

counted the milestones as we went along. We had a Thanksgiving Tea at the Church. Mrs. C. sets a sum for me every second night, and the nights that I don't do a sum, I write in my copybook. Saturday evening I learn my verses for Sunday School. I go to the Methodist Church. Our Anniversary is next Sunday. We have been practising for two or three weeks, but I did not go on the very wet evenings, for Mrs. C. thought I might get a cold. The little girl next door comes and plays with baby and I, and the three of us play together. I have two new dresses, a light brown, and a dark brown cashmere. I wear the light brown dress in the afternoons when I take the baby out, and the cashmere on Sundays. I think I'll close my letter now.

Yours sincerely,

VIOLET C.

We desire, without particularizing, to thank all the friends who have in anyway contributed to the welfare of the Home, and trust that a kindly Providence will still bless and prosper the work we are striving to accomplish.
