Cour loss of men and expense of ammunition, during the whole Campaign, stood as follows, vizt.:

Officers	Killed.	Woun'd. 107	Total.
Non-Commissioned Officers, Drummers, and Private Men	252	1116	1368
Total		1223	1493

Expense of Ammunition.

Round Shot	32- <sub>1</sub>	ound do.	er	18,000 18,350
	12	do. do.	with wood bottoms	1,000 400
			• • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • •
Musket-shot-Ton	s			13
Shells	13-i 10 6 8 6 5½	nchdododod	25	3,000 2,300 1,000 none.

Brigadier-General Monkton, being a good deal recovered of his wounds, resumed the Command. The advanced season of the year, which must oblige our Fleet to depart soon, and the work that must necessarily be done to accommodate and secure ourselves for the ensuing winter, rendered it now impracticable to continue the operations of the campaign any longer. There were so many difficulties to struggle with, that it was thought doubtful by some what measures might be most adviseable to pursue, either to retain the place or to demolish and abandon it. Depositing and securing our Provisions; Repairing Barracks and Quarters; Improving and securing our Works against assault and surprise; Providing a sufficiency of Fuel for the Winter, &ca., &ca., were all of them works of great labor, and almost equally pressing. But the advantages which must arise