chronic cases of piles as well as those of more recent standing. Captain A. W. Strachan, R.E., of St. Catharines, (Ont.), a man who has served his country in India, China, Japan and Egypt, says:

Ohina, Japan and Egypt, says:

"Nobody has suffered greater agonies than I have through piles. For near 13 years this terrible scourge afflicted me and at times the pain was almost too much for me to bear—especially while enduring the heat and fatigue of foreign duty.

"I think I tried almost every remedy known in India, China, Japan and Egypt. While in India I was in the hospital for three weeks with bleeding piles, and thought I would be compelled to give up the Service,

"I have had to fall out when on the march as I could not endure the pain any longer. Once I was picked up on the field for dead—the pain from the piles was so great that I had fainted.

this great herbal balm, I was relieved, but even after using one box I hardly dared to hope it would cure me permanently. I had got so much relief from it, however, that I decided to persevere, and by the time I had used several boxes, to my great joy I was completely cured. "Zam-Buk is worth its weight in gold. It has cured me and given me now over six months of perfect ease—something which I have not had for thirteen long years! I trust this statement of mine will lead other sufferers to try Zam-Buk and prove its great healing virtue."

Jessie Elliott, the chorus girl in Marie Cahill's company who shaves, was not in her place on the stage of the Princess Theatre last night. She may lose a part of the skin on her cheek, and is now in New York consulting a specialist about her condition. Miss Elliott has been shaving ever since she joined Miss Cahill's "long-skirted" chorus, but a few days ago in Rochester, while performing the operation for the removal of the growth of hair, she cut her cheek with the razor and blood poisoning developed.

RUB and in the construction of the play they are placed in most ridiculous situations, that occasion the greatest merri-

The Rays have a splendid chorus in their support, and there were a number of pretty musical numbers rendered in such a manner that called forth several encores. Among the most tuneful are "My Yankee Maid" (Norma Brown and chorus), "My Rainbow" (George Wismar, Etta Reynolds and chorus) "King of Lalla Pa Zaza" (Harry Mason and chorus), "Just Someone" (Mr. Ray and Alma Bauer), and "Rosie Ramble" (Mrs. Ray and chorus).

Two bumper audiences responded to the call of the Blue Ribbon Girls at the Gavety yesterday. The humor is keen and clean, and everyone does his or her little turn in excellent style. The chorus is made up of a fine lot of dashing g'rls. The first burlesque, "The Blue Ribbon Girls En Route." is full of the Blue Ribbon Gavety yesterday. The humor is keen and clean, and everyone does his or her little turn in excellent style. The chorus is made up of a fine lot of dashing g'rls. The first burlesque, "The Blue Ribbon Girls En Route." is full of laughs. The son, "I Could Learn to Love a Little Girl Like You," sung by Jimmie Lane and Pauline Moran and chorus, evoked several encores. "He Walks Like This" was good, too.

But the funny part was the scene in his son-in-law. a Mr. Boyd, is now in Toronto. He is stopping at the Elliott House, and every day or so he sends father-in-law the latest news of the battle now in progress. The last bulletins were so cheering that the old gentleman is said to have begun packing his trunk.

Wilson Bros.' comedy bar performers, are clever in their line of endeavor. Lew Sully introduces a new song called "Wise Old Robinson Crusoe," and talks a lot of twaddle at times. He makes the people laugh, at that, so he was applauded deservedly.

The Lulu Beeson Trio put on A Night in El Paso that is artistic in scenic effect, and contains some splendid dancing on the side.

Miss Carrie de Mar, the comedienne, sings a couple of songs in her own peculiarly happy style, and one called "Lonesome Flossie" was exceedingly well received.

At the Majestic.

"THE NINETY AND NINE."

The two large audiences which greeted the rural comedy drama, "The Ninety and Nine" at the Majestic yesterda yare a justification of a belief among the better class of playwrights and managers that the popular price houses will support a much better grade of attractions. "The Ninety and Nine" offers none of the impossibilities that have been the chief claims of many of the so-called successes, but on the contrary, while it introduces some startling scenic effects, its action takes place in a little Indiana village, and the comedy is furnished by the quaint characters of the rural districts, and it carries with it an atmosphere wherein dwell the bighearted, care-free country folks.

The play teaches a healthy moral lesson in the most effective manner. It is a life story told in condensed form, and acted with fidelity to the feelings and passions of the characters. It tells a heart-rending story of a drunkard and his subsequent redemption thru the influence of a noble and trusting weman, actuated by her love of the man.
