

THE furrier who can honestly talk exclusiveness in furs is the man who deals direct with the trapper, whether it is in our own north-western wilds or in the mountains and on the steppes of southern Asia.

Dineen deals direct between you and the trapper.

He buys largely and at big cash discounts, from which you benefit. You only need to see the goods to realize that other furs seen elsewhere must take a secondary place.

Rowingmen's brass band for house on Weston-road was destroyed to-night by fire, which broke out at 6 o'clock.

There will be no coroner's ceremony in connection with the building of the new Carnegie library.

YEAR WAS FAIRLY GOOD.

See Keepers Discuss Matters of Mutual Interest.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association opened in the old court house on Adelaide-street yesterday and was fairly well attended.

President F. J. Miller of London was in the chair and acknowledged the aid given the society by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. The appointment of extra inspectors had produced good results. The appointment of A. C. Miller of Providence, R.I. read paper on "Sidelights on Marketing." The use of uniform packages was strongly urged. Yesterday's session was not a long one and to-day it is expected the attendance will be larger.

CONCORD.

Pioneer of Vaughan Township Meets a Tragic Death.

CONCORD, Nov. 11.—Hiram White, one of the oldest residents in Vaughan Township met with terribly sudden death on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. White, who was over 80 years of age, was riding on a wagon when the team becoming unmanageable ran away and Mr. White was thrown out, receiving injuries from which he died almost instantly.

Deceased was born here, and lived on the farm of seven children, four sons and three daughters. The funeral takes place to Thornhill Cemetery tomorrow.

PICKERING.

Interesting Items of News From the Village.

PICKERING, Nov. 11.—Almond's Epworth League visited the Methodist League here on Wednesday in a friendly debate resolved that the entrance of women into trades and professions is detrimental. Messrs. Christian, R. Cartwright and A. Cartwright represented the townling, while Messrs. Green, Chapman and Harvey took the negative. Result was a win for the affirmative.

The death of Rev. Dr. A. C. Courtice attracts special attention here. Cause this was the early home of his wife, formerly Mrs. J. B. Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Brown, who lived where Major Rowe at present resides.

The Workmen have been having several additions to their membership here, their organizer, Mr. Bain, having been active here for some time. Nicholas Brown has sold his 300-acre farm on the Kingston-road to John Grills of New Liskeard for nearly $20,000. Mr. Grills was a former resident of the place, and takes possession very shortly.

Mr. Dewere is now talking of building a house in the village, the empty houses are at a premium. It looks like a good proposition for some one to build houses on speculation.

NORTH TORONTO.

Funeral of Late Janitor in Very Large Attendance.

NORTH TORONTO, Nov. 11.—The funeral of the late George J. Frost of Deer Park took place from the residence of his son, Walter J. Frost, Gormley-avenue, this afternoon and was largely attended. Rev. T. W. Emerson, rector of Christ Church, officiated at the house and the grave-side. The students of Upper Canada College where deceased was janitor for 28 years, attended in a body and the procession was headed by Principal Auden and Mr. Somerville. The chief mourners were his sons and daughters. There were many floral tributes, among others, from the masters and students of Upper Canada College. A pleasant evening was spent by the members of Sherwood Lodge, S.O.E., last night, when after concluding the routine business of the lodge, they entertained their lady friends to games of croquet and carpet ball. Ex-Councillor A. J. Brown donated a handsome buckle, which was won by Mrs. Ford, while Mrs. Adams succeeded in winning the hooby prize. Members of the eight appeals against this year's voters' list and Judge Morgan will hold court of revision in the town hall on Saturday, Nov. 21.

It was expected that W. F. Maclean, M.P. would address a public meeting in the town hall on Saturday, but Mr. Maclean will be unable to attend on that occasion.

A treat is in store for the people of Edlington who attend the concert under the auspices of the Ladies' Society to be given in the Edlington Presbyterian Church (8 p.m.-10 p.m.) Thursday evening, Nov. 12. Mr. Gearing, soloist, St. Andrew's Presbyterian, a tenor from Carlton-street Methodist Church, together with other well known city singers will contribute.

BIG MEETING TO-NIGHT.

Great Enthusiasm Exists, and Rally is for Business.

That. Field-avenue, Presbyterian Church will be taxed to its full capacity to-night at the meeting to be held in the interests of annexation is assured.

The action of the railway and municipal boards in the city, and the recently presented petition, while probably along constitutional lines, is so manifestly opposed to the interests of the great majority of the ratepayers in the disputed area, that the promoters are more than ever enthusiastic and determined respecting the outcome.

Mayor Bevilacqua (Toronto) will be present, in addition to a number of local and city speakers. The meeting will be a rousing one, and those who want a good seat ought to be early on deck.

IMPROVE CONDITIONS SAY RETAIL MERCHANTS

Meeting of Dealers in Vicinity of St. Lawrence Market—Will Hold Conference With Association.

