following:-

But we must return to the man's own life, a needful comment upon his thought and teaching. After a brilliant course at the university came a trial and a failure as a teacher. He failed to maintain discipline among disorderboys; and he recognized that his path lay elsewhere. And soon came the clear call, and he entered at the seminary of Alexandria, and spent there three years full of intense and painful study.

Not only biblical knowledge, but all other branches of the "Queen of Sci-ences," engaged his earnest labors. Chiefly the historical and philosophical aspect of religious thought appealed to him. An admirable classical scholar, he could enter into the niceties of philological argument, while his broad intelligence soared above mere disputes on syllables and accents. Hardly a young man can have prepared himself so thoroughly for the re-sponsibilities and labors of the gospe ministry.

He came at last to Boston among friends and kinsfolk, among those who knew him, his origin, family, rearing and education. This was an ordeal in itself. For activity in one's own country, and among one's kinsfolk,-in its way as formidable as the stranger's entry into labors amid scenes and persons all unknown.

Who can describe his preaching?-The internal side, one can never; but the treatment, the free rushing of thought and expression, are in our me-mories. Here are a few selections from his notes for sermons: (A) "Elias was a man subject like passions as we are.-General tendency to think "great men greater than we are. Settle it that privilege "belong with character, and then there "work no arbitrary inequality." "And I will not be judged by any that never fett the like." (R. Baxter on his wife's death.)

(B) "The First Fruits of them the slept.-Christ made death seem to be a sleep. He established, that is, that sleep in its two figures. Sleep brings back the energy of the last morning, only with the added wisdom and experience of the first day. So with the resurrection life of Ohrist. Restored to the image of God, only with the experience of life put in."

It is important to understand that It is important to understand that men like Phillips Brooks, Stanley, and those of like opinions, form no third party in the church. Their gospel is meither more for less than the Gospel of a Crucified Saviour. Their church order is neither more nor less than the order of the church to which they gave allegiance. But their distinctive tenet is to ad

But their distinctive tener is to ad-mit brotherhood with those who some-times deny it to themselves. They dis-like sacerdotalism and ritualism, and yet cannot excommunicate those who may be doing good in their way. They are far removed from the low theology

And yet, as we think with joy and thankfulness upon such a servant of God, St. Paul's warning comes to our memory, and checks all inordinate hero worship, all latter day canoniz ing:-

"Who then is Paul, and who is Apollos, but ministers by whom ye believed, even as the Lord gave to every man? I have planted, Apollos water ed, but God gave the increase."

In the stores, offices and factories are to be found scores of girls and women who are entirely unfit for the daily round of toil. They are compelled to be on their feet until every nerve and muscle is tired and aching, and when night comes are so thoroughly worn out and nervous as to be unable to rest or sleep. The strain, the monotonous hum of machinery and the tremendous expenditure of nerve force is more than their systems can stand, and sooner or later they are obliged to give up the battle-worn out, nervous, irritable and despondent.

But it isn't necessary for women who work either in factory or home to be overcome by nerve exhaustion. There is a preparation, known as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which replenishes the wasted nerve force and increases the vigor and vitality of the body. If taken regularly and persistently Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will restore and revitalize the most exhausted and debilitated nervous system. It simply cannot fail, because it contains all the elements of nature which go to create new nerve force and vital energy.

Nervous Prostration

Mrs. D. W. Cronsberry, 103 Richmond street west, Toronto,

"My daughter, who sews in a white goods manufactory, got completely run down by the steady confinement and close attention required at her work. Her nerves were so exhausted, and she was so weak and debil-Mtated that she had to give up work entirely, and was al-most a victim of nervous prostration.

"Hearing of Dr. Chase's Nerve "Hearing of Dr. Chase s Nerve Food she began to use it and was benefited from the very first. It proved an excellent remedy in restoring her to health and strength. After having used four boxes, she is now at work again, healthy and happy, and attributes her recovery to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Is prepared in condensed pill form, from the favorite prescription of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous recipe book author. The above cut of box is shown in order that you may not be deceived by imitations. Imitators do not dare to reproduce the doctor's portrait and signature, which appear on every box of the genuine. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is different from any medicine you ever used. Instead of tearing down the tissues and deadening the nerves, this great restorative cures by building up the system and reconstructing the feeble, wasted nerve cells. 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
