LONDON PRESBYTERY.The Difficulty Between Wardville Pastor and Members—R. C. McDermid Licensed.The meeting of the Presbytery of London was brought to a close yesterday afternoon. At the afternoon session a paper was read from the congregation of Newbury, taking exception to the finding of a committee of presbytery which visited Wardville last May to inquire into difficulties existing between the pastor and some of the members.Mr. Fletcher supported the resolution of the congregation. It was moved by Rev. Mr. Henderson, seconded by Rev. Mr. Currie, and agreed, that the presbytery should recommend the resolution of the congregation of Newbury, expressing gratification with the state of feeling existing in the Newbury congregation towards the minister, instruct the clerk to inform the congregation that the pastoral tie cannot be dissolved without giving all parties—Newbury included—opportunity to be heard in their interests, and further, that the presbytery resolve to visit the Wardville and Newbury congregations at a date to be fixed at the September meeting.Permission was given the congregation of Chalmers Church, Dunwich, to borrow $2,500 on the new church building, when they had complied with the requirements of the law.Permission was given to Rev. Mr.
Barnett and Rev. Mr. Little to moderate in calls in the respective vacancies of Alibero and English Settlement.
Mr. R. C. McDermid, of this city, a graduate of Knox College, presented himself for examination on trial for license to preach the Gospel. He read a popular lecture from II. Tim. 3; 14-17; a popular sermon from Acts, 16: 13, and a Greek critical exercise on I. Cor., 15: 24-28. He was examined in Hebrew by Rev. Mr. Reed; in philosophy by Rev. Mr. Henderson; in systematic theology by Rev. Mr.
Currie, and in church history by Rev.
Mr. McGilivray. Mr. McDermid made a very creditable appearance in his examination, which occupied the greater part of the afternoon. He was then licensed to preach the Gospel in the usual form of the Presbyterian Church, the moderator leading in prayer, and afterwards addressing words of counsel to the licentiate.The presbytery then adjourned to meet in First Presbyterian Church, London, on the second Tuesday of September, at 10:30 o'clock a.m.FOOT COMFORT.—This hot weather is tral and Colborne Street Methodist Churches picked up at Port Stanley yesterday. The number attending the excursion was large, and a very enjoyable time was spent by all. The principal attraction was a free trip on the steamer Urania, which was greatly enjoyed by all who took advantage of it.

The day was an ideal one, cool, clear, pleasant, and there was scarcely a ripple on the placid bosom of Lake Erie. A programme of games was carried out, including an interesting baseball match between nine representing the two schools, which was won by the Colborne Street school.PROTESTANT ORPHANS' HOME.The trustees of the Protestant Orphans' Home held their monthly meeting on Monday afternoon in the parlor of the Y. W. C. A., the president, Mrs. Morphy, occupying the chair. The meeting opened in the usual way, with a short Bible reading and prayer, when followed the reading of the several reports, each one being most satisfactory. Other business transacted was of a routine nature, two or three applications having been received from country places for boys and girls old enough to work, but the replies were in the negative, as all the home children are too young for occupations of the kind. During June three children were admitted to the home, and for one of the little inmates an excellent home was secured. It was decided to hold the next meeting on Aug. 5, in the Y. W. C. A. parlors. The trustees very gratefully acknowledged the protesting against the way in which the work is done, is about to be laid before [Springfield Republican.]

