

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

FRANCE.

PARIS, March 19.—M. Thiers issued a proclamation appealing to the reason and patriotism of the citizens of Paris to preserve order.

Government, following up the proclamation of Thiers, at midnight on Friday, sent a detachment of troops and gens d'armes to occupy the positions of the insurgents in Montmartre.

A special from Paris says that the insurgents have been very much irritated by a proclamation that the National Assembly had issued, and had determined to resent it with violence.

The Journal des Debats says yesterday will be considered as one of the gloomiest hours in the history of France. The revolution under the banner of pillage is mistress of Paris.

March 21.—The Paris correspondent of the Times telegraphs that many persons were shot without trial on Sunday.

PARIS, March 22.—Gen. Chanzy has been removed to the prison of LaSante. He was shamefully treated. His sister was also arrested.

Versailles resembles a camp. The entire neighbourhood is strategically occupied by troops. The prisoners of Metz and Sedan are offering their services to the government.

The insurgent government announces that the forts will be immediately armed to insure the defence of the capital. It has also sent an ultimatum to Thiers, fixing the 23rd as the last day for the return of the Assembly to Paris.

The Government is hourly growing stronger, backed by the Assembly, supported by the country, with the majority of the citizens of Paris really in its favor, and surrounded by a constantly increasing army.

A proclamation is about to be issued warning the insurgents to lay down their arms. Lyons, Marseilles, and Bordeaux, where troubles were anticipated, remain tranquil.

A proclamation signed by General Duval, and dated simply Paris, demands the election of a Mayor for Paris. The proclamation says it is not the intention of the Nationals to separate Paris from France, but only from the Empire and the Government of National Defence.

A decree further postpones maturity of commercial bills, and prohibits landlords from expelling lodgers for non-payment of rent until the issue of fresh orders.

The Insurrectionary Control Committee has decided to respect the conditions of peace, but considers it just that the largest portion of the indemnity should fall upon the authors of the war.

LONDON, March 23.—It is announced that the Nationals of Lyons are only awaiting the arrival of a delegation from Paris to form a central committee on the plan of what at present operating in the capital.

The Rue de la Paix is a pool of blood, and no man's life is safe in Paris.

In the National Assembly to-day an adverse report was made from the Committee upon the bill providing for the election of a municipality in Paris. Jules Favre read a letter from Bismarck, who says "Events in Paris do not indicate the execution of the convention entered into with the German Commanders, which forbids any approach to the lines before the forts occupied by the Germans."

A special from Paris says that the insurgents have been very much irritated by a proclamation that the National Assembly had issued, and had determined to resent it with violence.

VERSAILLES, March 23.—It is reported that the mob in Paris have assassinated Gen. Raphael.

A Paris Journal says Bismarck has informed M. Thiers that the Germans will occupy Paris on Sunday unless by that time Thiers is master of the situation.

A correspondent writes that the sight of ruined St. Cloud is alone worth a journey of a thousand miles. The village presents a marvellously curious scene of devastation, amidst which, here and there, some object stands boldly out, having escaped seathless.

An Alsatian peasant was recently questioning a Bavarian soldier somewhat closely as to the strength of his regiment, when the latter suspecting that his interrogator was either a spy, or a Franc-tireur in disguise, suddenly "drew off" and sent him sprawling on the ground, and after waiting for the Alsatian to pick himself up coolly remarked in his Bavarian dialect "That's just how strong I am by myself, so if you'll just put things together, you'll find perhaps how strong the whole of us are."

Among the French prisoners in Germany is a grandson of Jerome Bonaparte, Prince Charles Bonaparte. He is quartered at Loetzen, Prussia, and is under rigorous surveillance. The war has made terrible havoc with the railway interest in France.

PIEDMONT.—FLORENCE, March 20.—The discussion in the Chamber of Deputies upon the subject of the Papal guarantees was closed on Saturday, and an order of the day was carried forbidding the interference on the part of the Government with religious worship. The Pope has repudiated the guarantees offered him by the Government.

ROME, March 22.—The clerical journals here report that communications have passed between the Cabinets of Vienna and Florence with reference to the States of the Church.

AUSTRIA.

VIENNA, March 20.—One of the papers of this city asserts, that while no treaty existed to that effect between Russia and Prussia, there was a distinct understanding that Prussia would support the Czar in his proposition for the abrogation of the clauses of the treaty of 1856 relative to the Black Sea.

The Austrian journals regard the German demands upon France as severe, but not excessive. The Hungarian papers, however, are very hostile towards Prussia, and speak of a future coalition to curb her aggressive desires as inevitable.

GERMANY.

LONDON, March 22.—A special to the Daily News from Berlin says the ceremony upon the opening of the Germany Parliament was imposing in its simplicity. The Emperor manifested deep emotion during his speech, which was delivered from the marble throne of Charlemagne, brought from Aachen (Aix la Chapelle) especially for the purpose.

