WEEKLY REVIEW OF BRADSTREET'S

Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg Show Good Tone.

LITTLE CHANGE HERE

Local Industries All Busy and General Movement of Trade Satisfies.

Montreal reports to Bradstreet's say city trade has been quieter during the past week and affairs have generally returned to a normal state after the rush and hurry of Congress week. Country trade keeps good. Wholesale reports an excellent volume of general business for this time of the year. Fall trade seems to be opening out nicely in most parts of Canada. The volume of general orders so far has been fair, although considerable tendency has been shown in some parts of the country to await later developments before placing orders for requirements. Threatening of price changes in some lines has also been a factor in this connection. It is understood drygoods merchants in almost all directions ended the summer with well-cleared shelves, and this fact taken in conjunction with those previously stated would seem to point to an excellent sorting trade a little later on. The demand for general lines of merchandise continues good. Hardware lines move well. The demand for iron and steel is fairly brisk. Local foundries and machine shops are busy. The shipping trade is also active.

Toronto's Report.

Toronto reports to Bradstreet's say a healthy tone is noted to all lines of trade there. All travellers are again out on their routes and they are sending in good orders for general lines of merchandise. Country business has shown a better tone during the week. In most lines of trade collections are fair to good. Receipts of produce have been fairly large and prices have held about steady. Labor is well employed here, and there is still a scarcity of skilled operatives in some lines. Manufacturing jewellers report they are particularly affected in this regard. Values of commodities are generally steady.

Winnipeg reports say the grain movement is now well under way and inspections show the quality of the wheat yield to be generally excellent. From those districts where the drought damage was most marked the wheat has been pretty much affected, but from the northern parts of the three provinces the yield is of first-class quality. Fall business is beginning to move well in all directions. Wholesale state they are receiving good supplementary orders for goods and the outlook is generally bright. Collections are showing improvement and will continue to do so as the crop gets marketed.

On the Coast.

Vancouver and Victoria reports say there continues a good volume of business both at coast cities and at all provincial points. The demand for general merchandise has kept up well, and prospects for future trade are considered distinctly good. Vancouver will this year ship more grain from the Prairie Provinces than she has ever done, and there is no doubt but that with the completion of the Panama Canal this port will be a big factor in the annual grain movement. Quebec reports to Bradstreet's say pretty much the same as the preceding week, although some wholesalers report having received fair orders for fall shipment; the volume, however, is not up to the average. In city retail trade reports are slow, which is attributed to the Eucharistic Congress; the latter was the means of drawing many people from town. No change is noted in the industrial situation, which is much about the same.

Hamilton reports say there has been rather a better tone to general trade here during the past week. Fall lines of clothing are moving well, and wholesalers in general lines report a good business moving for this time of the year. Country trade is good and collections show a rather better tone.

London reports say general conditions show little change from those of a week ago. A fair volume of retail trade is moving, and wholesalers are well satisfied with the movement and with prospects for the future. Local industries are also busy. Cigar makers report a fair volume of business, as also do the boot and shoe men. Collections are generally satisfactory.

Ottawa reports say general conditions are about as reported last week. The demand for fall lines at wholesale is fair, but the sorting trade has not yet set in to any great extent. Retail trade in the city is fairly good, and the surrounding district is generally good. The farmers have come through the year well, and storekeepers should be in a good position to meet liabilities.

SAYS RUSSIAN JAILS ARE NOT SO "AWFUL"

The Chief of Administration of Prisons Is in New York.

New York, Sept. 17.—One of the most interesting among the group of distinguished foreigners assembled in New York in preparation for the quinquennial session of the International Prison Congress to be held shortly in Washington is Etienne de Khouleff, chief of the administration of prisons of the inmates of the 300 jails in Russia and Siberia. He is a tall man with a benevolent expression and courteous manner. He confesses to 50 years, 25 of which he has spent in the Government service.

"This is the first time, I suppose, that such a terrible person as the chief of the Russian prisons has ever been in the United States," he said. "I hope to gain much first-hand information over here. The prison system of America and her reformatories are only theoretically known in Russia, but now we shall be able to get at them in a practical way. We shall be able to learn much. We are trying to improve."

"In Russia the criminal is considered not merely as an enemy to society, but as a sick man. Persons condemned to enforced labor have the right to see their parents once a month and oftener in the discretion of the chief of a prison. It can be said that the inmates of Russian prisons not only do not suffer hardships, but their comfort, food, clothing and so on make their position so far as those things are concerned no worse than that of a peasant or an ordinary city workman living in liberty. Part of the money derived from the work done by prisoners is paid aside to be given to them upon their release."

"In short, the 'chambers of torture' some of the foreign papers describe, and the 'revelations' about the abuse of prisoners are figments of imagination."

ROOSEVELT AND BARNES IN A PUBLIC SPAT

Both Say What They Think of Each Other in Published Statements.

