QUEBECS TRIBUTE TO CANADA'S FIRST CARDINAL

The Ancient Capital Alive with Laity and Ecclesiastics - The Arches, Decorations, and Order of Procession-Mis Eminence Receives the Red Baretta from the Papal Ablegate O'Bryen.

Quebec, July 21.—At one o'clock yesterday afternoon Cardina! Taschereau took the solemn oath customary by all princes of the church The ceremony took place in the chapel of the Palace. The Papal Ablegate, Mgr. O'Brien, stood to the right of His Eminence, while Archibishop Lynch, of Toront's, stood on the left. Among other notables present were the bishops of Arichat, Charlottetown, Halifax, Chatham, N.B., St. John, N.B., Rimouski, Nicolet, Sherbrooke, Migr. Fabre, of Montreal, Walsh, of London, Cleary, of Kingston, Carbray, of Hamilton, Mahoney, coadjutor of Toronto, Moreau and other cle gy. His Eminence entered the chapel with a steady step and never faltered till he reached the railing surrounding the a tar, when he howed on his knees and crossing himself in the name of the Trinity, arose and taking in his right hand the gospel of the Papal ablegate, who will take it to Rome.

The Grand Musical festival at the Roller The Grand Musical festival at the Roller rink was a great success, fully six thousand people being pracent. The weather to day is all that could be desired for the great festival. The sun is shining brightly and a soft breeze blowing which makes it most pleasant outside. The people showed their appreciation of this and turned out en masse. Fully 50,000 to 60,000 persons were out bright and carly this morning. Besides the citizens of Quebec there were a large number of visitors from New York, Listowel, Fall River and several other American and Cauadian cities, which went towards swelling the numbers given above. Men were kept at work during the whole night at the Basilica in order to complete the decorations. In fact, workmen all over the city worked througout the whole night in order to be readiness. This morning, as early as five o'clock, people were whole night in order to be readiness. This morning, as early as five o'clock, people were wending their way towards the Cardinal's residence, and by 6.30 o'clock the streets were impassible, and as far as the eye could reach nothing but a moving mass of humanity could be seen. The procession was to have formed and proceeded at 7.30 a.m., but it was fully 8.30 and proceeded at 7.30 a.m., but it was fully 8.30 before it got fully under way and was joined by the Cardina! Everything was under the able management of Major Lindsay and Lient. Col. Evanturel, and these gentlemen are indeed to be congratu'ated for the way in which they conducted the affair. The following is a list of the societies represented in the procession. They come in the following order:—Detachment of cavalry, Band of the 8th Battalion, Tinsmiths' and Butchers' associations. Bakers' union, Shoemakers' association, Leather Cutters, Leather Dressers, Joiners, Ship Laborers, Painters' Benevolent society, Tyographical union (sections 159 and 160), French Benevolent society; Union St. Joseph of Charlesburg, Levis, St. Rochs, St. Sauveur, Beauport and Lauzon; Choir of the Congregation of St. Rochs, Organ Chorrof St. Rochs, Guard of Honor of the Sacre Cœur of Sillery, St. Cecile Society, Union Major Language of St. Rochs, St. Commerciale of St. Roch Rend Living Commerciale of Rend Living Commerciale Rend Living Commerciale Rend Living Rend Messer Locate R

Legislative Assembly and Council, Ex cutive Council of the Province of Quebec, the Board of Trade, Judges of the Court of Queen's Bench, Superior Court, Supreme Court, and Chief Justices, and members of the Privy Council; City Courcil of Quebec. Mayor Beaugrand, of Montreal, walked with Mayor Langelier on his left, and Hon. John Hearn on his right. Ho wore his full robes of office of chief magistrate, and created quite a flow of enquiry as to who he was, and the people wanted to know how it was that Quebec's mayor could not a pear in such fine robes. The answer is known. Next to these came the Montreal City Band, the Papal Znuaves, a detachment of this hody preceding the Cardinal's carriage and the remainder acting as body guards. In the first carriage, drawn by four jet black horses, were seated the Cardinal on the right and the Ablegate on the left. Following this came a carriage drawn by two horses. In this were seated Archbishops Lynch of Toronto on the right, and Grand Vicar of Toronto, on the right, and Grand Vicar Legare on the left, while the Garde Noble, Comte Gazzoli, was seated in the front seat. He were his full uniform. Following this came He wore his full uniform. Following this came double carriages, each containing two Bishops and clergy. Of the Bishops there were represented the dioceses of London, Hamilton, Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal, Sherbrooke, Rimouski, Nicolet, St. John, N.B., Arichat, C.B., Chatham, N.B., Halifax, N.S., P. E. by the children of the Grey Nuns Convent. There were 600 of these children all seated on a grand stand erected apposite the Place d'Armes square. His Eminence received the bouquet with graciousness and addressed a few remarks to the children. As the procession proceeded the children, as if by one voice, sang a selection of hymns, which sounded with great harmony. The course was then up St. Louis street, where three most beautiful arches were constructed. It is believed the first two were erected at the expense of the local government, while the third one constructed is by the corporation and cost over $500. It covers the whole four corners of St. Louis and Ursule streets, and is a marvel of workmanship. In this arch were four alcoves in each of which stood a child dressed in white and holding a bouquet in each hand, which they presented to His Eminence en passent. The procession then turned down Ursule street, where a grand display of hook and ladders were raised so as to form a kind of arch. These were most beautifully decorated and presented an attractive appearance. The cladren of the Bon Pasteur and Sisters of Charity, to the number of 7,000 or 8,000, sang in honor of His Eminence as

