Highlanders' At Home.

A very enjoyable programme was given at the Highlanders' "At Home" in the British Hall last night, including piano solo, Miss Ross; vocal solo, Miss McKinnley; vocal solo, Miss Jean Strang; song, Mr. Miller; recitation, Piper McLeod; instrumental duet, Pipers McFarlane and Miller; song, Miss Bates. All the performers were greeted with well deserved applause and had to respond to encores. After the concert dancing was commenced and kept up till a late hour. The music was furnished by the C. C. C. band. The hall room was tastefully decorated. The brilliant costumes of the ladies and gay uniforms of the officers and members of the brigade furnished a picture which in its totality dazzled the eyes of the beholder. During the evening refreshments were served by the lady friends of the brigade. Last night's event, the third given by the N. H. Warrant and Non-Commissioned Officers, was voted by those who attended as the grandest success of all.

The lecture will be illustrated with maps and drawings, and the Mason map will be explained in detail. No doubt a large audience will be present on this occasion.

PRESENT TO DOCTOR.—The ladies who finished the first aid course conducted by Dr. Carberry of the Calypso, after the close of Thursday afternoon's session of the class, presented him with an address and a silver thermos bottle in case as a token of their appreciation of his kindly interest in them. The doctor cordially thanked the fair donors and was highly pleased with their present.

ORPHAN HAS APPENDICITIS.—One of the orphan boys of Mount Cashel was removed last night to hospital, suffering from appendicitis. The road to the orphanage is now in a bad state, being blocked with snow and filled with gulches, and a sleigh could not get through. The boy was brought along by several men on a stretcher to the King's Bridge, where the ambulance awaited him, and he was taken to the Hospital.

The Government's Copyright Bill passed its second reading in the Commons to-day. The measure not only sets forth an amendment based on the Copyright Convention of 1908, but codifies the common law on copyrights and existing statutes. Copyright under the amended law runs during the life of the author, and fifty years after. Foreign authors may acquire copyright by making their first publication within the British Dominions, but may be deprived of it by the Government, if the country to which they belong refuse adequate protection to British authors. Imprisonment is substituted for fine as punishment for piracy.

Afraid of Fire.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Sir,—I noticed by your morning contemporary that the Government are becoming afraid of fire and that they have taken a couple of lengths of hose to be ready for emergencies at the "obsequary hospital." The News further says that this is a "wise and commendable proceeding." Where there is special dread of fire a few lengths of hose are pretty handy things to have about. For outraging the feelings and interests of the people of the East-End in connection with the erection of this building the Government, individually and collectively, have good cause to be fearful of fire, and if when they shuffle off this political coil they reach the place the East Enders intend them to occupy, a few lengths of hose will be an imperative necessity, though the question of a water supply will be as acute there as in St. John's a few years ago. The News yesterday said "the building will be of a temporary character only and will disappear just as soon as its immediate usefulness is ended." And it cost $10,000 to erect and equip. This is pretty cool to say the least of it, and shows the concern the Government has for the taxes wrung from our suffering people. But what better could be expected from a Government which has now established a record for extravagance.
Yours indignantly,
TAXPAYER.

Unseated on Recount.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, To-Day.
The row over the general election in Exeter last December was brought up in the House of Commons to-day. When the result of the poll was first declared: St. Maur, Liberal, had 4,786 votes, and Dukes, Unionist, 4,782. The latter petitioned for a recount. St. Maur in the meantime taking his seat in the House of Commons. Justices Ridley and Channel were appointed to conduct the recount. The investigation revealed illegal practices. The finding on the recount was Duke, 4,777 and 4,776 for St. Maur. The Speaker laid before the House the report of the Judges on the recount. A motion was put and carried that the name Duke be substituted for St. Maur on the roll of the House.

Harbor Grace Notes.

A number of our young men intend leaving by this afternoon's train for St. John's, there to join the S. S. Rosalind en route to Montreal where they will be employed the coming season.

Many regrets were expressed yesterday when it became known that our former highly respected townsman, Mr. John Strathie, had passed away during the early morning at Whitbourne. Few men were more highly esteemed in this town than Mr. Strathie, or more widely known. He always took a foremost interest in matters pertaining to the welfare of this town. To the sorrowing relatives and friends we tender our heartfelt sympathy.

The Sociable held by the young girls of St. Andrew's Church on Wednesday last, was fairly well patronized considering the very disagreeable weather prevailing. But they braved the storm, and were on hand to make their patrons welcome. Miss F. Dwyer, President, and her co-workers were not to be discouraged by a slight storm, and their efforts were rewarded by the net proceeds of $22.50.

