The Piano For All Climates

Another Triumph for the Mason & Risch

THE intrinsic excellence of construction, the utmost care in the selection of materials, and, above all, the incorporation of the exclusive Aliquot System of tonal enrichment gave the Mason & Risch the stamina to endure the rigors of the arctic climate. It is invariably the Piano chosen where any unusual test or sustained severity in use is anticipated.

Whether Peary or Cook discovered the Pole may be in dispute. As to which Piano will stand the Arctic rigors there can be no doubt after reading this letter.

OTTAWA.
The Mason & Risch Piano Co., Ltd.,
Toronto.

Gentlemen:
The Mason & Risch Piano I took with me on the Canadian Government Ship "Arctic" on my last voyage proved a great source of happiness for all on board. Many times as I stood on the bridge, in the Arctic Seas, watching for a favorable passage through the ice, I would hear the sweet melody of the instrument below. Also when the ship was bound in the ice for eight long and dreary months, when Sundays appeared to be as long as a whole week, did we find the charm of the piano more than anything else imaginable, creating an atmosphere of cheerfulness and of home.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) JOSEPH E. BERNIER.

Toronto District W.C.T.U.

Mrs. E. A. Stevens, retiring president of the Toronto District W.C.T.U., at the convention yesterday afternoon, said that the women of Canada should make a strong fight for the revivification of the temperance movement. The convention is being held in the Broadway Tabernacle.
Speaking of the influx of foreigners into Ontario, she said that with the province lay the duty of educating them and training them to be sober citizens. She showed that the temperance movement was now almost world-wide.
Mrs. F. C. Ward, corresponding secretary, reported the membership of the district to be almost 1000, and 181 unions. Three unions were organized during the past year. There are now nine bands of hope. The session re-open this morning at 9:45. One will be held this afternoon and two tomorrow.

Wrongfully Bailed Out.

There seems to have been a deal of misunderstanding, not to say ignorance, which allowed Horace Woodley, 17 Foxbar-road, and Ernest Woodley, 155 Davenport-road, Midland, to be charged with assaulting a Bradford player in a game at Bradford, to be granted bail by Police Magistrate Peter Ellis, and to be secured by Assistant Crown Attorney Garvey. The two appeared in police court yesterday morning and were sent on 30 Bradford so that no harm was done, but the law says that while under arrest in one city for the police of another place, bail may not be granted. At Bradford they were each fined $5 and costs.

CLEVER TORONTO ARTIST WITH "WITCHING HOUR"

Phenomenal Success of Miss Alma Chester Who Plays One of Leading Roles.

It is seldom, indeed, that the secretly-cherished ambitions of childhood to climb high the ladder of success in theatricals have been realized to such an extent as those of Miss Alma Chester, who is appearing in "The Witching Hour" company at the Royal Alexandra this week.

Miss Chester is a former Toronto girl, and also she has been away from her native city for some years, she has held the fondest recollections of the Queen City of the West. Indeed, it is not too much to say that a legion of friends also remembered Miss Chester, if one can judge by the enthusiastic reception that has been tendered her upon her appearance on the stage.

"Oh, I was certainly born in Toronto," said Miss Chester to The World yesterday, "and I left at an early age to go on the stage."
"Well, how old were you when you began your career behind the footlights?" the reporter brazenly enquired.

"No," declared Miss Chester, with a laugh, as she arranged her dark brown hair with her left hand, "I won't tell," and then she began to enlighten the newspaper man on stage lore. "I have a street named after me, a woman tells her age, people declare that she is ten years older, and when she tells her salary, it must be $10 less. Did you surmise that?" "Well, I should not," I have a good many years yet before I reach that," was the decided way in which her age was vaguely told.

"Now," began Miss Chester, when peace and quietness was once more restored, "my great-uncle, Andrew Dea-reporter all the time thru the mirror. "Now, Ma—"

But that was enough, the dark blue "old" dress on and there would be no more barbarous proceedings after the show, so, with a remarkable feminine declaration of "And I am not afraid of mice," Miss Chester fled swiftly thru the stage door into the shadows of this night.

EARNS POACHERS' ENMITY BY ENFORCING FISH LAW

Oliver Adams' Home Burned by Incendiaries Who Resented Activity of Official.

