Barber Makes Discovery on Top Knot

Customer Leaves Shop With Half His Hair Clipped-Settled in Court.

The most amusing case in the his lory of the local police court was aulay's court this morning when James E. Stott, an unterrified Engshman, was up on the charge of reating a disturbance in Nick's barer shop on Third avenue

The evidence went to flow that Stott entered the shop Savurday and asked for a hair cut; that he said he ranted it short behind and a beauty lock left in front. Nick put the clip back hair off up to the middle of the head where he struck a sandhar or The barber complained about Stott's head being dirty and the latter told him to quit right leave without paying for the partially completed job. Nick insisted on sing paid and took possession of toft's cap as security for the debt 50 cents when a harmless mixry curred, Peter Presses, a young Italian, acting as peacemaker. Stott placed him under arrest.

In police court this Stott's hair was just as Nick left it, the "beauty lock" being very prominent. - In fact Stott locked as though his hair had been cut with a knife and fork. His honor referred to it as a "ping pong cut."

Nick said he was willing to compiete the job if Stoti would return and pay the 56 cents. The court told & Stott to pay the charge and have the job completed but Stott said if there was no compulsion about going back covered at Clifton, Ariz. The total which were paid by a friend.
