American M. E. bishop of West Africa, in an interview, emphasizes the increasing dangers of the situation in West Africa, owing to the activity of the French authorities. The bishop says that unless the best statesmanship is brought to bear upon the African problems, the European war of the next century will be fought on that continent. He suggests as the best solution of the problem that Great Britain should give Germany Walsfisch Bay and give France Ashanti, Bathurst, and all rights in Morocco and Algiers, France on her part withdrawing all her claims in Egypt, which England cannot surrender. The bishop adds that there is no doubt King Leopold of Belgium is resolved to take over the Congo Freee State as a Belgian colony in 1900. Already the state is being divided into districts to be occupied by various Roman Catholic orders.

LAWLESSNESS IN LONDON. The newspapers which are fond of oreaching unctuous sermons on the subject of the "lawlessness of the Americans" have food for reflection in two events in London and its suburbs this past week. The Honor Oak Golf years. Finding the property was being wantonly destroyed or stolen, the club caused the ground to be fenced n, thus shutting out the general pubic, to the great delight of the neigh-oring residents, whose life had been made hideous because of the congre gating there of drunken, dog-fighting roughs from the slums of Deptford. Thereupon it was claimed that the public rights were being encroa upon and the agitation against the below. London, Oct. 18 .- Dr. Hartzell, the When the rioters were unable to dislodge the determined members of the club, some of the mob leaders brought indles of straw, with the intention of setting fire to the premises, and they vere only prevented from carrying out their purpose by the timely arrival of police reinforcements, the few policemen previously on the scene having een as badly maltreated as the golf players. One of the latter fell into the hands of a dozen roughs, who pounded him with sticks until the unfortunate player was in a serious condition.

RUFFIANISM. A somewhat similar right of way aid was witnessed at Hillingdon on Tuesday, when the inhabitants of that place opened a road through Lord Hillingdon's game preserves. The right of way over these preserves had been parred for over 30 years and the ground is overgrown with fine timber. which the crowd of villagers felled for a distance of half a mile, also removing the gates, iron fences, etc., which were in their way. London ruffianism does not end here. The terrors of the streets are so glaring that vestries of the different parishes have combined in an appeal to the home secretary for the opinion of British military men additional police protection, pointing

The newspapers are bristling with letters from friends of the candidates for commissions, many of whom are understood to be undergoing fattening

THE MERSEY HARBOR IMPROVE-

MENTS. There is little doubt that the Mersey docks board will adopt the scheme proposed for harbor improvements at a cost of $16,580,000. It is intended to provide accommodation for the largest vessels, to construct five branch docks and three gravel docks, 1,630 and 520 feet long respectively, also the improving and deepening of others, in addition to constructing sheds cover ing 250,000 square yards.

THE QUEEN AND HER GERMAN GRANDSON. The rapprochement between Queen Victoria and her grandson, Emperor William of Germany, is proceeding apace, and it is now highly probable that his majesty will pay a brief visit to Balmoral in November, traveling on inet feel that they are unable to give his yacht from Kiel to Aberdeen. In connection with the emperor's yacht it is said Queen Victoria is so enamored of the internal arrangements of the Hohenzollern that she has ordered the plans of the latter to be adopted in ilding the new royal yacht, which has just been commenced.

VINTAGE OUTLOOK The champagne vintage is finished. Owing to the changeable weather and wet September necessitating too early gathering of the grapes, the vintage will be very medium, both in quality and quantity. Reports from Italy, Sicily and Sardinia are exceptionally good, promising to add to the reputation which Italian wines have lately been re-acquiring.

