HAVE A GOOD REPUTATION

'Reputation' is what others think you are; 'character' is what you are; 'character' is what you are. Your character will in a great mesure determine your reputation. It is better to possess character without reputation than to possess reputation without character. Every business man should seek to possess shoth, and that of the highest order. Reputation in business, no less than in social life, goes a long way toward helping the possessor to reach the goal of all ambition—success. In some respects it is a more valuable aid than capital, for the reason that a good reputation in a business man will frequently supply the lack of money, while money alone without reputation will not always enable a man to increase that wealth. A man who is known for his habit of promptly paying bills can always depend on considerate treatment from his creditors, and the deference shown him by principals is invariably imitated by their salesmen. He is treated like a person of distinction, and he is one by the best of all titles. He can always control the best terms for anything he purchases. This would appear to be a disadvatage to the creditor, but it isn't really so. Short credits and prompt payments are worth more than the privileges and conbut it isn't really so. Short credits and prompt payments are worth more than the privileges and concessions by which they are bought, especially in times when business is slow, or when profit depends on rapid sales. Every successful business man knows that quick sales and small profits are better aids to prosperity than holding goods for a rise which may never come or which come too late. If you have a good reputation, guard it carefully; it is of much more value than glittering gold.

ONE ON SANDY

Did you ever hear the story of the thrifty Scotchman, who to save fuel, used to cook up a week's supply of oatmeal and thus had to eat it cold six nights? One week when the sixth night of cold porridge came round, Sandy was without enthusiasm. He looked at the kettle with a cold and unfriendly eye. He tried to swollaw a spoonful of the unappetizing stuff and gagged at it At last he had an idea.

He went to the cupboard took out

He went to the cupboard took out a bottle, poured out a small glass of whiskey, set it beside the porridge and instructed himself thus:

and instructed himself thus:

"Noo, Sandy, an' ye eat the parritch, ye hae a drink o' whiskey."

So with one eye on the glass, he managed to eat the last of the dried and stale oatmeal. Then he went to the cupboard, uncorked the bottle, poured the whiskey back into it and replaced the cork. And he further instructed himself with a triumphant grin: "That's the time I fooled ye Sandy."

DO NOT OVERLOAD YOUR VEHICLES

BITER SARCASM

The referee or umpire's lot is a hard one, as witness the following story from the Boston Transcript:
This final echo of the past football season comes to us. An irate gridiron fan who had watched his team go down to defeat stopped the referee as he was leaving the effeld. "Where's your dog?" he asked.

"Dog?" ejaculated the referee, "I have no dog."
"Well," said the grouchy one, "You're the first blind man I ever "Well," said the grouchy one, "You're the first blind man I ever "You're the first blind man I ever "Saw who didn't have a dog."

—"It is a pleasure to me to write a few lines about Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I used this medicine and can say it is just what I wanted and needed. The sour stomach, heartburn after eating and the gas are gone and I am able to take cold water again. Before I had to take the water hot on account of the stomach trouble. I recommend 'Golden Medical Discovery' to every one who knows what a weak stomach is."—W. E. Waugh.

Hattonford, Alta.—"Being rundown after the flu, I was in a weakoned condition, had dizzy spells and short breathing, followed by faintness. It seemed as though I'd never feel well again, but I was determined not to give up. Hearing of Dr. Pierce's famous 'Golden Medical Discovery' I sent for a bottle, followed the directions, and soon felt less tired and faint, and finally I got back to my normal state. I have thanked God many times for restoring my health, and I gladly recommend this 'Medical Discovery,' for it is so pure, and worth a trial to anyone who is rundown."—Mrs. Gertrude White, Crystal Springs Farm.