To bring about some important improvements in the St. Lawrence Market whereby it can be used only for market purposes, and the objects of the meeting of the merchants doing business in that vicinity. The meeting was called by circular and was held in the office of the Mayor, Toronto, on Tuesday afternoon, R. C. Steele presided.

A deputation from the Retail Merchants' Association was present, and suggested that the charges referred to were necessary to bring about more desirable marketing conditions. The right of the farmer to sell in quantities of more than a bushel was also discussed.

A committee was appointed consisting of Messrs. R. C. Steele, Henry Swan, T. Meredith, J. Carey, C. P. Godden, D. Pike, G. Crosby, John Rennie, Sydney G. Campbell and Mr. Clibborn, manager of the market branch of the Bank of Commerce.

A conference with the property commissioner, on the subject of the annexation, will be called by Secretary Parks.

It was decided also to hold a joint conference with the Retail Merchants' Association at 3 p.m. Monday in their Richmond-street offices. Whereby the property commissioner, Harris will meet a committee of merchants of the neighborhood this morning at 10.30 to discuss the question.

GROGERS DID NOT ACT AT GUID'S DICTATION

Firms Merely Switched to Wholesalers as Matter of Individual Policy.

The closing chapter of the famous Grogers' Guild case is being heard by Chief Justice Falconbridge in the city hall.

Witnesses yesterday were Henry S. Burke, secretary Empire Tobacco Co. Montreal; Samuel Meyers, one of that company's agents; and Hector McBean, treasurer of the Canadian Shredded Wheat Co., Niagara Falls; George P. Benson, president and general manager of the Edward Taylor, Starco Co., and Jas. Morris, traveler for the Empire Tobacco Co.

E. F. B. Johnston's line of defence is that the company did not act at the dictation of the guild. He also sought to show that each company fixes its own prices.

No Agreement.

Henry S. Burke denied having had any agreement with the guild. The charges against his company were that he had refused to supply goods to John Curtis of Port Hope, and the G. O. S. Wholesale Co. of Hamilton, because of a recent arrangement with the guild that he should cut these men off the list because they were not wholesalers. His company when starting operations had solicited trade from the retailer direct, but later on, as the business grew, the firm switched over to the wholesaler.

Mr. Burke said he did not refuse to sell goods to Curtis at all, and as for the Hamilton concern, he said he had cut out of their supplies, because he wanted to be consistent to the wholesalers whose business he was seeking. He admitted having an agreement with the wholesalers at the present time.

Samuel Meyers, eastern agent for the company, said the firm had intended to treat Curtis the same as anyone else, but the Port Hope man had told him McDonald's tobacco had the sale there and he would not take Empire goods.

Hector McBean of the Shredded Wheat Company said they used the word "wholesaler" to describe their output because it was cheaper and in that way the firm had fewer and better accounts. He admitted that the cereal companies had an agreement between themselves to prices.

George P. Benson, president and general manager of the Edward Taylor, Starco Co., said the company had been the custom of the company to have their output exclusively handled by the wholesale houses. He had heard that the grocers' guild intended to force the company to fix its own prices. Prior to 1904 his company had sold goods to a few retailers. Then the wholesalers complained that they were not getting a fair profit, as the rate was only 12 per cent. There was a fixed price, and any wholesaler cut that the company made distributors to stop it, for to cut prices would have injured the manufacturer.

An agreement was entered into between his company and the price committee of the Ontario and Quebec guilds, which restrained the company from selling to the retailers, except thru wholesalers.

Prior to 1904 his company had a verbal agreement with the wholesalers and although he had sold to a few retailers, and he has now sold thru wholesalers, he thought to be consistent it was only right to sell exclusively to the wholesalers.

Witness admitted that the arrangement made with the wholesalers in 1905 was to give them a bigger profit, but said that the difference in price came out of the pockets of the manufacturer and that the list price did not change. Later, however, he said the price was advanced to the consumer.

Mr. Blackstock read him a letter to John Curtis of Port Hope from his company saying that his order had been received, but owing to other arrangements having been made for the handling of the output he would have to get his goods thru a wholesale house.

The manufacturer witness said that he forced business out of his legitimate channel.

When asked as to his business with the provincial grocers' guild, he said the firm started in Toronto by Mr. Clancy, but which was forced out of business because he could not get goods from the manufacturer witness said he had sold Clancy because he had formed this company, and for a time afterwards, but that owing to opposition from the guild he stopped the sales.

The Port Hope Grocer.

James Morris, traveler for the Empire Tobacco Co. since 1890, was called. Examined by E. E. B. Johnston as to sales to John Curtis of Port Hope he said that he wasn't aware that the Port Hope grocer had stopped buying the Empire Company's goods, but that he himself had left that territory in 1901. In his opinion, manufacturers selling direct to the retailer would have had a tendency to put the small retailer out of business, and that in other words it would also cut down the number of wholesalers.

