A Word of Caution

In these days of quick adaptation every large advertiser has to caution his readers more or less against imitators. While we respect the enterprise that makes quick results possible, we insist that the public health demands larger consideration than the slap-dash methods of certain stores. We have before us a so-called Petroleum Emulsion that is totally unfit for internal use.

and which has already caused considerable complaint.

If our amateur friends will kindly be more particular and make a thoroughly good Emulsion, we shall find no fault, no matter at what price they wish to sell. We're heart and soul in love with the Petroleum Idea ourselves.

oil we use is taken from particular wells and carefully purified by our own process. Imitations made with ordinary Petroleum do not have the same effect, and people should know that in advance. A patient who tries one and derives no benefit will probably condemn all

Petroleum preparations alike, whereas certain kinds are intended for outward application only, and not for internal use. The oil we use is bland, soothing and healing.

The oil others use is apt to be irritating, nauseating and dorsement of thousands of physicians, and letters are on file here to prove it. Cheap imitations are carelessly made and have no responsibility back of them. Between the two which would you choose? And how about the Toronto Junction.

Toronto Junction, Feb. 9.—The fire brigade was called out this morning to a fire on Quebec-avenue at a house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Card. When the brigade arrived there was no one in the house. On forcing an entrance, fire was discovered in a closet upstairs, in which there was some clothing, but near which there was no stove pipe. Spontaneous combustion is thought to have been its origin. From the closet the flames had spread under the floors and between the partitions. These were pulled down and constituted the greater part of the damage, which, together with damage done by water to the furniture, constituted the total loss.
