RUNNYMEDE (EP)—June 15, 1215 Prince John today appointed a commission to investigate county forestry policies. The royal decree promised "restoration of all areas seized as forests in our time" and went on to promise "an investigation by twelve Knights in each county." The Knights were encouraged to investigate "all evil customs" of "foresters and warreners".

Reports from Runnymede state that the Prince did not fully agree with the content of the decree, but was persuaded into accordance by the Barons and Lords, who are said to be growing increasingly dissatisfied with the Prince John administration.

A spokesman for the E.I.F. & W. (English Institute of Foresters and Warreners) denied the practice of evil customs, insisted that the profession had a strict code of ethics to which it adhered most closely.

The president of the Nottingham local No. 12, E.I.F. & W., Mr. I. Hoppa, insisted that his membership had accomplished a great deal without government interference.

"At one of our recent meetings we voted overwhelmingly to expel from membership any person found practicing sorcery, and no sorcer holds office in the organization to the best of my knowledge. Rumors that this labor organization is witch controlled are completely unfounded."

He went in to indicate that scientific forestry was being practiced in the forests of Nottingham, which are now being managed on a sustained yield basis. He also noted that "we will attain continuous production of galloway timber by 1230, and expect to be able to meet total county demands by that time."

An interview with Sir I. Lookalot, who has headed numerous commissions with great success, revealed that perhaps an investigation was wisely called for. In an exclusive roundtable interview Sir Lookalot explained that "in my opinion forestry practices in this and other counties are badly in need of investigation. There seems to be considerable evidence in support of suspicions that the E.I.F. & W. is under witch control, and many of us question the right of foresters to supplement their income acting as highwaymen. The E.I.H. (English Institute of Highwaymen) has complained bitterly of infringement upon their rights, and the president of the Nottingham Forest local of that group, a Mr. R. Hood, has launched a bitter complaint. "I only hope that this investigation can do something to rectify the wrongs that we are certain to find," he concluded.

WHERE IS MAC ?

One of the most faithful columnists to produce copy for last term's Brunswickan was the mysterious character known simply as "MAC".

He has failed to make an appearance since the Brunswickan resumed publication after Christmas. Could it possibly be that MAC is one of those students who was asked to leave following the Christmas Exams? On the assumption that he is not, his picture is shown here with the hopes that someone may have seen him — on or off the campus.

MAC has gained a reputation for his controversial column. There are many students who probably breathe sighs of relief when they note his absence, however, for the few who may be interested, please give a hand in the search for MAC.

NEW SAPS MEET TONIGHT

The Sociology, Anthropology and Psychology Society — better remembered as SAP Society — is one of the newest organizations to appear on the campus.

The new society was formed last fall by professors and students, particularly interested in the subjects concerned. Barbara Pepperdene is chairman of the committee which includes Professor T. F. S. McFeat and Charlene Hallett.

SAPS will hold monthly meetings which will feature panels, discussions, guest speakers, and also occasional field trips. The next meeting will be held this evening in the New Lounge of the Student Centre at 4.45 p.m. The meeting will highlight a discussion on "Postgraduate Study — How, Why, When, Where".

MODEL PARLIAMENT PLANNED BY TORIES

The Progressive Conservative Club held its first meeting of the spring term last Tuesday. First on the agenda was a discussion of the plans of the Tories for a Model Parliament. David Covert, third year Arts student, was named chairman of a committee of three to meet with representatives of other parties wishing to participate in the Parliament.

The P.C.'s also heard an address by the Hon. R. G. L. Fairweather, the Attorney-General of the Province. Mr. Fairweather spoke of the proposed Canadian Bill of Rights and some aspects of provincial affairs.

The Tories are now planning to issue a challenge to any other party or parties to oppose them in a campus election and Model Parliament.

On Fireplaces

by Jo-Ann Carr

There are times when the "good ol' days" don't look half bad. Now, for instance, with a fire crackling, spueing smoke and sulphurous fumes into the room.