DESCRIPTION OF THE INSTALLATION OF CANDINAL TASCHEREAU.

QUEBEC, July 21.—As for the scene presented inside the Basilica it almost exceeds the powers of description, Long before the procession appeared at its portals the sacred editics was well filled, the admission being by ticket, and the coup d'ail presented by its interior was of the most striking character. The immense assemblage of expectant humanity, the wealth of tasteful decoration, amidst which cardinal red stood out in bold relief in festoons and and crossing himself in the name of the Trinity, arose and taking in his right hand the gospel of which he read the formality of the oaths in such the heraldic devices, including the Papal and cases as necessary by the princes of the church. He immediately and with much solemnity subscribed his name and handed the document to only seen by the majority once in a life time. Immediately in front of the communion rails seats of honor had been provided for the

and the simultaneous rising of all present to their feet as it defiled up the main aisle. Every eye in the spacious building was fixed upon it while every ear drank in the impressive notes of the Grand Cardinal's March, specially composed for the ocasion by the organist of the Basilica, Mr. Gagnon. First came the Celebrant of the Mass, Archbishop Taché, with his two assistants in their gorgeous vestments, followed by the different bishops in attendance to the number of twenty-five, one by one, with their several assistants and all in their mitres and copes of gold, who in their turn were followed by His Grace of Toronto (the apostolic delegate appointed to place the beretta); the Garde Noble, Count Gazzoli, in his striking uniform and with his sword drawn, two priests carry ing the casket containing the beretta, the Papal Ablegate, Mgr. O'Brien, in scarlet soutane with velvet capote and ermine trimming, the cross-bearer and acolytes; and lastly Cardinal Taschereau in his archiepiscopa robes and carrying his crozier, attended by Monseigneur Power, of Halifax, and Father Tolen, Superior of the Redemptorists, in charge of about 500 Sulpician priests, brought up the rear of the cortege.

THE IRISH NATIONAL CONVENTION.

DELEGATES APPOINTED TO GO TO CHICAGO. A meeting of the Montreal branch of the Irish National league was held in St. Patrick's hall on Sunday atternoon. Mr. H. J. Cloran. President, occupied the chair, and Mr. J. B. Lane as secretary. The chairman announced that he had received a communication from the executive of the Irish National league calling for delegates for the convention to be held in Chicago on the 17th and 18th of August. It was decided to send two delegates, and Mesers. H. J. Cloran and J. B. Lane were appointed to represent the Montreal branch. After the transaction of routine business the meeting adjourned till after the convention.