It used to be a standing wonder to visitors that so beautiful and expansive a river as the Connecticut was reduced to so little use by the inhabitants. It is apparent, however, that this reproach is being rapidly removed so far, at least, as the superb reach between Holyoke and Windsor Locks is concerned. The most inveterate landlubber can hardly fail to have noticed that our mosquito fleet has grown to formidable proportions during the last few seasons. It is not so long since the Mascot and a few rowboats and canoes summed up the Springfield flotilla. Now sailboats and yachts dot the water, steam launches puff cheerily about, canoes, rowboats and single shells are multitudinous, and on almost every pleasant evening a very respectable exhibit of eight-oared boats is to be seen. The public, too, has discovered that something is going on at the river, and the shores and bridges are becoming popular warm-weather resorts. When the proposed riverside park is an accomplished fact, and the public has untamed access to the most beautiful part of the banks, it will at last be appreciated that the Connecticut deserves better treatment than it has hitherto received.It is rather odd, however, that people of moderate means, who are in a state of chronic uncertainty as to their plans for summer vacation, have never taken up that eminently English institution, the houseboat.
Every one is familiar with it through the medium of British fiction, and in other parts of the country it has been acclimated with conspicuous success.
The Florida coast and inland waters, for example, are lined with the house-boats of northern millionaires. As for England, society would hardly know what to do without its houseboats on the Thames, which are as much as indispensable as the London house or the foghorn.Fruit of some kind should be used at the breakfast during hot weather, for follow this with a dish of hot heaping teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts, cold, and treated with rich, cold cream. This dish gives the staying qualities necessary. Add a slice or two of entire score stood: Tecumseh, 15; St. Thomas, 57. We are told that play on both sides was rather lax.The great moral show recently on in which the streets are watered by the box in the country. But in New England the idea has not yet taken root, though the wandering artists who drift about the coast and rivers in floating studios may help to set a fashion which is worthy of imitation.

The beauty of a houseboat is that it offers the comforts of home together with the variety of travel. One may be cut off absolutely from the world and yet near enough to home to get to business by a morning train. The houseboat offers a delightful change for the vacation season, with the minimum of wear and tear, and the time may come when scores of Rudder Granges will dot the clear waters of the Connecticut.Perhaps the chief charm in this sort of floating houses is perfect freedom, with none of the danger and discomfort of yachting, there is the gratification of the love for the water which exists in the normal human mind.
There is a satisfaction even in the bare feeling of being afloat which takes the oldest back to the days of childhood. On the smooth waters of the river there is peace, quiet, coolness and variety. When one is tired of looking at one lovely prospect, up anchor, and the current soon brings fresh scenes in view. One gets for nothing the homestead of inexhaustible dimensions, with the chance of catching a breakfast of fresh fish in the front yard. One is spared the annoyance of the summer hotel, and the worry of the vacation season. The houseboat is a bit of floating home, made the more cosy and homelike by its slight inequalities.There are those who have a prejudice against rivers as the seat of fogs and malarial fevers, but so large a proportion of the population of the earth has from time immemorial lived a riparian life without evil consequences that the objection cannot be so formidable as it seems. Certainly the English are not frightened away from the Thames by the mere fact that it is a river. And now that the scientists have laid the full responsibility for malaria upon the mosquito, and relieved the atmosphere from all blame, perhaps it will be possible to enjoy the fresh coolness of the water again without disturbing thoughts of chills and fever. A more practical objection is the difficulty of caring for one's body during the winter, but now that the river is coming into such general use it will probably not be long before a satisfactory way is found for caring for the large craft, including the yacht and steam launches.
The initial cost of a plain but substantial houseboat of two stories need not be great, and once built it can be counted on to last for many years.COULD NOT STRAIGHTEN UP*David Rowe, of Concession, Had Trouble

Those who would profit by the experience of a man who has found a sure cure for his backache in Dodd's Kidney Pills, should read the letter of David Rowe printed herewith. He writes: "A pain in my back commenced in my shoulders and extended down my spine, finally concentrating its full force in what is commonly called the small of the back, and there it became almost unendurable."
"I could not straighten up to save my life. Urinating gave me great pain, and I was unable to do much work. My doctor failed to help me."
"I bought a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills at Mrs. German's store, and on taking them, felt a change for the better. I took in all, ten boxes, and I am a well man today."WORK OF STAGE GIRLS.Stage-struck girls who think life behind the footlights is all music and glamour should have watched the training of the chorus of "The Giddy Throng," that leaves for Boston today.From 11 o'clock in the morning until late at night the girls have been kept monotonously stepping forward and backward, singing, side-stepping and primitively to the music of a piano and a whip-lash sound of a stage manager's voice.When the time came for dress rehearsal the girls were ordered to be at the New York Theater at 11 o'clock at night. After the regular performance the chorus girls who had been occupying the stage shed their tight and other chorus belongings, and the Boston company donned them for the dress rehearsal. This lasted until early morning, and then the girls were dismissed into the night with orders to