If it weren't for "South Pacific" drifting around, I could almost see myself, sprawled in front of a fire-place in a Loyalist dwelling, draughty of course; back in the early days of Ste. Anne's Point. (My knowledge of local history is now exhausted) My mother, a dark, severe woman (cross between Laura Secord and Queen Victoria) enters. She walks quickly across the uneven plank floor. Her moccasins, with a picture of Davy Crockett on the toes, make a gentle swishing sound. She pauses ominously above me, glances severely and in a strong Yankee accent, with a touch of Puritan, rasps;

"Get ye to worke. The floors to be scrubbed, the bread, mixed, the cow, stabled; the milk, churned; your Math. 200 to do; etc., etc."

When you come to think about it, "South Pacific" is a pretty record.

And then there was the sophomore who sowed his wild oats on Saturday night and went to church Sunday to pray for a crop failure.

To prevent duplication of meeting times and places and to ensure a listing in THE BRUNSWICKAN, please report all campus events to SHEILA CAUGHAY, campus coordinator, at the Maggie Jean Chestnut House (Phone GRanite 5-9061).

A VOICE FROM THE PAST

The main theme on the campus this year is expansion. The plans include many new buildings. There was a time, in the not too distant past, when our so-called old buildings were the pride and joy of UNB. The following editorial is taken from a Brunswickan published in October, 1923.

THE NEW BUILDING

On climbing up the old College hill this term the first thing to catch the eye was the already completed foundation of the new building, situated on the left and in front of the Arts Building.

This structure will be known as the Memorial Hall and will at once provide excellent new accommodations for several departments and serve as a splendid monument to those sons of the University, some thirty-four in number, who layed down their lives in the Great War. As was most fitting, the corner stone of the building was laid by His Excellency the Governor-General, Baron Byng of Vimy, who commanded the Canadian Corps in France during a long period. This ceremony was carried out on the afternoon of July 3rd. A convocation was first held in the Library and the degree of LL.D. conferred on His Excellency, after which a procession was formed. The party proceeded to a platform which had been erected in readiness on the site of the new hall, and the corner stone was placed in position with fitting ceremony in the presence of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province, members of the Legislature and the Senate of the University.

The main entrance of the hall will face the river and will be approached by means of a porch of much the same design as that of the Arts building. The construction will be of brick, with concrete foundations. The frontage of the building will be one hundred and seven feet with a maximum depth of one hundred and fourteen feet. The basement will contain a large dynamo room on the left of the entrance. In the centre will be dark and photometry rooms and accommodations for the heating plant and at the back a kitchen, pantry and a lunch room. The kitchen will be connected with one of the dressing rooms in the Memorial Hall above by means of a dumbwaiter. On the right side of the basement will be rooms for thesis and research work, and store rooms.

Immediately inside the entrance on the main floor there will be a stair hall, floored with tile, which will open into the Memorial Hall proper. This floor will contain Physics laboratories on the left and Physics lecture room and offices on the right. The same arrangement will be carried out on the second floor for housing the Chemistry department.

The Memorial Hall itself will be the full height of the two stories. It will be forty-five feet in width and seventy feet in depth, and will be surrounded by a gallery at the height of the first story. A stage with dressing rooms on either side will occupy the back of the hall. The high windows of most pleasing design will constitute a very notable feature of the hall. These windows are of a shape suitable for the installation of memorial windows, and while they will be glazed with plain glass for the present, it is hoped that such windows will be forthcoming in the future. In a bay on the left of the entrance there will be a large brass tablet bearing the names of all those former students or professors of the institution who lost their lives in the war.

For the erection of this addition to the University's accommodations the Provincial Government subscribed the sum of Fifty thousand dollars, the City of Fredericton Twenty-five thousand dollars and private subscribers Forty-five thousand. Entirely aside from its utilitarian and memorial value, this building means much to us as an expression of the increased interest of the Government and people of the Province in the Provincial University; the interest on the capital invested will soon be available in the shape of better facilities for higher education and the opening of the doors to higher standards of study and research in the field of Science.