Friday was a regular field day at Chambly. After the regular nominations of Mr. Prefontaine as the National candidate, and Mr. Jodoin, a government employe, as the standard bearer for the pendards, between two and three thousand electors gathered on majority of the meeting, about nine tenths, were evidently of the same mind, because the applause accorded to the Nationalists was deafening, when one could court the sounds that were raised on behalf of the Orange-Tory backers. Hon. Mr. Laurier was given an evotion, while the old pet child of the Province, Hon. Mr. Chapleau, was received in absolute silence. The Chairman having called the meeting to order in a few appropriate remarks, the Conservate candidate, expressed the hope that the proceedings of the meeting would be peaceable and that the electors would accord to every one the opportunity of being heard. During the controversy so far he had listened to his adversaries with attention and had failed to hear a serious accusation preferred against the conduct of the Goverament, which had been generally approved, and therefore it ought to be continued in the administration of the affairs of the country. It had been objected that the general Goverament had taken possession of the railways leading from one province to the other and had granted subsidies to them, but what had been the result? That the Province of Quebee had obtained over two million dollars of Dominion subsidy for her railway enterprises. Was that a matter to complain of? Voices-Yes!) Then it had been made a crime that the Dominion Government had brought in and secured the passage of a License act which had been declared to be illehe was sure the Premier had no bad intentions. (Voices-"Then why did he do it? Shame !" Mr. Prefentaine, in the course of his speeches, had made other charges qut; us as groundless as these. He would now ask that gentleman if Chambly were not as advanced as any county in the Dominion, and had not it had the same provision made for it was bringing the Dominion and the Province to the verge of bankruptry. Was this so? ("Yes.") All these statements were made to deceive the people. (Voice—"What about the canal between Chambly and Longueuil?") Mr. Jodoin, in reference to the project of the canal temperature. to the project of the canal to connect the Richelien and the St. Lawrence rivers, declared that the opinions tounded on experience and surveys were that the canal would have to pass by St. Johns and Caughnawaga and to this he was opposed. (Voices - What has the canal to do with the rope!" He would say what he saw fit. (Laughter and "Question!") Mr. Prefontaine had undertaken to insuit Mr. Benoit and declare that he had sold the county for a position. ("So he did; but tell us about the hangmen!"). Even his enemies considered Mr. Bonoit to be honest, yet his opponent had persisted in at the Richelieu Company's pier the rain conbe honest, yet his opponent had persisted in saying that he had sold them. ("He voted in favor of the Regine scaffold and in support of the hangmen!") Mr. Jodoin having made a weak attempt at criticizing Mr. Prefontaine's career in the Local Legislature when he followed Mr. Joly like a monton and voted like a machine, was again called to the topic of the day. He said he had no fear on the scare of the Riel question. (" Why didn't you come to it before? Aren't you ashamed of trying to shirk it?"] It was unfortunate, since it had been the means of arousing the worst of passions. But as he had not been a member of the House, he was not responsible for the vote that had been given. The members having the entire record before them had sat as judges on the matter and were bound to vote according to their consciences. Had he been there, he should have done so, but he had no explanations to make. ["What would you have done? make. ["What would you have done? the Zouaves and 65th fattation under Col. who was received with loud and prolenged cheering, remarked upon the interest with which the outcome of this election -the verdict of the 30th instant, of national honor or dishonor-was awaited by all the friends of liberty and humanity. (Cheers) He announced that he had not sought this nomination, but had urged at the convention the choice of a national Conservative to whom, as the standard bearer of humanity and jus-tice—a standard dear to all of them—he had cepted the candidature of the National party -the patriots' party-he should continue the contest to the end. (Loud applause.) He had so far secured numer ous Conservative adhesions, was proud of the result, and had no doubt that the 30th July would cause the pendards to hide their heads in shame and confusion, crushed as they would be with the weight of their humiliation. (Cheers.) His opponent, in treating this question, had striven to make the subject ridiculous, and in doing so had made himself ridiculous (applause). Mr. Jodoin had talked about the canal which had been raked up for the purpose of this election. What had Mr. Benoit done for it during the last twenty years? Why had he not allowed a subsidy for the Sorel Railway? Mr. Benoit's career had throughout been only blind submission to the Government, and it was an additional insult for Mr. Jodoin to seek their support in presence of the record. His own father had resigned his seat in the House to accent the guardianshir of the Montreal Court House. Mr. Laroc que, another member, had resigned to become sergeant at-arms of the Provincial long was this system of trading off seats for what he had done common sense and intelligence could only conclude that he had not acted independently in the House. It had been known for two months that there were to be elections, since which time the Gazette, the paid organ of the Government, and La Minerve, its dirty slanderer, had been constantly attacking him. They are afraid of him and had therefore tried to destroy his reputation. He had instituted proceedings against the Gazette, Dr. Martel, and Dr. Lacalle, but did not think it worth while to sue La Minerve, as in a previous action it had taken sixteen months to make them pay the damages. But he must defend his honor and reputation.

(From The New Record, Indianapolis.)

We are pleased to see the stand many of our Catholic contemporaries are taking in regard to the traffic in acred things. Baltimore Council very wisely forbade traffic in sacred things, and yet circulars are continually being sent out by some institutions, of fering prayers and Masses for money consid gal by Her Majesty's Privy Council. Sir John Macdonald, he was sure, had no intention of interfering with provincial concerns, or of depriving the provinces of any portion of their revenue. (Cries of "Oh! oh!" and laughter). He had admitted that he had been misled, but he was to be sufficient to be the provincial council of Baltimore. In the future all such circulars and cards that come to us will be consigned to the waste basket. Canada is the field from which they generally come. Our Canadian friends will save time and money by not sending their circulars to

HONOR TO CANADA'S FIRST CARDINAL AND MONTREAL'S FIRST ARCHBISHOP.

