London, Sept. 8, 1919. To General Sir Arthur Currie, Sir,-in addressing you, the directors of the Western Fair desire, at the outset, to speak of the honor we esteem it to have secured so distinguished a personage as your good self to open our 1919 exhibition, and lend the influence of your attendance toward making it a success. Yet our pleasure in having you perform this office is only a small part of what we feel today, and would, if possible, express to you. Chief among these is the unbounded admiration of a citizen people for the courageous, faithful and able generalship which you dis-played in command of the armies and able generating and of the armies played in command of the armies under you, which, going from among our own peace-inured people, yet fought—and died—and won, with a valor that was not outshone by the armies of any other state. We recognize that not only were we of Canada defended by the selfless courage of those armies, but that their splendid spirit has lent to the name of our homeland a glory that can never fade.

name of our homeland a glory that can never fade.

To you as their worthlly-chosen leader and commander, we extend the gratitude of a defended people upon whom lights the reflection of their glorious record.

But most of all we desire to make this an expression, inadequate but sincere, of the "Welcome home" that is in our hearts.

You have received welcomes home from our people all along the line of your journey west from Canada's eastern gateway; but here today it is our even greater honor to accord you the nearer, warmer welcome of fellow-citizens in that small part of the broad world that we know as the county of Middle-sex—and home. This has been made "Middlesex Day" of the West-ern Fair, and residents representing every section of that municipality are gathered here to give you, one and all, acclaim for your brilliant military career, and the heartiest welcome to which we are able to give tongue.

CRY DIRECTORS LAWN DANCING

Ancient Pastime On Greensward Is Revived in Old Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Sept. 6.—Philas, greatest culptor of olden Greece, was tried for mbezzling gold leaf with which he oiled one of his well-known statues. Which was almost unfortunate, but he fact remains that he it was who perpetuated, in marble, the forms divine perpetuated, in marble, the forms divine which flourished during his period of existence and which resulted as an addiction on the part of the Grecian masses to the ancient and honorable Athenian sport of classic dancing.

And lo and behold if modern Milwaukeeans aren't going in for the same sort of exercise. The girls are all tripping the green sward attired in gossamer draperies, and even some of the men have gone in for the innovation.

Just Like That.

Some of those who should know claim that this is a conversation that will be apt to be heard here in the near future. First Tired Businessman—Oh, Hector, did you bring down your tunit this apt to be heard here in the near future. First Tired Businessman—Oh, Hector, did you bring down your tunic this morning? Let's go to the Country Club and have a little dance.

Second Tired Businessman—Yes, I have it, right here in my vest pocket, and, by the by, don't you think the old links make a dandy gamboling green?

It's a good and manly sport, too, this classic dancing. Physicians say so and who should be bester able to decide.

"Why, the other night out at the Blue Mound Country Club," said Dr. George C. Ruhland, commissioner of health, "it struck me, as some dancers were going through their graceful movements, scantily clad and with bare feet, that here was a pastime that should be encouraged, a revival of an ancient art that would make for the development of better physiques and should therefore be accorded dignified, place.

"We are rapidly becoming a race of Mat-footed people, and this would serve as a cure and preventive. Besides the exercises, the exposure of a great part of the body's surface, to the air is fine. It makes for healthy circulation and for a prompt reaction when the skin is subjected to severe climatic changes.

But to get back to the main track-But to get back to the main track—Milwaukee is bowing at the shrine of a new art. It is taking up with a practice that flourished at a time when Greece was in the noblest period of its ultracivilization. It is realizing that in perfection of form lies purity of thought. It is searching out the ideal beauty that lies behind the realittes of nature. How long is it going to practice; how long lies behind the realities of nature. How long is it going to practice; how long is it going to realize; how long is it going to search? Not till decadence overtakes it as in that other dancing town, not Milwaukee, that may be banked on.

The couple were quietly married in a registrar's office; and, though Evans was arrested and tried for the offence, he got a purely nominal term and became quite a hero, for, naturally, no stigma attached to such a sentence or offence.

The marriage was a very happy one, and, though the heiress had to give up her $2,500,000, Evans, who was a briefless barrister at the time of the marriage, succeeded so well that he himself amassed a respectable fortune.

THE trend of automobile engineering points to the 8-cylinder car. And good buying judgment points to Oldsmobile.

We aimed higher than simply pioneering the "eight." We aimed to produce one of moderate price and low maintenance costs,

-that had the flexibility, smoothness and abundance of power inherent in the 8-cylinder car.

-that cost as little to buy and operate as the majority of "sixes" and many "fours."

-that would be smartly distinctive, yet characteristically Oldsmobile.

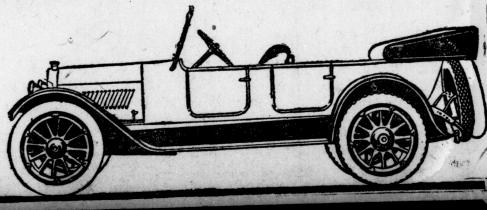

Our aim is attained in the "THOROBRED"the only popular priced "eight" in which mechanical excellence is combined with rare riding comfort and up-to-the-minute body lines. Oldsmobiles have been the historymakers of motordom; the "THOROBRED" is well worthy to perpetuate the name.
