First Picture Today In Times' Miss St. John Contest For Queen

Photographers Busy on Portraits—Independent Judges Will Make the Final Selection at Close of the Competition on January 27.

The Times prints in today's issue the first picture of a candidate to be nominated for the position of Carnival Queen and who will preside over the winter festivities here next month.

The task of selecting the young lady who will receive the title of Miss St. John will be entrusted by the Times to a committee of representative citizens, all of whom will be entirely independent of the press and of the members of the committee which has in hand the carnival arrangements.

CANDIDATE NO. 1.

Those candidates who are to be considered for the title of Miss St. John will be invited to sit for new pictures at the photographer's studio. The pictures are to be taken on Saturday January 27.

Registration form for the Carnival Queen Contest, including fields for Name, Address, and a note to cut out on a dotted line.

Duesseldorf, Jan. 16.—The French now control every outlet from the Ruhr into Germany, whether by rail or water. The lines were extended today through Dortmund to Luenen on the Lippe, and thence to Witten, which is seven kilometers south of Dortmund.

As Hiram Sees It

"I see," said Mr. Hiram Horton to the Times reporter, "they found out there in Egypt the tomb of a king that died thirty-five hundred years ago. He was a rich old feller and they buried all kinds of valuables with him. I wonder how many thousand years people was livin' afore that I s'pose old Tutankamen had some relics his folks hed dug up from thirty-five hundred years afore his time. Sort of sets you thinkin' don't it?"

GREY TRESSES OF PHAROAH'S QUEEN AGAIN SEE LIGHT

In Alabaster Box Removed from Tomb. Big Crowds at Luxor—Chariot Wheel and Ebony Box Removed from Royal Burial Place—Studded With Precious Stones.

Luxor, Egypt, Jan. 10.—If Howard Carter had prepared for years he would have been unable to preach a more eloquent or moving sermon on the impermanency of the individual than he did unconsciously in the Valley of the Kings this morning. It was a glorious day, warm and tranquilly clear. There was an abnormally large crowd near Tutankamen's tomb, composed of visitors from the Luxor hotels and passengers from the steamers and private dahabieh stopping at Luxor.
