

Interviews

David Albright, Institute for Science and International Security
Pavel N. Alekseev, Kurchatov Institute, Moscow
Matthew Bunn, Kennedy School, Harvard University
Tom Cochran, Natural Resources Defense Council, Washington, D.C.
Aleksandr M. Dmitriev, Gosatomnadzor Rossii
Linda Ervin, Canadian International Development Agency
Peter A. Fomichenko, Kurchatov Institute, Moscow
Rose Gottemoeller, Carnegie Endowment for Int'l Peace, Washington, D.C.
Keith Grady, Canadian Environmental Assessment Agency
Mike Guhin, Ambassador, U.S. Department of State
Mark Gwozdecky, then with DFAIT, Canada
Laura S.H. Holgate, Nuclear Threat Initiative, Washington, D.C.
Doris Jalbert, Canadian International Development Agency
Aleksandr A. Kosarikov, State Duma, Russian Federation
Vladimir P. Kuchinov, Ministry of the R.F. for Atomic Energy
James L. Lacy, U.S. Department of Energy
Troy Lulashnyk, DFAIT, Canada
Edwin Lyman, Nuclear Control Institute, Washington, D.C.
Arjun Makhijani, Institute for Energy and Env. Research, Takoma Park, M.D.
Robert Newman, Nonproliferation Trust Inc.
Aleksandr Nikitin, Woodrow Wilson Center for Scholars, Washington, D.C.
Aleksandr A. Pikaev, Carnegie Moscow Center, Moscow
Nikolai N. Ponomarev-Stepnoi, Kurchatov Institute, Moscow
Vladimir I. Rybachenkov, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Russian Federation
Galina E. Rybkina, Ministry of the R.F. for Atomic Energy
Maksim A. Shingarkin, Greenpeace Rossiya, Moscow
Vladimir Sliviyak, Ecodefense!, Moscow
Ian Smith, DFAIT, Canada
David Tregunno, AECL, Ottawa
John Waddington, Canadian Nuclear Safety Commission
Kenneth Wagstaff, Canadian Nuclear Safety Commission
Alexey V. Yablokov, Center for Russian Environmental Policy, Moscow
Vladimir N. Yakimets, Institute of Systems Analysis, Moscow

Three of the above were consulted by telephone. Two were kind enough to comment in detail on a draft of this paper.