FOR THEY SHOWED KINDNESS.

Love, Which God Is, Thus Manifesting Proves Its Divinity in That It Unites in Conscious Brotherhood All Who Live and Suffer.

Washington, Sept. 22.-In this discourse Dr. Talmage commends the spirit of amity and good feeling and mentions illustrious examples of that spirit; text, Acts xxviii, 2, "The barbarous people showed us no little

Here we are on the Island of Malta, another name for Melita. This island, which has always been an important commercial centre, longing at different times to Phoenicia, to Greece, to Rome, to Arabia, to Spain, to France, now be-The area of the island is about 100 square miles. It is in the Mediterranean Sea and of such clarity of atmosphere that Mount Aetna, 130 miles away, can be distinctly seen. The island is gloriously memorable because the Knights of Malta for a long while ruled there, but most famous bese of the apostolic shipwreck. The bestormed vessel on which Paul sailtack, and the wind was blowing east-noitheast, and, the vessel drifting probably a mile and a half an hour, she struck at what is now called St. Paul's bay. Practical sailors have taken up the Bibre account and decided beyond controversy the place of the shipwreck. But the island, which has so rough a coast, is for the most part a garden. Richest fruits and a profusion of honey characterized it in Paul's time as well as now. The finest or-Reliable Men in every locality through-out Canada to introduce crawled up on the beach, saturated and hungry from long abstinence from food and chilled to the bone, the islanders, though called barbarians because they could not speak Greek, opened their doors to the shipwrecked unfortunates. Everything had gone to the bottom of the deep, and the barefooted, bareheaded apostle and ship's crew were in a condition to appreciate hospitality.

About twenty-five such men a few years ago I found in the life station near East Hampton, Long Island. They had got ashore the night from the and not a hat or shoe had they left. They found out, as Paul and his fellow voyagers found out, that the sea is the roughest of all robbers. My text finds the ship's crew ashore on Malta and around a hot fire drying themselves and with the best provision the islanders can offer them. And they go into Government quarters for three days to viting them, although he had severe sickness in the house at the time, his father down with a dangerous illness. Yea, for three months they staid on the island watching for a ship and putting the hospitalities of the islanders to a severe test. But it endured the test satisfactorily, and it is recorded for all the ages of time and eternity to read and hear in regard to the inhabitants of Malta, "The barbarous people showed us no little kindness.' Kindness! What a great word that is! It would take a reed as long as that which the apocalyptic angel used to measure heaven to tell the length, the breadth, the height of that munificent word. It is a favorite Bible word, and it is early launched in the book of Genesis, caught up in the book of Joshua, embraced in the book of Ruth, sworn in the book of Psalms and enthroned in many places in the New Testament. Kindness! A word no more gentle than mighty. I expect it will wrestle me down before I get through with it. It is strong en-ough to throw an archangel. But it will be well for us to stand around it and warm ourselves by its glow as Paul and his fellow voyagers stood around the fire on the Island of Malta, where the Maltese made themselves immortal in my text by the way they treated their victims of the sea. "The barbarous people showed us no little kindness." Kindness! All definitions of that multipotent word break down half way. You say it is clemency, be-nignity, generosity; it is made up of good wishes; it is an expression of beneficience; it is a contribution to the happiness of others. Some one else says, "Why, I can give you a definition of kindness; it is sunshine of the soul; it is affection perennial; it is a climacteric grace; it is the passion; it is the perfection of gentle manliness and womanliness." Are you all through? You have made a dead failure in your definition. It cannot be defined, but we all know what it is, for we have all felt its power. Some of you may have felt it as Paul felt it, on some coast of rock as the ship went to pieces, but more of us have again and again either from earth or heaven hands stretched out which "showed us no little kindness."

There is kindness of disposition, kindness of word, kindness of act, and there is Jesus Christ, the imness! You cannot affect it. You cannot play it as a part. You cannot enact it. By the grace of God you must have it inside you, an everlasting summer, or, rather, a combination of June and October, the geniality of the one and the tonic of the other. It cannot dwell with arrogance or spite or revenge with arrogance or spite or revenge or malevolence. At its first appear-ance in the soul all these Amalekites and Gergishites and Hittites and Jebusites must quit, and quit 107-every child well, every bird every horse well, every dog every cat well. Give this spirit full swing, and you would have no more need of societies for prevention of cruelty to animals, no more need of protective sewing wo-man's associations, and it would dull every sword until it would not cut skin deep, and unwheel every battery till it could not roll, and make gunpowder of no more use in or pyrotechnic celebration. Kind-ness is a spirit divinely implanted and in answer to prayer, and then to be sedulously cultivated until it fills all the nature with a perfume richer and more pungent than mignonetto and, as if you put a tuft of that aromatic beauty behind the clock on the mantel or in some corner where nobody can see it, you find people walking about your room looking this way and that, and you ask them, "What are you looking for?" and they answer, "Where is that flower?" so if one has in his soul this infinite sweetness of disposition its perfume will whelm everything. Let us all pray for the spirit of kindness. It will settle a thousand questions. It will change the phase of everything. It will mellow through and through our entire nature. It will transform a lifetime. It is not tors were cultured. O God, implant kindness in all our souls and then it, to develop it!