On Wednesday evening and night a fierce storm of wind from N.E. raged here and we presume in the Bay generally. About 9 p.m., while the storm was at its height the electric light was put out of action by the fury of the elements, and we were left in total darkness. On Thursday, although not blowing quite so hard, the wind was still from the N.E. with occasional showers, and as the electric light employees were unable to repair the immense damage in that time, our town was destined to be another night in darkness. This morning opened fine, and with a clear sky and bright sun we can now almost forget about the storm, as no serious damage was done. Not so with Carbonear, our sister town, who felt the full force of the wind and sea, and has, we hear, a lot of wreckage to remind it of the force of the tempest.

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

Full soon, when Gentle Annie wakes, and verdure clothes the hill and glen, the man whose life is all of snakes will come into his own again. From fragrant meadows he'll come, to tell of rattlesnakes that wore some forty rattles and a drum; he killed that snake and thirty more. The hoopsnake, spurred by nature's laws, will come forth from its dark abode, and take its tail between its jaws, and roll along the country road. The joint snake from its cavern fits, if you believe the liar's tale; he breaks it up in little bits, and each becomes another snake. When verdure clothes the hill and glen, and summer breezes fan the sky, we'll have the same old yarns again, the same old snake that never die. Invention in all other lines still marches with this bustling age; the serpent liar never shines, nor brings new lies to earn his wage. Is there no gifted, earnest soul, the chains of age-long sloth to break, to knock old customs with a pole, and tell new lies about a snake?

Charivaria.

No one can appreciate too highly the efforts of the A. P. C. Society, hence we make no apology for drawing attention to their valuable reports. At a recent meeting the Hon. John Harvey, the founder of the movement said: "He strongly protested against the prevalent bad habit of spitting, and appealed to his hearers to put both feet on it," that is generally done, only we have noticed that as a rule only one foot is used and the matter is thoroughly well rubbed into the carpet. We have heard some hygienic humbugs and scientific shams say that this is a great mistake. That instead of scotching the microbes it only sets them free for action. As long as they are clogged in the mucus mesh they can do no harm, but dispel this envelope either by absorbing it into the carpet or roasting it on the red hot stove, you not only liberate the little rascals for new ravages but give them a ravenous appetite. Perhaps, however, the newly proposed method of putting both feet on them may be more efficacious.

We notice that our outport citizens are preparing for their Easter social festivities. At Carling, we notice that one body of citizens are going to "put on a concert on Easter Monday." We sincerely hope that it will be a good fit.

We did think that there was something wrong with the fresh (?) beef that we've been eating recently, but never suspected that horse flesh was being pawned off on us. Where does the Inspector of Slaughter Houses come in, in this case?

Laid Up With Lame Back

Pain, helplessness and suffering are overcome by DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.
Mrs. Frank Bloom, Hardwood Lake, Ont., writes: "I want to tell you of the great benefit I found in the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I suffered so badly with kidney disease that when I lay down I could not get up without help. I was completely laid up with lame back, aching back, I read about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the Almanac, got them and they cured me of kidney disease and backache."
"My husband had dreadful pains in his sides and obtained cure by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. These pills are the best on the market and I am glad to recommend them."
Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are definite and certain in action, enliven the liver and bowels as well as the kidneys, are lastingly beneficial and economical. But to obtain these results you must get the genuine Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Pierrots and Others.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Mr. Editor,—Man is a curious animal. I judge from the shape of the chaps that a Pierrot is something of a fool. The caps fitted exceedingly well! It was pure rot. It was utter rot. And what we call our aristocracy, who comprised eighty per cent of the audience, endorsed every item. It is all very well to help Mr. Harvey and his A.P.C., but to say as they did by their applause, that this stuff is what they like to hear, makes it more apparent than ever that it is not to our so-called higher classes that we must look to tell us what to appreciate. There were some songs, however, by the ladies, unaccompanied by the Company, which were really enjoyable. It seems impossible to get a large audience, appreciative of good music, these who endeavour to keep their high ideals and do not descend to the crowd are cranks if we believe most people. Why is this? What must we do? We are careful of our public health—we imagine that man is better without whiskey and take it from him. Why not pay the same attention to the mind? Some young boys of this city seeing in a moving picture how a burglar works, endeavoured to copy him, but not having his experience they were caught. Is this the proper training for the boys? The desire of the public does not necessarily indicate right.
Yours truly,
HEED.
