

CHAPTER VIII.

MOTHER ST. JOSEPH AND THE HURONS.

The Huron braves visit Quebec, p. 98.—Their reports, 100.—The Mother of the Hurons and her neophytes, 101.—The Iroquois destroy the Huron country, 105.—The remnants of the tribe at Quebec, 107.

CHAPTER IX.

ONE NIGHT AND ITS CONSEQUENCES.

An evening scene, p. 109.—The alarm of fire, 114.—Were all safe? 117.—Hospitality offered, 120.—The ruins, 121.—A visit of condolence, 123.—The Indian harangue, 124.

CHAPTER X.

COURAGE IN ADVERSITY.

Invitation to return to France, p. 128.—Resolution of the Nuns, 130.—Their poverty; charity of the colonists, 133.—The foundation-stone laid again, 134.—Illness of Mother St. Joseph, 137.—Her dying message, 139.—Brief Obituary, 141.

CHAPTER XI.

THE SECOND MONASTERY.

The Nuns remove to their new Convent, p. 146.—The number of scholars augment, 149.—Education of the times, 150.—“Good Seminarists,” 151.—Lodgings of the first Bishop of Quebec, 154.—Madame de la Peltrie’s Church, 155.—Mother Mary of the Incarnation’s labors, 158.