mentioned the church, and some of them began to hiss. Later on I mentioned the name of Jesus Christ and instead of hissing they immediately began to vociferously applaud. I thought it most significant."

Lord Tennyson, who may be quoted as a poet of this generation, was once asked by a friend, while strolling out on his lawn: "Alfred, what is your personal opinion and thought of Jesus Christ?" The poet plucked a flower and held it up in the sun and said: "What yonder sun has been to this flower, Jesus Christ has been to my soul."

"Prof. Peabody of Harvard, declares that we are now rewriting the whole science of politics under the light of the teachings of Jesus Christ."

Preaches Outside.

"It is my habit to preach frequently out of doors in Chicago. I had been preaching one night at the entrance to the great red light district. Standing on a stool, I asked how many of the men—would give the tribute of their reverence for Jesus Christ by raising their hats, and would you believe it, of the five hundred men, all but one had taken off his hat. That symbolized the spirit of the age. You can scarcely find a man, coarse or refined, who will deliberately take the name of Jesus Christ in vain."

"In the City of Berlin, a feeling of pessimism prevailed, and as a test, a call was placed on the bill boards inviting all who believed in Jesus as the living Christ, to assemble at the great circus, which will hold 20,000. Long before the hour set for the assemblage, the auditorium was packed, and in addition, an enormous throng made their way to the great cathedral and sang: 'A Mighty Fortress is Our God.' That is the opinion of this age respecting Jesus Christ."

"In view of such a general opinion, it might be thought that the church would have an easy time of it, but such is not the case in the United States, whatever it may be in Canada. In the United States the church is rowing against the stream. Now, when is the matter?"

Where He Thinks.

"There are three places in which a man thinks. In his head intellectually, in his heart, emotionally, and in the centre of his being, in his will, and it is in the will that he gets his character. The age thinks well of Jesus, intellectually. Edmund Burke described the sermon on the mount as the greatest document ever written. Dickens declared the prodigal son was the finest story ever told. Almost everyone is willing to join in the procession and sing 'Onward, Christian Soldiers.'

"The trouble is that this is a selfish age, and is wrong in its will. It does not want 'this Man to reign over it.' 'People speak admiringly, almost in a tone of patronage of Jesus Christ. Begone with it. He was as tender as a woman, but He taught stern principles. His invitation was, 'Let him take up his cross and follow Me.' Patronizing talk of Jesus is by no means a favorable sign. It is the sentimental in religion that is playing the mischief."

"Christians should be able to start firm and not be swept away by all the silly stuff that comes from Germany. I welcome higher criticism and welcome every light that can be shed upon the Christian religion."

"After their majesties, King George and Queen Mary had been crowned, they went forward to the altar of the altar and took off their crowns as an act of homage to Jesus as the King before receiving the sacrament."

"Dean Farrar once related that after preaching in the chapel Royal at Windsor, Queen Mary had been crowned, they went forward to the altar of the altar and took off their crowns as an act of homage to Jesus as the King before receiving the sacrament."

"One danger which could not be entirely guarded against was sudden changes of weather. The sport was so fascinating that among its followers were a prince of the blood royal of England, British ambassadors and an Anglican bishop in addition to people of all ranks of life."

Excellent physical condition was essential, as some of the roped mountain summits were like climbing a vertical gymnasium a quarter of a mile high, and entailed clinging to ropes

YONGE STREET LIKE THE ALPS

Trying to Cross Crowded Thoroughfare as Bad as Climbing Mountains, Says Prof. Jackson.

Prof. W. S. Jackson of Upper Canada College gave the concluding lecture of the course on Saturday afternoon, at the physics building, Toronto University. President Falconer was chairman.

Illustrated by a large number of lantern views, Mr. Jackson gave a realistic account of the manner in which the summits of famous mountains in the Alps are scaled. Speaking from personal experience, Mr. Jackson said that mountaineering in the Alps was not much more dangerous than crossing Yonge-street. While a hundred Alps fatalities are reported annually, the sport of mountaineering was no more dangerous than football. Accidents were attributable usually to carelessness or ignorance.

