MORE TEXT BOOKS.

One of the features of the last provincial campaign was the fight of the electors against the school book monopoly. A general interest was taken in the matter, and the fact that the Ross government is clinging to office by a majority of one seat, and that seat retained on the strength of four spoiled ballots, shows how strong was the effort the people. made to end the reign of the book

The government claimed that there was no book ring in existence yet it is significant that the firm of Morang & Co which was one of the first to draw attention to the existence of the iron-clad monopoly was permitted to place three text books on the market under authorization of the Education partment a few weeks ago. The books are a public school grammar, geography and phonic primer. This looks like a sop to the Morangs to

The new text books are said to be an improvement over those in use, But as the department has within a want of uniformity and confusion in school books. Mr. Whitney's plan of the teachers in making the selection of matter, making the books thoroughly good, and having them published in government printing bureau, and supplied to the pupils at cost is the proper solution of the problem.

The Ross government's concession to the firm that kicked is a confession that monopoly exists and it dare

A CLEVER ADVERTISER.

"Marie Corelli has a talent for advertising that amounts to genius. Witness her new novel, yet unpublished, which, so says its author, is to deal with a subject never before touched by fiction, but uppermost in men's minds,"-New York Sun. This reminds us of the two tramp fakirs in Mark Twain's book. They were infesting a village down on the Mississippi and got up a fake entertainment. In order to secure a full house they put on the bills, "Women and Children not Admitted." There was a crowded house. The fair Marie certainly is a clever advertiser, She pretends to turn up her lovely nose at the newspaper critics, but she keeps in the papers as much as she can. She is like other people, only more so.

COURAGE ALWAYS PAYS. Toronto Telegram.

There is truth, but not the whole ruth, in the statement that the Spanish River Pulp crowd defeated the Conservative candidates in East Simcoe and Centre Simcoe, and thus prevented J. P. Whitney from becoming Premier of Ontario.

The courage displayed by Mr. Whitney and his followers in fefusing to bow down and serve the Spanish River Pulp Conservatives was worth more to the opposition in votes delivered and constituencies carried than the friendship of the bolters in East Simcoe and Centre Simcoe.

The Conservative party is better off without the friends who can only be kept by the sacrifice of principle and the betrayal of public rights. It is to. Mr. Whitney's everlasting credit that he and his followers did what they thought was right in regard to the pulp concessions. Their courage gained more constituencies for the opposition than the two Simcoes, which may have been taken out of Conservative column by the Spanish River Pulp influence.