Still further, I must speak of kind-an unpleasant? Do you tell him of agreeable things you have heard about him or the disagreeable? When he leaves you does he feel better or the tongue for the production of hapfrom the way the tongue is caged in we might take the hint that it has a dangerous power. First it is chained to the back part of the mouth by strong muscle. Then it is sur-rounded by the teeth of the lower jaw, so many ivory bars, and then by the teeth of the upper jaw, more ivory bars. Then, outside of all, are the two lips, with the power of compression and arrest. And yet, notwithstanding these four imprisonments or limitations, how many take no hint in regard to the dangerous power of the tongue, and the results are laceration, scarification and dam-nation. There are those if they know a good thing about you and a bad thing will mention the bad thing heard the good thing. Now, there character, and we have the choice of overhauling the virtue or the vice. We can greet Paul and the ship's crew as they come up the beach of Malta with the words: "What a sorry looking set you are! How little of navigation you must know to run on these rocks! Didn't you know better than to put out on the Mediterran-ean this wintry month? It was not not have gone to pieces as soon as that. Well, what do you want? We have hard enough work to make a living for ourselves without having thrust on us 276 ragamuffins." Not so said the Maltese. I think they said: "Come in! Sit down by the fire and warm yourselves. Glad that yourself at home. You are welcome to all we have until some ship comes in sight and you resume your voy age. Here, let me put a bandage on your forehead, for that is an ugly gash you got from the floating timters. And here is a man with a broken arm; we will have a doctor come to attend to this fracture."

And, though for three months the kindness went on we have little more than this brief record: "The barbarous people showed us no little kindness. Oh, say the cordial thing! Say the useful thing. Say the hospitable thing. Say the helpful thing. Say the Christlike thing. Say the kind thing. I admit that it is easier for some are born pessimists, and some are born optimists, and that demonstrates itself all through everything. A man of good reputation is assailed and charged with some evil deed. At the first story the pessimist will believe in guilt. "The papers said so, and that's enough. Down with him!" The optimist will say: "I don't believe a word of it. I don't think that seemingly honest for twenty years could have got off track like that. There are two sides to this story, and I will wait to hear the side before I condemn him." My hearer, if you are by nature a pessimist, make a special effort by the simist, make a special effort by the grace of God to extirpate the dolorous and the hypercritical from your disposition. Believe nothing against ed by at least two witnesses of integrity. And, if guilt be proved, find

When you can speak a good word for some one, speak it. If you can conscientiously give a letter of re-commendation, give it. Watch for op-portunities for doing good fifty years after you are dead. All my life has been affected by the letter of in-troduction that Rev. D. Van Vrankhim, when I was seeking a settlement in which to preach the gospel. That letter gave me my first pulpit. Dr. Van Vranken has been dead more than thirty years, yet I feel the touch of that magnificent old professor. Strange sensation was it when I received a kind message from Rev. Thomas Guard of Baltimore, the great Methodist orator, six weeks after his death! By way of the eternal world? Oh, no; by way of this world. I did not meet the friend to whom he gave the message until nearly two months of the contracting and the properties of fixed street.

Kindness to miscreants, kindness to persecutors, kindness to the crippled and the blind and the cataleptic and the leprous and the dropsical and the way and on the cross; kindness to the bandits suffering on the side of him, and kindness to the execu-tioners while yet they pushed the tioners while yet they pushed the spear and hammered the spikes and howled the blasphemies. All the stories of the John Howards and the Florence Nightingales and the Grace Darlings and the Ida Lewises pale before this transcendent example of him whose birth and life and death are the greatest story that the world ever heard and the theme of the mightiest hosanna that heaven ever lifted. Yea, the very kindness that allowed both hands to be nailed to the horizontal timber of the cross with that cruel thump, thump, now stretches down from the skiesthose same hands filled with balm for all our wounds, forgiveness for all our crimes, rescue for all our serfdoms. And while we take this matchless word, written our last cutting paration, felt our last revengeful heart throb. And it would not be a bad epitaph for any of us if, by the grace of God, from this time forth we lived such beneficient lives that the tombstone's chisel could appropriately cut upon the plain slab that marks our grave a suggestion from the text, "He showed us no little kindness." But not until the last child of God has got ashore from the earthly storms that drove him on the rocks like Mediterranean Euroclydons, not until all the thrones of heaven are mounted, and all the conquerors crowned, and all the harps and trumpets and organs of heaven are thrummed or blown or sounded and the ransomed of all climes and ages are in full chorus under the jubilant swing of angelic baton, and we shall for thousands of years have seen the river from under the throne rolling into the "sea of glass mingled with fire," and this world we now inhabit shall be so far in the past that only a stretch of celestial memory can recall that it ever existed at all, not until then will we understand what Nehemiah calls "the great kindness," and Isaiah calls "the everlasting kind-
