Dear Mr. Meighen:

I have just received yours of September 26th and am somewhat mystified by its first paragraph. I wasn't in Toronto again after seeing you until the day I left to return here and on that occasion had a number of family matters to attend to before going out to Malton to catch my plane. I was indeed in the vicinity of your building but thought you would already have left for home or would be about to leave.

I am intrigued to learn that Eugene has been clipping the wings of one Saywell of the inappropriate name. Must confess I have never heard of this gentleman but hope you or Eugene will not keep me in the dark as to his identity and the grounds on which he has merited Eugene's criticisms.

Have you seen Bruce Hutchison's latest effort, "The Struggle for the Border"? A copy was sent to us but I am certainly in no hurry to read the Hutchison version of Canadian-American relations.

With kindest regards to Mrs. Meighen and yourself, in which Kay joins me.

Yours sincerely,

Rogers
