ATOPSY ON BODY OF DR. HARRIS WILL LIKELY BE MADE

Such Will Possibly Give Authorities Some Idea of Motive of Crime—Dr. Harris' Recovery is Despaired Of.

Boston, July 19.—The autopsy on the body of Dr. Cella Adams, who, according to the police, poisoned herself yesterday, a few hours before her fiancé, Dr. Harris, was fatally wounded. Dr. Harris, was anticipated today as likely to have an important bearing on the motive of the crime, as explained by Atwood. The only light thrown on the suicide and assault, which aroused peculiar interest because of the prominence of the persons involved, was volunteered by Atwood, who told the police that the young woman had intimated to him, the night before her death, that she could not marry him because she had been compromised by Dr. Harris.

Dr. Harris Will Not Live. Atwood, a youth of 29 years, was arrested in court this morning, and in default of bonds of $15,000, was committed to jail for a further hearing on July 28. The proceedings were brief. The prisoner was not represented by counsel, and did not plead. He appeared calm and later said that he had nothing to add to the statement which he made when he was placed under arrest last night.

The adjournment of the case was expected in the condition of Dr. Harris. It was stated at the hospital that he was very low, and it was feared he could not survive many hours.

The version of the cause of the shooting given by Atwood was scouted by Dr. Harris during a brief period. He referred to his assailant as "a young fool." The wounded man's statement was stoutly supported by many friends. Both Miss Adams, who was 27 years of age, and Atwood had been pupils at the Massachusetts College of Osteopathy, of which Dr. Harris was head, and according to mutual acquaintances he had counseled the young man against marrying a girl so much his senior.

F. Adams, the father of the girl, stated that he also opposed the match. Late last night, Medical Examiner George B. Magrath communicated with the district attorney's office, which approved the autopsy.

There were indications that the girl had died from an overdose of a drug, self-administered, as she was found dying in her office, the doors of which had been locked and bolted from within. It was understood, however, that the physical condition of Miss Adams would be determined, with a view to substantiating or disproving the motive of the shooting, as alleged by Atwood.

Harris Prominent Physician. Dr. Harris is distinguished by mutual acquaintances as standing high in his profession, and socially. He led the fight in the legislature for the legal recognition of the practice of osteopathy. Originally he was a general practitioner, and after he had taken up osteopathy many of his patients still insisted upon going to him for relief, and to these he prescribed medicines of the old school whenever he deemed them necessary. His wife, who acted as his secretary, was formerly Miss Jean C. H. Van Allen, of Morrisburg (Ont.). Their home is in Cambridge.

FIGHTING ORANGEMAN INSPIRES PATRIOTISM

Salisbury, July 17.—James McWilliams of this place received a letter recently from his son, Gordon, who enlisted last year and went overseas some months ago. A letter enclosed for the young soldier in the letter was a copy of a leaflet, being handed to your correspondent for publication—according to Mr. McWilliams' letter there is evidently an optimistic feeling in England regarding the progress of the war. Following is a copy of the letter:

Shorncliffe Camp, June 14, 1916. To The Worshipful Master, Officers, Brothers of McWilliams L. O. L. No. 68, Salisbury, Westmorland County (N. B.).

Dear Brothers, I regret very much not to be able to attend the annual celebration on July 19, but I thought I would drop you a few lines to let you know that I would be there in mind, if not in person.

But I feel that it is the duty of an Orangeman to defend the flag and not allow it to be trodden upon. So I feel that I have not drawn my sword in an unjust cause, but to help to defend our empire. We trust that things will be settled up in the near future, so we will be able to attend the next celebration on July 12, 1917. Wishing all the members of McWilliams L. O. L. No. 68, an enjoyable time on July 12, 1916, I remain your obedient servant, C. L. T. DRIVER GORDON McWILLIAMS, C. A. S. C. Canadian Expeditionary Force, Army Post Office, London (Eng.).

The Test. (Philadelphia Bulletin.) "Efficiency has been getting the laugh of late because its engineers claimed too much for it."

The speaker was Dr. Harris Dulles Rhodes, the efficiency expert of Denver.

"Yes," he continued, "the average efficiency engineer brags as stupidly about efficiency as the correspondence school principal who said: 'We are proud, and credibly told, that it takes seven years to write his book on the efficiency of the Country Club. Yet if Gray had been adept in our system of stenography he could have written the piece in seven days.'"

Every sufferer from Asthma knows the terror, the abject fear that overcomes them when struggling for breath. The old-fashioned remedies may relieve, but never cure. Best results come from Catarhosone, which cures Asthma after hope is abandoned. It's because Catarhosone kills the asthma germ that it cures. Choking spells and labored breathing are relieved, suffocating sensations and loss of breath are cured. Every trace of asthma is driven from the system, and even old chronic experiences immediate relief and lasting cure. Equally good for emphysema, throat trouble and asthma. The large one dollar outfit includes the inhaler and lasts two months, sold by all dealers or from The Catarhosone Co., Kingston, Canada.

ST. JOHN OFFICER WHO CARRIED OUT DARING EXPLOIT AT FRONT

Lieut. Kelly Managed to Drag Heavy Field Gun Into Front Line Trench

From This Vantage Point He Demoralized German Stronghold Which Contained Nest of Machine Guns—Whole Battery Volunteered for Dangerous Task.

Thursday, July 20. That a St. John officer was responsible for the taking of an eighteen pounder into the front line trench and from that point bombarding the German trenches, is the assertion made by Edward J. Puddy, late sergeant of the 1st Canadian Field Artillery.

In speaking to The Telegraph he said that St. John people would be interested to know that Lieut. Kelly of this city, who left with the First Canadian Contingent under Major Magee, was the man in charge of the gun. Sergeant Puddy tells the story as follows:

"I happened to be very near when the incident happened. Orders were received by Major Ralston, 4th battery, to get volunteer detachments to destroy what was considered an impregnable position known as Stony Ridge at Duck's Bill near Greshyachy. As everyone wanted to volunteer for it, two guns were picked out, one from the right and one from the left half battery. These guns were taken up to shell the battered village of Greshyachy. There the wheels were modified with socks and old motor tires, and during the night they were taken into the front line, about seventy-five yards from the concrete and steel top cupola forts full of machine guns.

"At a given signal the guns, which had 100 rounds each of high explosive shells to fire, gave 'Fritz' the surprise of his life. Lieut. Kelly's gun fired about twenty rounds and then sailed skyward, the result of a big