London, Oct. 16.-Although people of the highest authority are confident that the Anglo-French dispute in the matter of the West African boundaries will be amicably settled, the discussion of cupies so much journalistic attention, both in London and Paris, and is engendering so much heat that it is impossible not to treat it as a matter of portune time arrives, calmly tear up these pledges and pursue the opposite course, with no other explanation than that the genius of la grande republique canot brook irksome limitations, and has accordingly adopted a new principle of policy. The French hardly take the trouble to deny that they are bound by treaty not to do what they have been doing on the Niger. They rest satisfiedly on the statement that their adoption of a new policy alters everything, and that, having occupied a great deal of territory, in which they had no business whatever, they are now compelled to defend it tooth and nall. There is, of course, the usual cackle about England breaking treaties and grabbing territories, but even if this retort were true, it still remains a fact that what England takes is held trust for the whole world, with free trade in open markets: whereas, every colonial acquisition of nations like France and Germany means so much waste country, expensively fenced off from contact with humanity in general. President Faure, however, in his speech at Thursday's commercial banquet, put himself at the head of those who indulge in the wildest visions of a vast French colonial empire—a fact

THE TURKS HOLD THESSALY. While some people are under the impression that peace has been concluded between Turkey and Greece, and that the sacred soil of Greece will soon be free of the polluting presence of the Turks, the sultan will not move a single soldier until the Greek promise to pay is backed by strong names. There is ample proof of this determination. In fact, warm clothing has already been dispatched to Thessaly for 60,000 men, and orders have been given for the building of huts to shelter that number during the winter.

THE QUEEN'S POLITICS. It has been ascertained that the inclination of the Queen's political letters in the biography of Lord Tennyson was not accidental, for the proof was read by her majesty, and as though to emphasize her deliberate intention to let people know the character of her politics, she has now caused to letter to be written to Lord Tennyson's son, warmly commending the manner in which he has done the work. Some Radical and Irish members promise to question the government on the subject as soon as Parlia, ment meets, but it is not likely that the premier will permit questions to be put, and he is also pretty certain to pull up short any orator who ventures to refer to the matter.

The north gallery of the Imperial Institute was thrown open Saturday for a press view of the jubilee gifts. These number about 600, and include 450 addresses of congratulation to the Queen from all the great cities of the representative bodies of her subjects in all portions of the empire. No private letters are exhibited. The addresses are similar in loval affection, but there is an endless variety in material, script, decoration and artistic workmanship. It is a unique collection. Witwatersrand sends its compliments encased in solid gold, ornamented with diamonds; sends a long magenta scroll, with Chinese characters and dragons; the Indian addresses are wrought in broidery and richly decorated with gems. From every country in the kingdom and every corner of the empire, there are messages of love and respect on parchment, linen, ivory or paper, in every imaginable text and script, with every possible variation of decorative effect and goldsmiths' craft. Apart from the addresses there are 150 gifts selected for exhibition by the Queen. The Prince of Wales' present is a fine equestrian portrait of himself and the Duke of Connaught, by Detaille, with a Highland regiment in the background.

Among other royal gifts are a long chain necklet, with a crown and dates in diamonds, from the Queen's children; a large chrysophrase paper weight, superbly decorated, from Empress of Germany; a magnificent diamond brooch from the Princess of Wales and her children; a brooch with an open pendant heart of diamonds the Emperor of Russia, and a large silver vase from the German are represented in the collection. There are slik carpets of original design; curtains worked by Hindu widows; wheeling chairs from wardrobe maids, and bicycles from Coventry's mayor; walking-sticks from premiers and actresses, and a parasol from the oldest parliamentary veteran; jewels from cesses, silver flower baskets lady mayoresses, milking stools from old ladies, and photographs from working girls. It is a strange assortment of presents, but there is a silver thread which links them together-this is the feelings of profound respect and af-fection which the Queen inspires throughout the world. EDWARD LANGTRY.

A Sunday paper publishes, over the signature of "One Who Knew Him," a sketch of Edward Langtry, the husband of Lily Langtry, the actress, who died on Friday night in the asylum for the insane at Chester. 'The writer says: "Langtry in fifteen long years never set eyes on 'my better half,' as he was wont to call her, until one day, on King William street, their eyes met. Langtry told me that he raised his hat but it was not the greeting of a husd and wife. Langtry never knew his wife on the stage.
