

THE MARITIME RACES IN THE WEST END RINK

It will be of interest to local skating enthusiasts to learn that the Canadian Skating Association has awarded the Maritime province skating championships to the Commercial Club of this city and the big meet will be held in Hilton Bely's rink in West St. John about February 17.

The New Brunswick championships had been awarded to the local Y. M. C. A. but as the Montreal Y. M. C. A. were very anxious to secure this meet, the local organization released their claim to them and the races will be held there about February 23 or 24.

SIR PHILIP GIBBS NOT LIKELY TO BE HEARD HERE

A meeting of the executive of the Women's Canadian Club was held this morning at the home of Mrs. W. Edmund Raymond, president, when Sir Philip Gibbs was mentioned. It was decided that he was not likely to be heard here. Sir Philip Gibbs, who is a well-known author and lecturer, was expected to give a lecture at the Maritime Club on February 21.

SOME WANTED MONEY BACK

Scramble of Women at "Margot" Lecture.

Jeweled and Furred Audience Greeted British Notable in New York and Majority Applauded Generously.

(Canadian Press.)
New York, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Margot Asquith, wife of a former British premier, read from her published and unpublished diaries yesterday in the New Amsterdam Theatre and exchanged words, sympathetic at first and then soothing, with persons in the galleries who contended that the could not hear.

A furred and jeweled audience, mostly of women, filled the theatre, one of the most fashionable audiences which ever greeted a lecturer in this country.

But before the reading was well under way the back rows were thinned out and the lobby was the scene of a squabble, where women were unsuccessfully demanding their money back and vehemently reproaching the box office and the promoters who had arranged for the lecture.

The great majority, however, heard Mrs. Asquith to the end and applauded her generously.

Mrs. Asquith showed something of her power and masterfulness back of the stage by defying the corps of deities of photographers which over-awed Marshal Poch, Gen. Pershing and a long line of heroes and statesmen. She was told to look into the camera, but replied: "I will not. I am too old a hand to look into the lens. I am not such a fool."

"It is the work of an idiot to look into a flashlight."

BLAME DUMAS FOR FLOPPY OVERSHOES

Murder will out; also, likewise the reason for certain things, which are inclined at first to baffling, will in the end be explained. And so the explanation of the freak style of the "floppy overshoe" has at last been obtained. And curiously it can be traced away back into the middle of the nineteenth century and the responsibility placed on the head of no lesser light than the famous Alexandre Dumas, French litterateur.

It seems that after Alexandre had given the world his striking "Monte Christo," he sat down to write "The Three Musketeers," which for years has run riot through the theatres in two continents. Okay, recently this play was where Douglas Fairbanks is cast in the role of the swashbuckling D'Artagnan, and he is wearing a pair of high boots turned down at the top, and which, when he is walking, he wanders back and forth across the focus. The story was recently featured in the local theatre.

The long three-boots gaiters arrived with the first fall of snow this winter and the sight of "his" making his floppy entrances and exits was sufficient to carry a suggestion to the minds of the overworked operators of the theatre. Presto! The thing was done! The floppy became useless ornaments, capable only of furnishing the theatre with an accompaniment for the march of the scores of female D'Artagnans who daily pass to and fro the city streets.

And who will say what the ghost of Dumas would say were he to visit the earth and witness the modesty of his wholly innocent costume of his now famous hero?

GOOD THINGS COMING TO THE THEATRES OF ST. JOHN

"Without Benefit of Clergy" At Imperial

N. Y. Post: "It is so seldom that one can say that a written masterpiece transferred to the screen remains a masterpiece that it is almost an honor to say it. 'Without Benefit of Clergy' is the best example of the purely lyrical film that has come out of an American studio. All of it has distinct pictorial quality. It is simply and naturally told, and the acting is uniformly excellent."

SOME DOUBT ABOUT KEEPING OFFICE GOING

Situation Today Relative to Employment Bureau in St. John.

There is some doubt that the St. John Registration and Employment office, which has been doing such good work in connection with the unemployment situation, will be able to continue. It has been found necessary to remove from the present address of the office the furniture and the work will be stopped unless other accommodations are forthcoming. An office has been offered in the Bank of Montreal building on the condition that it be furnished by the owners. The Rotary Club as a whole are willing to co-operate with any other society in providing the furniture and the work will be continued. It is hoped that something may happen in the near future to enable this office to continue to work for the benefit of the community.

One of the troubles they have had to deal with, Major Burroughs says, is the reluctance of men to register their names with the office. He says that the unit is connected in some way with charity work. This office, he said, reached the point of making their services available to the community and by value of the advertising done got work of more importance than the office could handle. Five jobs were filled this morning, three temporary and one permanent for women and one temporary for a man.

