What a long and thresome trial it was. Puss-In-Boots did not give Pedro a chance to defend himself, for he had heard from Mrs. Tabby that Pedro had once torm his picture out of a story book and was very angry.

Of course, Pedro was being tried for bringing the clattering old pudding dish to Over-the-Moon-Land.

Why don't you try to catch the wadding dish and put it on trial?" asked he cried. "Take him away. Execute him at sunrise a week from tomorrow. In the meantime let him starve."

Poor Pedro! What a sad fate seemed to be awaiting him. Little Red Riding Hood ran to the foot of the throne, and throwing herself on her knees, pleaded for the faithful Pedro, but without avail. King Puss-In-Boots was too angry to listen to reason. Sobbling on the shoulder of Little Boy Blue, Red Riding Hood was led from the room and Pedro was taken back to the dungeon.

WOMEN INVITED TO DISCUSS PROBLEMS OF CIVIC IMPORTANCE

Chamber of Commerce Holds Banquet On Thursday.

The London Chamber of Commerce is holding a civic banquet on Thursday night at 6:30 for the purpose of discussing the new collegiate institute problem and the Thames River improvement scheme. To this banquet the members of the chamber of commerce are inviting all the women of London interested in these matters, with the hope that they will enter into the question of the location of the new collegiate and the proposed erection of dams on the River Thames are of vital interest to the community, and are questions on which there is a strong diversity of opinion, it is expected that there will be some very hot discussions.