Cross examined by Mr. Blackstock, witness said that the retailer would have got his goods at the same price had there been no wholesaler at all, and that consequently the consumer was not injured.

Witness said that Curtis was not a large buyer, as a letter was read from Curtis saying that he had always been a consistent buyer of the Empire goods and that when that company had refused to sell him goods he had gone to find the reason, but got none beyond the fact that the company was now selling only to the wholesalers. Witness said that the company did not recognize any guild as a guild, and that the change in their methods of doing business was due to the great cost of working up a trade with the retailer. Under the present system the wholesaler carries the goods and pays the expenses of distribution.

BURIAL OF SARDOU.

Thousands Pay Tribute, The Ceremony is Extremely Simple.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Victorin Sardou, the French author and dramatist who died November 8, was buried in this city to-day.

He would have been gladly accorded a state funeral had it not been for his expressed wish that he be buried without pomp or ceremony. He was, however, given the military honors always accorded those who have received the grand cross of the Legion of Honor.

The privacy, however, was unable to prevent tens of thousands in every walk of life from coming to lift their hats and bow their heads in memory of the beloved dramatist.

Telegrams and letters of condolence continued to pour in on the family of the departed. The Emperor, King Edward and Queen Amelie, mother of King Emanuel of Portugal, sent personal messages, and almost every dramatist and theatrical organization in Europe has paid homage to the famous Frenchman.

Sarah Bernhardt sent the following telegram from Cairo, Egypt: "France loses one of its glories, and Paris a friend, all the unhappy a protector, and we artists our beloved master, Victorin Sardou."

of prospectors have built cabins and will be there these years from to-day, when, as at Cobalt, mills, concentrators and shaft houses tower into the sky line.

The Silver is There.

The silver is there. I have seen lots of it. It is widely scattered. I have handled rich samples of native silver from Maple Mountain, from Gowganda and Miller Lakes. I have handled vein matter from the Mother Lode Mine which assays 8000 ounces to the ton. I have seen native silver on Elk Lake Discovery, the Moose Horn, the Marvel, the Oxford, Godfrey, Owen-Sperce, Odise, Garvin-Hamilton and many other prospects. At the recorder's office are samples from all over the district which would make one stare.

The area of this silver belt extends roughly from the southern part of Smith Township, southeast to Jarvis, to the northeast corner of Willet. The width varies, with an average distance of nine miles in James Centre.

West of the silver belt extends nine miles to Silver Lake and north to Hubert Lake.

Opinion of an Expert.

W. W. Taberner, well-known engineer, was seen at Elk Lake Discovery Camp.

"This is one of the richest mineral areas on earth," he said. "In all my mining experience I never saw a deposit of such value showing to the surface. The work at Cobalt shows that these values go to a great depth. The arsenical base ores mean permanency and this discovery eliminates the theory of many expressed several years ago that the present rate of development of this country will soon reach the top among the silver-producing nations of the world. The Ontario government, I believe, has not yet awakened to the wonderful heritage the people have in this north country."

Michael Hackett, partner of Jack Munro, the fellow who knocked Jim Jeffrey off his feet at the fight which gained wide notoriety in consequence, said:

"There is nothing that I ever heard of or saw like it. Why, values nothing like so great have resulted in the up-building of great mining industries in other parts of the world. We are here to become residents of Canada and the Montreal River country will be our home. I like the Canadian people and realize more than ever what a magnificent future has before what a magnificent future has before what a magnificent building has developed into an important industry and camp buildings are being thrown up over a wide area. Mr. Frederick, a man of great character and enterprise was the first to recognize the necessities of the district, and he has now in operation at Elk City a saw mill which is working to capacity."

This winter he will have from sixty to a hundred horses delivering lumber. "My only regret," he said, "is that I did not install a mill of double the capacity while I was at it."

"What are your prices?" I asked. "Thirty dollars a thousand." I asked. "I shall have to charge $50 a thousand for lumber teamed into the Gowganda country."

Will Equal Wheat Crop.

The silver production of Upper Ontario will this year reach about $2,000,000 or about one-sixth the value of the wheat crop of the western provinces. At the present rate of development the miles of the north will be producing in five years silver enough to buy two-thirds of a wheat crop as large as the west produced in 1908. For it must be remembered that the silver belt has now been traced from Lorrain on the east to West Branch and Gowganda on the west, a distance of about one hundred miles. It is a fact of stupendous import to Canada and the nation's greatest industries.

SLAVERY STILL IN FLORIDA.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—What was asserted to be practical marooning of several persons on wild and inaccessible regions of Florida, and their detention there under hard labor for a period of several months, was dealt with at length before Judge Hough and jury in the United States Circuit Court, in the course of the trial of the government's case against employers and agents of the Florida East Coast Railway Company, for alleged violation of the statute prohibiting "peonage, slavery and enforced servitude."