Von Bismarck has been elevated to the rank of Prince of the German Empire, and Von Moltke has been presented with the Grand Cross of the Order of the Iron Cross.

BERLIN, March 22nd.—The statement comes from reliable sources that orders have been issued to stop the return of some of the French prisoners for the present.

The old King, it appears, is by no means happy as an Emperor. He was only persuaded to accept this title for the sake of his son, "Our Fritz," and he goes about much like some English squire of long descent who has been induced to allow himself to be converted into a brand new peer, over-persuaded by his numerous progeny.

bad specimen of a good-natured, well-meaning, narrow-minded soldier.

The Times, in an editorial on the subject of the labors of the High Commission, anticipates an easy settlement of the Fisheries question, but is not sanguine as to an arrangement in the case of the Alabama claims.

It is stated that another marriage between royalty and English nobility has been arranged—namely, that of the Duke of Norfolk with the Princess Marguerite of Orleans, daughter of the Duke de Nemours.

THE PURCHASE CASE.—The Rev. Canon Liddon has written a letter to the Guardian, in which he says:—"If the High Church party is desired to take its choice between submission to a tribunal which proscribes its historical traditions, and a separation from the English Episcopate, which it shrinks from as from schism (and therefore as in the sight of God), the result is not difficult to foresee.

TEST OF ACTUAL DEATH.—A positive method by which real death may be distinguished readily from that which is apparent only has been for a long time a desideratum, and prizes of considerable value have at various times been offered for the announcement of some unerring test to determine between the two.

IMPANELLING JURIES.—Questions alternately by the court, the State's attorney and the defense as usually answered by "an intelligent juror":—"Are you opposed to capital punishment?"

"Oh, yes—yes, sir." "If you were on a jury, then, where a man was being tried for his life, you wouldn't agree to a verdict to hang him?"

"Let it stand." "The Court—"Would you let it stand or change it?" "Change it." "Now, which would you do?" "Don't know, sir."

Curran, even in his last illness, could not refrain from indulging in witticism. A few hours before his death his physician remarked to him that his cough had grown worse since the previous evening.

A friend relates the following:—A mile or two from town, he met a boy on horseback crying with cold. "Why don't you come down and lend him? That's the way to keep warm." "No," said the boy, "it's a b-b-borrowed horse, and I'll ride him if I freeze."

Mark Twain says:—"I have seen slower people than I am—and more deliberate people than I am, and even quieter, and more listless, and lazier people than I am. But they were dead."

A minister asked a tipsy fellow leaning up against a fence, where he expected to go when he died.—"If I can't get along any better than I do now," he said, "I shan't go anywhere."

If women were as particular in the choosing of a virtuous husband as men are in the choosing of a virtuous wife, a moral reformation would be soon begun.

It has been ascertained that the Crimean war cost £340,000,000; the American civil war, £1,300,000,000; the Italian war, £20,000,000; the Prusso-Austrian war, £60,000,000. The loss of life, it has been estimated, in all these wars together, amounted to 1,700,000 men.

"How fast they build houses now," said H., "they began that building last week, and now they are putting in the lights." "Yes," answered his friend, "and next week they will put in the livers."

A Michigan woman found a live lizard in the heart of a potato, with no visible means of ingress, and has become insane in an attempt to decide whether the potato hatched the lizard from the seed or the lizard grew the potato as a sort of overcoat.

An eccentric minister in a large parish had seventeen couples to marry at once in a grand common service at church. In the course of the weddings he asked one of the men to pledge himself to the wrong woman. The man naturally protested, but was told, "Hold your tongue! I will marry you all now and here; you can sort yourselves going home."

they should accompany her to church. After some persuasion three of them consented, but the youngest, a lad of some six years, persistently refused. "Why don't you come, my boy?" said the lady; "it is very wrong of you to refuse." "But I don't want to go!" "Why what is the reason?" "The impatience of the little fellow waxed desperate, and in an indignant voice he exclaimed, his hand full of cards: "Would you go to Sunday school with a hand full of trumps like that?"

TO THINKING INVALIDS.

A few plain, earnest words, with such of you as suffer from indigestion, and its usual accompaniment Habitual Constiveness. The means of obtaining relief, of accomplishing a cure, is tendered to you in Bristol's Sugar Coated Pills, the only cathartic and alterative in existence which opens the obstructed passages of the bowels without a pain, and restores to the stomach and liver the vigor stolen from them by disease.

THE CONSTITUTION AND THE BLOOD.—No permanent cure of any ulcerous or eruptive disease can be effected except by constitutional treatment. The vitiated blood must be rendered pure and healthful, otherwise the cause of the disorder remains lurking in the system, and is sure to break out in some deadly form than before.