"One danger which could not be entirely guarded against was sudden changes of weather. The sport was so fascinating that among its followers were a prince of the blood royal of England, British ambassadors and an Anglican bishop in addition to people of all ranks of life."

Excellent physical condition was essential, as some of the roped mountain summits were like climbing a vertical gymnasium a quarter of a mile high, and entailed clinging to ropes while encroaching protruding rocks with a sheer drop underneath of thousands of feet of space.

Mr. Jackson attempted to modify the thrills given by his photographs by saying that the camera views were deceptive and exaggerated the dangers.

One of the fascinations of the sport of mountain climbing was to start from a Swiss mountain village in the darkness of night and to reach a summit just as the sunrise blotted out the stars.

The Toronto City Mission

It will be interesting to know that on Nov. 6, 1878, the Toronto and Yorkville Christian Temperance Mission was organized to promote the cause of total abstinence. The following were the officers: President, Warring Kennedy; vice-presidents, A. T. McCord, W. H. Howland, Daniel McLean; secretary, James Thompson; treasurer, E. M. Murphy; directors, Hon. Vice-Chancellor Blake, Revs. John Potts, D.D., W. J. Hunter, D.D., W. S. Rainford, R. Wallace, J. M. Cameron, J. C. Antcliffe, H. D. Potts and Messrs. James Dobson, David Miller, Edward Beckett and T. L. Wilkie.

A general missionary work of a non-denominational character, was so urgently needed that the above organization developed in the Toronto City Mission, with a directorate of thirty members. As an evangelist and benevolent mission to the poor it has been the means of bringing good cheer to many sufferers, and innumerable poor families would have experienced tremendous hardships, especially during the cold, inclement weather, but for timely aid of the mission thru the missionaries.

The Rev. Robert Hall, the senior missionary, has just completed his twenty-seventh year of service for the mission in the good work among the poor. His experience has told to very great advantage in finding out the suffering poor, who in many cases suffer rather than make their circumstances known.

The work of the mission embraces a variety of aids to the poor and infirm, and during a summer vacation at its home at Bronte, where many poor and infirm persons get rest and recuperation during the summer.

The present officers are: President, Rev. John Neil, D.D.; vice-presidents, John Stark, Charles McD. Hay, Henry Graham; treasurer, H. L. Stark, 29 Toronto-street; secretary, A. C. Paull.

The mission was incorporated last year, as it was deemed the necessities demanded it.

The need of funds is an obstacle to the developing of the work as fully as required. Requests for this charitable work have been made, and the annual contributions come in readily from those who are familiar with the good work, but more funds are urgently needed.

WARM WEATHER SPOILS SLIDES

High Park Was Deserted Except for a Few Stragglers Who Walked There in Slush.

Whether the weather man is siding in with the civic authorities and aiding them in the enforcement of the new bylaw prohibiting Sunday sliding, or whether he is trying not to let the anti-sliders have the satisfaction of seeing the law carried out or put to a practical test this year, will probably be known within the next few Sundays. At any rate there was no sliding done yesterday, the day being an ideal fore-runner of spring. The slides were slush with several inches of water at the bottom, and with the exception of a few stragglers perambulating the wet and slush covered walks in a probable expectation to see an attempt at sliding, High Park was practically deserted.

Basketball Notes

Interassociation basketball on Monday night, Parkdale Presbyterian Church team will play St. Stephens on the latter's floor, their final game of the season. Parkdale's team will be picked from the following: Ramsbury, Douglas, Ferguson, Swinerton, McKenna, Shell, Hoffman, Flood, Grant.

Another Win for Harvard

BOSTON, Feb. 24.—Harvard won the hockey series of three games with Yale by taking the first game at the Boston arena to-night 4 to 2. In the first half Harvard led 4 to 0. Yale came back in the second period and played fast, but was able to make only two points.