TREATIES READ IN PLENARY SESSION

The replacement table, carried in chapter two, construct two new capital ships not to exceed 35,000 tons, standard displacement each and on their completion dispose of the Thunderer, King George V, Ajax and Centaur under the scrapping rules.

Article three is the agreement of the powers to "abandon their respective capital ship building programmes," and to build or acquire no new capital ships except as replacement tonnage and under the replacement agreement, ships thus replaced to be disposed of as provided for in chapter two.

Naval Ratio.

Article four is the naval ratio agreement stated in standard displacement tonnage aggregates for capital ship replacement as follows:

United States, 325,000 tons; British Empire, 225,000 tons; France, 180,000 tons; Italy, 175,000 tons; Japan, 180,000 tons.

These aggregates the powers agree not to exceed.

Article five fixes the 35,000 ton capital ship maximum displacement, or, if constructed by, or for, or within the jurisdiction of any of the contracting powers, shall carry a gun with a calibre in excess of 16 inches.

Article six provides that no carrier shall exceed 10,000 tons displacement, or, if constructed by, or for, or within the jurisdiction of any of the contracting powers, shall carry a gun with a calibre in excess of 16 inches.

Article seven provides that no aircraft carrier shall exceed 10,000 tons displacement, or, if constructed by, or for, or within the jurisdiction of any of the contracting powers, shall carry a gun with a calibre in excess of 16 inches.

Article eight provides that replacement of aircraft carriers shall be effected only as prescribed in chapter two, part three, "but specifies that all such tonnage built or building before November 12, 1921, be regarded as experimental and replaceable without regard to the age of the ships."

Article nine provides that no aircraft carrier exceeding 10,000 tons shall be constructed by, or for, or within the jurisdiction of any of the contracting powers, except that each of the contracting powers, shall be limited to a maximum of 35,000 tons, or, if converted, shall not exceed 35,000 tons, or, if converted, shall not exceed 35,000 tons, or, if converted, shall not exceed 35,000 tons.

Article ten provides that no carrier shall carry a gun heavier than 8 inch calibre. It provides also, without prejudice to the limit of eight inch guns per ship for the 35,000 ton carriers) for a permissible limit of ten guns if the armament carried includes guns exceeding six inches in calibre. If the armament contained no guns exceeding six inches, the number of guns is not limited. It also is provided that the number of anti-aircraft guns for no gun exceeding five inch calibre, "is not limited."

Article eleven provides that no warship exceeding 10,000 tons displacement shall be constructed by, or for, or within the jurisdiction of any of the contracting powers, except that each of the contracting powers, shall be limited to a maximum of 35,000 tons, or, if converted, shall not exceed 35,000 tons, or, if converted, shall not exceed 35,000 tons.

Article twelve provides that no warship exceeding 10,000 tons displacement shall be constructed by, or for, or within the jurisdiction of any of the contracting powers, except that each of the contracting powers, shall be limited to a maximum of 35,000 tons, or, if converted, shall not exceed 35,000 tons, or, if converted, shall not exceed 35,000 tons.

Article thirteen provides that no vessel designated to be scrapped may be converted into a war vessel.

Article fourteen provides that no preparation shall be made in merchant ships in peace time for installations of armaments "for the purpose of converting such ships into war vessels, other than the stiffening of decks for the mounting of guns not exceeding six inch calibre."

Article fifteen provides that no vessel of war shall be constructed within the jurisdiction of the contracting powers for any other power shall exceed six inches and armaments "for the purpose of converting such ships into war vessels, other than the stiffening of decks for the mounting of guns not exceeding six inch calibre."

Article sixteen provides that, where warship building is undertaken within the jurisdiction of a contracting power, for a non-contracting power, full information as to such ship shall be communicated to the other four contracting powers.

Article seventeen provides that, "in the event of a contracting power being engaged in war, such power shall not use as a vessel of war any vessel of war which was constructed within its jurisdiction for any other power, or which may have been constructed within its jurisdiction for another power and not delivered."

Article eighteen provides that no contracting power shall dispose of a vessel of war by "any mode of transfer" so that it may become a war vessel of any foreign power.

Article nineteen provides that "the U. S., British Empire and Japan agree that the status quo at the time of the signing of the present treaty with regard to fortifications and naval bases shall be maintained in their respective territories and possessions specified hereunder."

Article twenty provides that "the U. S., British Empire and Japan agree that the status quo at the time of the signing of the present treaty with regard to fortifications and naval bases shall be maintained in their respective territories and possessions specified hereunder."
