Nothing Could Be Worse Than to Make British Imports Dearer.

Manchester, Nov. 5.-Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, formerly Chancellor of the Exchequer, addressing a meeting of business men to-day, rebutted Joseph Chamberlain's claims that British trade was decaying. Nothing could be worse for British industry, Sir Michael added, than an attempt to make im-than free trade. He says: "The trade of the country enormously increased, the condition of the working classes spormously improved and the wealth of the country grew. This course was largely due to steam and electricity, the great discoveries of science, and to the production of gold."

> WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.-The Associated Press is informed that the President probably will make a statement to-morrow regarding the provisional government of the Republic of Panama, of the establishment of which the United States government was officially informed to-day. In view of the latest advices from Colon to the effect that the junta has succeeded in gaining control of the situation it is currently expected that this announcement will recognize the newly established government, but it was impossible to secure official information on this point.

The Associated Press is enabled to state that the United States government will conduct affairs with a firm hand in the execution of the treaty of 1846. Orders have been sent to the various naval commanders in the Caribean that the isthmus is to be policed, the transit Food party "Lifttle Englanders," Sir Michael said he was a wider Imperialist than Mr. Chamberlain. He had preached the doctrine of a permanent union of the empire, in England and in Canada, 30 and 40 years ago, "when Mr. Chamberlain's policies did not extend beyond Birmingham."

The speaker further said that he refused to accept Mr. Chamberlain's policy, which he believed would injure the wisting good-will friction between Great Britain and her colonies. He was not a "Little Englander," but on the contrary he considered the welfare of the empire as a whole.

Proposition to Bring Out Farm Laborers Received With Strong government has decided to send H. E. Kyle of Oakville to England for a second time to induce farm laborers to come to this country has evoked pronounced expressions of disapproval from prominent labor leaders here.

"The governments both here and in Ottawa are acting in this matter in direct contravention of the wishes of organized labor, which represents a big percentage of Canada's population. This fact was clearly demonstrated in Brockville when in the form of a resolution the Dominion and Ontario governments were strongly condemned for this assisted emigration. What we want is immigrants who come to this country of their own free will and are not sent at the expense of the people of Canada. This is nothing more nor less than assisting pauper immigration, which is a hindrance rather than an assistance to the country. And apart from this fact, the government's agent receives instructions and undertakes to encourage only laborers who have a knowledge of farming and intend at some future date to take up that occupation for themselves. It sounds very well, but the experience of last summer teaches us that the theory has not worked out in practice. The swarm of mechanics assisted to ties country by the people's money to take the very positions in which some of us were engaged, at lower wages, does not from prominent labor leaders here. by the people's money to take the very positions in which some of us were engaged, at lower wages, does not speak very well for a government that makes a pretence of being thoughtful of the labor man's interests. The matter will be taken up at the Trades and Labor Council next week and an expression of opinion will no doubt be obtained from that body and made