Gananogue's days of terror will soon be past, for several of Canada's most astute detectives have been busily engaged finding evidence to convict the men who have been committing depredations in the vicinity.
Things were brought to a head when Oliver Adams' summer residence was burned to the ground on Thursday night last by incendiaries. Mr. Adams, who has been an active worker for the Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association, honorably earned the enmity of the poachers in Gananogue by locating there a branch of the association, which has prosecuted a number of law-breakers.

Four years ago he was asked, while here, to form a branch. Everybody interested promised to attend the meeting, but when it was held, only six turned out. The others explained their absence by saying they were afraid the rowdy element, who broke the game laws, would burn their houses. Next year the matter was reopened and a petition was signed by 600 voters, and a deputation, headed by the mayor, waited on the government. George Toner was appointed fishery overseer. He was supplied by the government, with a launch. Since then he has done excellent work, having seized thousands of yards of nets and brought several men to justice. Last year, owing to the protection of the industry, fishing was better than it has been for the past 15 years. All the fishermen and guides admit it.

Mr. Adams bought an island there and built his house two years ago. He was warned against it by his friends, because he had been so prominent in having the fish and game laws enforced. They told him someone would have revenge by setting it on fire. He insured it and ran chances. Inspector Souleau built a house on an island near there seven years ago. He was active in the prosecution of poachers, and the house was burned. Recently the ruffians in that neighborhood have performed numerous deeds of darkness, such as breaking into houses and carrying away movable valuables.

Mr. Adams has offered a reward of $200, and other residents of Gananogue are clubbing together to make up another sum.
Inspector Miller has charge of the detective work for the government.

Boys Nearly Drown.

DESERONTO, Ont., Oct. 5.—This evening two boys, Chas. Frost and Clare Macley, were out in an old skiff, when the main halyard broke. Macley climbed up the mast and the boat upset. Their call for help was heard up town, and the boys were found by a fisherman on the boat, paddling and crying for help.

FOR TAXICAB DRIVERS ONLY THESE CLUB ROOMS

How Taxicab People Co-Operate With Their Employes—A Peep Behind the Scenes.

At 208 and 210 Victoria-street one of the most unique organizations in Canada, the Taxicab Drivers' Club, has its quarters.
It is the clubhouse of the chauffeurs of Berna Motors and Taxicabs, Limited, and it is one of the most interesting places of its character in the city.
People who have watched the taxicabs hurrying about the streets of Toronto have remarked that the drivers are exceptionally intelligent and clean-cut men. They are courteous in their dealings with the public, scrupulously uniformed and smart in appearance.

There is a reason. Only men of intelligence and capability are engaged, and once in the company's employ they are looked after.
The club quarters are for the taxicab chauffeurs only. It is close to the garage, where the men can reach the machines for emergency calls in an instant.

The reading-room, where all the leading current and mechanical magazines are on file, is one of the features of the club.
There are rows of steel lockers in which the uniforms are suspended, after being carefully brushed and oiled for by the club valet.

The men have their shoes shined before reporting for duty.
Upstairs are rows of clean and restful beds, on which the men can sleep after coming in when their duties have kept them out too late to go home.

On the second floor is a bath-room, including a shower bath, which the men enjoy and appreciate thoroughly. The taxicab enterprise is said to be one of the outstanding financial successes in the commercial life of the city. This is doubtless due to the loyal service of the staff as much as the management.

The Player-Piano Vogue

It is a mere notion that has brought the player piano into popular favor with all classes of people. The player piano is here to stay, and it has won its place on a real merit. The degree of thought and skill displayed in the construction of this instrument is well illustrated in the new player piano illustrated in the new player piano made by the old firm of Heintzman & Co., Limited, 115-117 King-street west. The aluminum action, known only to the player piano of this firm, and other special features, place this player piano on a very high musical plane.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—(C. A. P.)—Regarding the King opening the hospital at Montreal, an official of the cable company said that such a thing as the King touching the button at Buckingham Palace, and solely by that means performing the ceremony, was impossible. If, such a thing, could be made the King would touch the button at the palace, then the operator at the Irish cable station would touch the key giving the signal to flash, where the operator, who would also touch the key, would give the signal to Montreal.
