AGE IS SEVENTY-SEVEN AND PARADED SATURDAY

Mrs. Lee Said to Be None the Worse for Her Strenuous Outing.

Among the most interesting women who walked in the women's parade was Mrs. Lee, widow of the late Major Lee, who is 77 years of age, and is said to have been the oldest woman who took part in the procession. She walked the entire distance and reports herself as none the worse for her somewhat strenuous outing.

For many years Mrs. Lee has been connected with a good deal of the work of women's societies in Toronto. As a delegate from time to time from the women's local council she is known in Toronto her slight, alert figure is a familiar one at many gatherings.

The crediting herself with the years walked as women twenty years her junior, and her rich voice and gentle smile of justice to all and betterment to humanity generally, are listened to everywhere with appreciation by her fellow-workers.

The example she set on Dominion Day when she walked so patriotically in keeping with the spirit by which she is always characterized—that of doing to the utmost her part in the battle of life.

FUNERAL OF TORONTO AIRMAN YESTERDAY

Body of Late Sub-Lieut. J. R. Chamberlin Brought Home for Burial.

In deference to the wishes of his parents, Flight Sub-Lieut. J. Russell Chamberlin was buried from the home of his parents, 36 Pleasant boulevard, without a military funeral, yesterday, in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

The late sub-lieutenant was killed in a fall from his machine on June 2, when he had made an ascent of some 6000 feet and was on his return, when in some unaccountable manner the machine collapsed and the engine burst into flames. The body was brought home for burial, and the parents are thankful for that it was in England that the fatal mishap occurred, and not in France, from which place his body could not have been returned.

Lieut. Chamberlin was only 25 years of age, but he had, previous to enlisting, graduated from the University of Toronto in forestry, and was at the outbreak of the war a forestry expert for the government of British Columbia.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Cameron of Bloor street Baptist Church, with which church Lieut. Chamberlin had been connected for many years. Rev. Alfred Hall, chaplain of the British Soldiers' and Sailors' Society, was also present and gave a short address.

KALEM PLAYERS GET LONG WATER JOURNEY

Two Round Trips to Seattle Needed Before Necessary Scenes Could Be Photographed.

"Water stuff" has a new meaning, completing two round trips by boat to Seattle from San Francisco.

When the company started the weather promised an early completion of the task of securing the marine film, a forth-coming "social" episode, and the players were looking forward to a return trip to Seattle with still a number of the scenes to be taken.

Then, on the return trip the weather broke, and the players sat about in enforced idleness while the elements were returned to "In the Service of the State," a forth-coming "social" episode, and the players were looking forward to a return trip to Seattle with still a number of the scenes to be taken.

There were over twenty in the party of the last Kalam trip, electricians and stage hands transforming the boat practically into a studio. Portable interiors on the possible secure actual scenes were made up of three screens, played by Mrs. Lee, Miss Kalam, and Miss Kalam.

Another announcement of importance concerning the production of comedies is that Henry Murdock, the comedian who has scored so strongly in the "Sis Hopkins" comedies, will be drafted for the comedy supporting the famous English beauty, Murdock, in less than a year on the screen, has jumped to the front rank of film fun-makers.

Combining unusual acrobatic ability with a strong comedy sense, he seems ideally built for the screen.

William McKeay, prominent as a stage comedian, and in feature screen productions, has also been secured as a member of the all-star company that will support Miss Kalam, McKeay, who will be remembered as a Kalam player in "David Harrow" and "The Green Swamp" and "The Golden Claw" will have another great purpose play. It shows the folly and the danger of being too much hasty.

"Personally, I am an actress who is satisfied with film as a realm for artistic expression. The stage is gone except for wonderful theatricals, and I am glad that it has been purified.

"In a way much the same will happen to picture making. We will go thru with the baby-doll motion picture actress and the mammy-pammy actor, and the crowd of the male mollycoddle who is the average girl's idol, and tired of the pretty-pretty girl who has a dainty pout and a languish little touch of beauty, but not an ounce of brains.

"They want in pictures what they would want in the theatre, and that is force of character and intelligence. The pretty little thing who stokes one's fancy is her mouth if she looks one parent in a wreck, and has lost her grip with the people on the screen as on the stage."

ALICE BRADY IN "LA BOHEME." Alice Brady is completing work on the World's production of "La Boheme," and is now busily engaged with the director, Emile Chautard, cutting the picture, when it will be shown to the singers of the Metropolitan Opera House for their opinion before it is finally sent out to the country on the regular program.

Another prominent physician who has seen the results of this prescription is equally satisfied by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to restore eyesight in a few days, or to refund the money. CHINESE SWALLOWS IN ANTIQUE CAGE. Clara Kimball Young's Pets Housed in Fitting Domain.

Clara Kimball Young, who was recently presented with a pair of marvellously plumaged Chinese swallows, searched New York until she found an appropriate cage to house her beautiful pets in. She found an antique cage of the Wing Fued dynasty (about 1600 A.D.) at the Almona Galleries and paid $250 for it. Her two swallows had refused to sing until they landed in the congenial atmosphere of their antique home. Now they sing ecstatically, but unfortunately for Miss Young's peace of mind these eccentric birds will only sing at night.

FULL SPEED AHEAD FOR IVY CLOSE FILMS

Kalem Announces That Robert Ellis Will Direct New Comedies.

An indication of Kalem's enthusiastic plans for the new Ivy Close comedies is found in the announcement made this week that Robert Ellis, one of the most valued producers on the Kalem staff, would handle the reins with the new company.

Popular for a number of years as a screen leading man, Ellis has placed to his credit as a producer in the last two years a number of Kalem's most successful multiple reel productions, including a number of the Broadway Follies productions presenting prominent stage players. His work in the Ivy Close comedies has brought him into notice as a comedy producer.

Another announcement of importance concerning the production of comedies is that Henry Murdock, the comedian who has scored so strongly in the "Sis Hopkins" comedies, will be drafted for the comedy supporting the famous English beauty, Murdock, in less than a year on the screen, has jumped to the front rank of film fun-makers.
