HOW CARPENTERS WOULD

IT TAKE? To fix the homes and buildings that have had the repairs post-poned for years.

Hundreds of carpenters and painters could be kept busy saving the owners from further loss by preventing the decay to the woodwork. The spoiling of ceilings and plaster comes from leaky roofs.

Builds Trade on Speed in Making Change.

"The quickest change service in Denver."

This is the claim of the Reynolds & Wallace Food Store, and the contention covers all stores in its class.

This grocery, occupying an entire building, was established a little over a year ago. One of the partners, Frank H. Wallace, for thirty years in the grocery and market business, and many ideas of his own as to just how a retail store should be constructed, to make it the most convenient and clean. To use his jown expression, he "built the store around the fixtures."

The building has a frontage of fifty feet and a depth of sixty-five feet. The store itself occupies all of the front and about two-thirds of the depth of the first floor. All of the rest of the building, which includes a mezzanine floor, a basement and a second floor, is designed—except for a smoke-room and kitchen in the basement—to facilitate the swift movement of merchandise, with maximum cleanliness and minimum labor.

Serving retail floor space of some 2,000 square feet, the Reynolds & Wallace store has thirty-one cash carriers, besides upwards of a dozen cash registers. The cashier's cage is seven and one-half feet above, the floor in the centre of the grocery and allied lines department. This occupies about two-thirds of the frontage and is separated from the meat department by a front-to-rear partition.

Cash carriers are so numerous, in fact, that the clerk seldom has to take more than one step to reach one. There are many more carriers than clerks and in a rush period the clerk never need wait for one to be available—there's always one at hand.
