

SOME VAGARIES OF THE GOLFER

One Drove His Ball Through Streets of London in the
"Wee Sma' Hours."

The "ways of a man with a mallet" are not more strange or varied than the ways of a man with his golf clubs, says Tit-Bits.

Only a few months ago early risers were amazed to see a golfer chasing his "wee sma' ba' " through the streets of London. Driving off from Piccadilly Circus, he pursued his ball through Waterloo Place and Trafalgar Square, up the Strand and Fleet Street, and triumphantly reached the last "hole"—a lamp post facing the Royal Exchange—without having disabled a solitary policeman or broken a single window pane.

A few weeks later another enthusiast tried off for the first round of the York Royal Country Club links at Philadelphia, at 5.55 a.m., and went on until he had completed his tenth round at 11.55 a.m.

8.30 p.m., after traversing a distance of over forty miles. But even this feat had been eclipsed a few years earlier by Lieut. H. B. Lumstedt, a young Scotsman who chased his ball round the Balgowrie links from twenty minutes past two in the morning till a quarter past eight in the evening, completing a dozen rounds in 990 strokes.

By Lantern Light.

There are even golfers who, finding the day too short to satisfy their zest for the game, do not scruple to snatch a few hours from the night. At Logan's Port, Indiana, not long ago, a match was played at night by rival teams, half of the competitors wearing women's clothes. Each putting green was illuminated by Chinese lanterns, and each hole with luminous paint. The balls and clubheads were painted with phosphorus.

On the St. Andrew's links, Davie Strait once completed the round in ninety-five strokes by the light of the moon; and on the Port of Park links, Mr. E. Markham and Mr. C. L. Richmond not long ago played a match by lantern light. Years ago, Lord Kennedy and a Mr. Cruikshank played three holes under still more difficult conditions for a stake of £500 a hole. The game commenced at 10 o'clock at night, and no light was allowed except a lantern at each hole. The players actually made

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents—Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.

out the holes in about the same number of strokes they would have taken in daylight.

For wagers, Mr. Donald McLean once drove a ball over Melville's Monument in St. Andrew Square, Edinburgh; another golfer drove off from Burnside links and holed out on the top of Arthur's Seat, a feat of almost inconceivable skill and difficulty while two members of the Burgess Golfing Club drove seven balls out of twelve over St. Giles' steeple, 160 feet high.

Some years ago the Luffness course was the scene of an extraordinary match between the Rev. Mr. Tait and "Old Tom" Morris, the former pitting his bow and arrow against the veteran golfer's clubs. In the round of eighteen holes the bow scored a signal victory. But the player has by no means a monopoly of either freaks or feats, for the ball itself runs him very close. When it leaves the club you never know what tricks it will perform before it comes to rest. Thus we read of one ball which decapitated a wastrel in its flight; of another which killed a hare; and of two others which slaughtered a weasel and a sea-gull in one afternoon.

Balls have found refuge in a cow's mouth, in a player's pocket, in a pillow-case pegged on a clothes line, and behind a picture hanging on a cottage wall. One ball was discovered lying peacefully in a bird's nest, another disappeared down the clubhouse chimney, and one, the most adventurous of all, was caught by the engine-driver of a passing train and carried forty miles before it came to earth again, thus completing a "drive" which might well make Duncan or Mitchell gasp.

FOG AND RAIN

Montreal, Aug. 15.—All liners coming up the Gulf and River during the last few days have been delayed by fog and rain with the result that the Pretorian and the Corsican, of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services, will not dock here until tomorrow morning. The Megantic, of the White Star-Dominion line, was reported tonight to be anchored in Murray Bay, on account of the bad weather.