New York, Sept. 17.—There was a sharp exchange today between Col. Theodore Roosevelt and Wm. Barnes, jun., Republican state committeeman and leader of the so-called Old Guard. In a published statement Mr. Barnes said:

"No amount of political manoeuvring, use of patronage, or personal abuse can in the slightest degree obscure the one issue which must be fought out to a finish at Saratoga. That will be determined the future of the Republican party in the State of New York for some years to come. That party must determine in its platform whether it will be recognized as the conserving force which has been its history, or whether it will follow the radical policies of Mr. Roosevelt and lose the strategic position which it has held in the State of New York for many years as the party of sanity and the protector of industry on which the world of business and labor must depend."

"If it does not hold to its time-honored and successful principles, but seeks for new gods to worship, its mistake will be taken advantage of by its adversary."

"No radical candidate has ever carried the State of New York. Progress in political life is essential to any party, but the state leadership which relies for its strength on inciting the mob can never, even if it seems the tide which it has created."

"The Republican party in the state has never faced a crisis so fundamental to its existence such as it must meet at this hour."

When Mr. Barnes' statement was shown to Col. Roosevelt, the latter dictated the following comment: "I am indeed blessed in my enemies. I am very genuinely grateful to Mr. Barnes for having unconsciously made the issue so clear between what he is pleased to call 'Rooseveltism' on the one side and on the other side the alliance of the boss with that element of big business which seeks to control politics in connection with business."

LIVED TO BE 147

Was Son of a Sea Captain and Led an Adventurous Life.

London, Sept. 16.—The existence of a Schleswig-Holsteiner who lived to the age of 147 is recorded by documentary evidence supplied by the Catholic priest of a charitable foundation in a Schleswig town. The evidence is contained in an inscription on the back of an oil painting discovered in the institution, and representing the half-figure of an old man of mummy-like appearance.

The man was named Christen Jacobson Drakenberg, and is stated in the inscription to have been born in November, 1626, and to have died in October, 1772. The son of a sea captain, he had chiefly led a sailor's life. He took part in several wars and among other adventures passed fifteen years as a slave among the pirates of Algeria.

In October, 1737, it is recorded that he married the widow of a shipmaster. She died the following year and Drakenberg seems subsequently to have looked around for another spouse, for at the age of 130 we find him making further matrimonial proposals. No woman, however, being daring enough to fall in with them. Drakenberg resigned himself to single blessedness for the remainder of his days, and is described as having thenceforward "led a quiet and retired life." Inquiries made by the priest have confirmed the statements of the inscription.

SELLING AT BUYING PRICE

The Selling Price for the cloth that goes into a Scotland Woolen Mills Suit is the other tailors' buying Price.

We would explain that very broad statement by saying that the Scotland Woolen Mills Company handles its cloth direct between the mill and the wearer of the clothes. There are no intermediate profits.

The fabrics that go into the Scotland Woolen Mills Suits and Overcoats are vastly different and superior to those sold elsewhere.

Let us explain that statement also by pointing out that these goods are Individual in patterns, made for our branches in the mills. They are based on the advance patterns selected for the season and only good wool is used on the looms. The texture is superior—the cloth comes in all weights.

Made-to-Order Suit or Overcoat

No More $15 No Less

REGISTERED.

Can you figure out why you should not call at our branch store before deciding on a suit or overcoat for fall? You can see the price is more than reasonable. Come and look at the goods.

You're not taking any chances even should you order, for we guarantee the fit and finish or will return you the money you have paid to us.

A last word—All the new cloth for fall and winter is in. It is here in full mill webs—thousands of yards of it.

OUT-OF-TOWN MEN—We have a perfect system that will enable you to shop as easily by mail as in person. Write for our book of samples and self-measuring chart. It makes the buying easy.

BOY SHARES JOYS WITH GAMIN CREW

Son of Lady Brabazon Robs Mother To Cut Wild Pranks in Leghorn.

Florence, Sept. 16.—Society is buzzing over the extraordinary adventure of the 15-year-old son of Lady Brabazon, who occupies a sumptuous residence here, where she has a foremost position in society. The son coolly appropriated 20,000 lire from his mother and made off, escorted by three rappers. The four arrived at Leghorn where they put up at the best hotel. During four days they led a hilarious life. They meanwhile increased their party to the extent of four females. The police became suspicious of them and watched the hotel where they were stopping.

Lady Brabazon eventually learned the whereabouts of her son. His companions, male and female, were arrested and placed in jail, having spent some 10,000 lire, while the son of a noble house was hauled back to Florence. The rappers and the women were imprisoned on the charge of immorality and leading an English youth into temptation.

CANOE UPSET.

Peterboro, Ont., Sept. 16.—Thomas Blois, of this city, met death by drowning at Rice Lake last night shortly after 6 o'clock. In company with his brother, Walter Blois, of Toronto, he was out trawling in a canoe. Thomas Blois had the line, and, feeling it pull, he drew it in, and in doing so, upset the boat. He was a swimmer, but his brother was not.
