

091498

House of Commons
Canada

Bourinot, following May, says power to expel members from House of Commons is undoubted. Cites number of instances. McCreery's case in the 90's is one.

My original idea that it is a matter of the invocation of a privilege of the House seems to be right. The power to expel is discussed under "privilege."

When the House acts or speaks as to its own privileges of an interior character, (as distinguished from any

MEIGHEN PAPERS, Series 5 (M.G. 26, I, Volume 150)

PUBLIC ARCHIVES
ARCHIVES PUBLIQUES
CANADA