Who Is He?

A Chicago dispatch has the following in reference to a case already referred to in these columns: "The police arrested a man here Saturday who claimed to be a Catholic priest, and who was attempting to raise money on that plea. He said he was Father James Ryan, and had just voluntarily resigned a pastorate at Rawlins, Wyo. He needed money to get him to London, Ont., his former home. He was suspected of being a fraud and was locked up on a charge of soliciting alms under false pretenses. But officers detailed to investigate ltarned that the old gentleman was a regülarly ordained priest, and that all his statements were true. Father Ryan was speedily released, and the newspaper advertising he had received resulted in the gathering of a purse, with which he left for Detroit this morning, en route home. No priest of this name is known in London.

Hog Cholera in Western Ontario. Incg Cholora in Western Ontario.

Mr. Carling has telegraphed that he will meet the hog breeders of Western Ontario at London on Thursday next to discuss methods for suppressing hog cholera. The law, as it now stands, compels hog owners to report at once to the district inspectors any outbreak of the disease. The inspector is then placed in charge and whatever deaths occur after that date the owner is allowed one-third value by the Dominion Government. This insadecuate compensaallowed one-third value by the Dominion Government. This inadequate compensa-tion is looked upon by hog breeders as en-couraging the spread of the disease rather than promoting its suppression. The breeders want this law amended so that breeders want this law amended so that Government inspectors will have authority to at once destroy, not only all hogs infected with cholera, but also those exposed to the infection and pay the owner the full value of the animals. Then, they claim, there would be no incentive for delay in reporting an outbreak and the disease would be promptly stamped out.

HONOR THIS MAN'S GRAVE.

Here Was a Hero Who Held His Own Lite Cheaply.

Lie Cheaply.

New York, Aug. 10.—Young Clayton Witt is dead at his mother's home at New Brunswick. People had been standing at the gate for the last ten days hoping that his life might be spared. He had done a hero's work, and as the light went out of his eyes yesterday, there wasn't a woman in the town who didn't creep silently back to her household with a sigh on her lips and the best of prayers at her heart. Witt's story is briefly enough told. While passing up the street he had heard a woman's shrieks. He rushed into a narrow entry on Burnett street, and a sheet of flame well Burnett street, and a sheet of flame well nigh blinded him. But he could hear nigh blinded him. But he could hear a woman's voice calling out in her agony. The house was in flames, and he plunged into them just in time to hear 18-year-old Gussie Adler out in safety. She had been cooking over an oil stove. It exploded and she was enwrapped in its flames. Her rescuer was burned so fiercely that when the doctors reached him the small chance he might have had for his own life had vanished. Miss Adler's life was saved at the expense of his own. That is why the tears of so many honest people were shed last night in decent honor to an every-day hero's memory. hero's memory.

WONDERS OF MARS.

Remarkable Observations by a Harvard Expert in Peru.

Changes on the Face of the Planet

During the Past Month.

New York, Aug. 10.—Prof. Wm. H. Pickering, director of the Harvard College annex observatory at Arequipa, Peru, telegraphs to the Herald as follows: "In my observations of Mars I have seen two large areas near the equator which are permanently blue. Near the edges they appear light blue. The light is sightly polarized. The total size of the area is about 500,000 square miles, one-half the size of the Mediterrancan Sea. On June 23 a small dark spot appeared in the southern snow cap. Later this spot lengthened rapidly, and early in July it was 1,000 miles long, dividing the snow in half. Sixteen hundred thousand square miles of snow have melted within the last 30 days. The melter snow has apparently been transferred be seas across the lands. Small dark area surrounded by snow appeared on July II and two days later I first saw a dark lim on the fork of a "Y" shaped mark in the direction of the seas. The line became more conspicuous on July 14 and on the 16th a dark area about the size of the lake appeared on the northern side of the stem of the "Y," which was connected with the northern sea. The next day there appeared a large dark gray area near the northern sea. This had grown much smaller by July 23, and a new area appeared to the south of the southern sea, concealing its outline. The line in the fork of the "Y" had extended. On July 24 a large dark area, apparently either a lake or sea, appeared near the melting snow, and on July 25 the southern branch of the "Y" hecame very narrow, the outlines of the northern seas were seen again, a narrow white line stretching north from the snow. Many other changes were noted. Rapidly changing faint withis areas were seen. Green areas near the poles have not been seen for many weeks, but traces were recently discovered, and a bright green area was distinctly seen near the north pole last night.
