While no official announcement has been made by President P. T. Powers, it is generally understood that Tom Kelly of last year's staff of umpires will be the only one to officiate in the Eastern League next season. Along with Kelly, it is said that Powers has selected Clarence B. Owens, last year with the American Association; John Conway, a former Eastern League umpire, who served in the National League last season, and William Cusack, who officiated in the New York State League last season. A fifth man will also be added to the victims of the Kingston earthquake.

Jack Kerin has signed with the American Association; Angle Moran and Bill Finneran will handle the indicator in the Tri-State League; Canahan will probably go back to the New York State League, whence he came, while Buckley, who had a brief existence toward the clos eof the season, has signed with the Western League.

Owens is considered a competent official altho he figured in several stormy episodes on that circuit last season. In half of the towns he was extremely popular but in the other half he was not so well thought of. Conway is a particular favorite of President Powers and will probably bring some big league ideas back to the Eastern Cusack won for himself a good reputation in the New York League last season, and from all accounts he is made up of the right sort of material for a good umpire. Kelly's work last season was first-class up to the time he disappeared.