The Arrival and Reception this Morning-A Gloomy Aurora That Bid Not Bumper Catholic Enthusiasm - The Procession, Decorations, Mass and Investiture.

But very few, who awakened at an early hour this morning, had any antic patien that the 27th of July, 1886, would prove ampicious to the grand celebration which fell to the duty of Montreal to make to day on such a doubly extraordinary occasion Even long after tinued to descend, and for some time it was feared that a fitting reception due to a prince of the church would prove a failure. This proved a fortunate missake, however, as about eight o'clock the sky began to c'ear, and although o clock the sky ingar to configure analough the streets were considerably muddy, still, overhead there was every indication that "Old Sol" would conquer ere long, and that a fine day was in store for the anxious citizens of Montreal.

The steamer Montreal, with her distinguished passengers on board, arrived at Jacques Cartier wharf shortly after seven o'clock, but it was not wharf shortly after seven o'clock, but it was not until two hours later that they disembarked. The Archbishop of Montreal, hishere, clergy, city officials and representatives of the various Catholic societies having gone on bard and paid their respects to His Eminence, the procession was formed from the steamer to the kinsk erected on the Richelieu Co.'s pier. A rich carpet was laid on the wharf, the guns fired a salute, and the Zouaves and 65th hattalion under Col. Hughes saluted as the procession passed along Hamel, Brunet, Perrault, Gray, Dufresne and Mathieu. The representatives of the Faculty of Laval University, with the rector and chap-lain. Above the sanctuary were suspended in graceful festoons strips of bunting of yellow and white, the Pontifical colors. The magnificent altar was surmainted by a group of silken ensigns of Great Britain, the Papacy and France. The other special decorations of the altar consisted of the armorial bearings of the Supreme Pontiff, Cardinal Taschereau and Montreal's Archbishop, and numbers of rich colored silk banderoles bearing the inscription "Obeissance," Humilitie," "Purete," "Charite," "Esperance," "Fo," "Resolution," "Reigion," "Priere," "Patrie," and the fifteen mysteries of Rosary. On the gespel side of the altar a magnificent throne of crimson silk had been creeted for the Cardinal. On the back of the canopy was prettily ors. The magnificent altar was surmounted by

THE DECORATIONS. Notwithstanding the fact that the work of decorating for the reception was commenced rather late, everything was in readiness by eight clock. Owing to the heavy rain, early this morning, many who intended to make some kind of a display abandoned the idea. However, it was surprising to see the gorgeous display of bunting and fl gs along the rante of the procession, and even in the streets which were not watted by the pro-cessionists. During the entire night workmen were busily engaged putting the finishing touches to the decorations to the streets through which the procession was to pass. They were completed this morning on the Church of Notre Dame, the City Hall and other places where the Cardinal proposed visiting. At the wharf of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation company, where the steamer with His Eminence on board was to stop, a mammoth kiosk had been erected. It was moth kiosk and open erreted. It was forty-five feet in height, excluding a large dome, which was richly and abundantly draped with bunting, silk and velvet banners, banneretts and flags. The dome entirely covered a raised canopy or dais, under which the address was presented. The tower was enveloped in was presented. The tower was enveloped the scarlet bunting upon which were placed the arms of the Pope, Cardinal and Archbishop, each bearing inscriptions. Inside the dais were rich banneret's in gold and velvet be ring the different arms. From this tower to the foot of Jacques Cartier Square, the route followed by the processionists vas lined with maple and palm trees and numerous flags.

The Jacques Cartier Square arch, which has been erected at the cor Jacques Cartier Square and St. Paul street, was constructed double and was admired by the large crowd who gave vent to expressions of praise at its beautiful appearance. The double arch was at least thirty feet ance. The double arch was at loast thirty test high with two points or small towers over each small arch. The following large inscriptions in black and gold latters, with a white back ground, could be easily discerned from the plat form on the wharf:—"Vive la Cardinal" and "Vive l'Archiveque." Three banners of black material, with letters of gold, were also noticed, and bore the following inscriptious: One in the centre with "Vivo Leo XIII," one on the right centre with "Vivo Leo XIII," one on the right with "Welcome to Bishop O'Bryen," and on left with "Glory and Honor to the Cardinal," the latter being in French. From this arch along Jacques Cartier square to Notro-Dame all the buildings were one mass of flags, bunting and pictures. Among the most attractive were the Jacques Cartier Hutel, from each window of which a flag was flying, while lines of red, white blue and veilow streamers were suspend white blue and yellow streamers were suspended. At the Richelieu Hotel the whole building was covered with streamers, banners and flags, while from each of the numerous windows either a picture of the Pope, Archbishop, the Cardinal or the Pontifical arms were hung.
