PRACTICE CHASE
OF BANDIT IN AIR
New York, June 4—Just after having taunted "Nicky" Arnstein, long hunted in connection with New York's $500,000 bond theft plot, when he returned to Manhattan in his wife's automobile under the very noses of the city's 11,000 police occupied with their annual parade, the department yesterday announced an airplane "handicraft" demonstration for next Sunday.
In this programme a car containing a perfectly safe and reliable "handicraft" will rush out of town along a pre-arranged route from Riverside Drive to Broadway to the Polo Grounds and the open stretches beyond. A police plane will pursue and endeavor to "nab" the "handicraft" when the "chase" gets into the open.
