I suffered with attacks of sick headache. No analgia, female trouble, for years in the most terrible and excruciating manner.

No medicine or doctor could give me relief or cure until I used Hop Bitters. "Nearly cured me."

"The second made me as well and strong as when a child." "And I have been so to this day."

My husband was an invalid for twenty years with a serious liver complaint. "Promoted by Boston's best physicians."

"Incurable!" Seven bottles of your Bitters cured him and I knew of the "Lives of eight persons" in my neighborhood that have been saved by your Bitters.

And many more are using them with great benefit. "Do miracles!" - Mrs. E. D. Slack.

Frightful Privations at Sea. ALLEGED MURDER AND CANNIBALISM--ARRIBTS OF THE SURVIVORS.

(London Standard.) Our Plymouth correspondent writes:--The brigantine "Montezuma," of Hamburg, which arrived at Falmouth on Saturday, reported having on board three men, namely Thomas Dudley, of Colchester; Edwin Stephens, of Southampton; and Edward Brooks, of Brightlingsea, who had been rescued after having experienced frightful sufferings at sea.

These men, with a man named Richard Parker, of Southampton, were engaged to take out the yacht "Mignonette" to a gentleman at Sydney, New South Wales. They left Southampton on the 19th of May, and had a fine voyage up to the time of their crossing the line on the 17th of June.

From this date their troubles commenced. Dirty weather set in, and for several days a succession of heavy gales was experienced. On the 3rd of July a frightful storm was met with, and a high sea swept over the yacht with such force as to lay her right upon her side.

The captain seeing that the yacht was rapidly foundering ordered the boat to be got out. This was done, but with the exception of two small tins of preserved turnips they were without either food or water. The turnips lasted but four or five days, and their sufferings from thirst during that time were frightful.

They killed a turtle and drank its blood, and then for more than a fortnight they were absolutely without food. So terrible did their position become that at the end of the eighteenth day they deliberated as to casting lots as to who should give up the others. This plan was proposed by the captain, but one of the men objected saying it was better they should all die together, and the proposal was not pressed.

But after two days more of horrible suffering both the captain and the mate suggested that the boy Parker should be killed, especially as his sufferings were so intense that he had become delirious. They also reasoned that he was only a lad with no responsibilities, while they were married men with wives and families dependent upon them. Brooks declined to be a party to this act, and at first none of the others would undertake it. Eventually, however, Captain Dudley and Edwin Stephens decided to kill Parker, it being arranged that Dudley should strike the blow while Stephens held the lad down.

Dudley first offered up a prayer for forgiveness, and then telling Parker that his time had come, ran a penknife through his jugular vein, and the boy died almost immediately. The survivors caught the gushing blood in their tin and drank it between them and then stripped the body of its clothes, cut out the liver and heart while yet hot from the body, and devoured them voraciously. For the next four days they continued to live on the flesh which they tore from Parker's dead body, and they were still eating their horrible food when, on the twenty-fourth day from the time they left their yacht, they were sighted and rescued by the German barque "Montezuma." They then presented the appearance of living skeletons, and were so weak and exhausted that they had to be lifted out of the boat and carried on board. The mangled remains of Parker were at once cast into the sea, and the survivors received every kindness and attention on board the barque. On arriving at Falmouth on Saturday they were taken to the Sailors' Home and later in the day they were apprehended under a warrant, and to-day will be brought before the magistrates charged with the murder of Parker on the high seas.

The Bad and Worthless. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is positive proof that the remedy imitated is of the highest value. As soon as it had been tested and proved by the whole world that Hop Bitters was the purest, best and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitations sprang up and began to steal the notice in which the press and the people of the country had expressed the merits of H. B., and in every way trying to induce H. B., and in every way trying to induce H. B., and in every way trying to induce H. B.

Many others started nostrums put up in similar style to H. B., with variously devised names in which the word "Hop" or "Hops" were used in a way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures, no matter what their style or name is, and especially those with the word "Hop" or

Ireland has been visited by a terrible hurricane. A man recently asked in a drug store for a box of rough diamonds, but the druggist knew no such remedy. After much parley, the druggist found that his customer wanted Parson's Purgative Pills. He says, "That's the only fix for 'em."

The French people appear to be in favour of a British alliance. Gen. Gordon has compelled the rebels to evacuate Soudan.

Ministers, Lawyers, Teachers, and others whose occupation gives them but little exercise, should use Carter's Little Liver Pills for torpid liver and biliousness. One is a dose.

It is reported that the Mahdi is advancing towards the White Nile. He probably intends to cross the river at Duen.

Advices from Hanoi, under date of 4th inst., state that two French gunboats, while cruising in advance of a party which was reconnoitering in the Valley of Loachuan, was attacked by Chinese regulars. One French officer was killed and 130 men were wounded. Reinforcements have already arrived at the scene of the encounter.

Dryppegal in its worst form will yield to the use of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They not only relieve present distress, but strengthen the stomach and digestive apparatus.

Leading merchants will recollect the celebrated "Carrie" failure which took place in Quebec in 1867, when the largest retail house there collapsed to the tune of $100,000. Mr. Carrier subsequently settled for fifty cents in the dollar, all his creditors signing off and being quite satisfied, granted him his discharge. A few years ago Mr. Carrier died, and in his will he requested his wife, when the estate was wound up, if anything remained to attempt a farther payment to his erstwhile creditors, and this she has now done. Yesterday at the end of seven years since the creditors in Montreal as could be found were admitted in the shape of twenty cents on the dollar, of the old debt. - Montreal Star.

The Great Industrial Exposition at New Orleans. It is attracting attention all over the world. It will present in the most complete manner one of the largest and most influential expositions of the world, there being so many strange and curious things constantly occurring. None stranger perhaps than the Grand Monthly Drawing of the World-Famed Louisiana State Lottery Co., which will next occur on Tuesday, Oct. 14th, of which all information can be had of M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., on application.

The Steamer, which is to take the place of the wrecked Dominion Steamer, "Princess Louise," will be launched from John O'Brien's yard at Monaca on the 22nd inst. The machinery was put in and the vessel rigged by Mr. Alex. Lang, of St. John, who has received a very flattering testimonial from Mr. O'Brien.

A despatch of 3rd inst. says:--The Government will introduce a proposition to Parliament to make an annual allowance of $10,000 to Prince Albert Victor. The Radicals will oppose the measure. The Queen is trying to arrange a marriage between Prince Victor and Princess Marie of Belgium. It is reported that the Queen will place Buckingham Palace at the service of the Prince of Wales, giving Marlborough House to Prince Victor. In consequence of the clamour of the Radical press the Admiralty has refused to give Prince Lintin, the Queen's cousin, the post of Admiral at the retired list.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hyposulphites. Very Palatable and Effectual in Wasting Diseases.

Dr. C. T. Broussier, Rochester, N. Y., says: "After having used Scott's Emulsion with decided benefit upon myself, I have taken great pleasure in recommending it since in the various conditions of wasting in which it is indicated."

Captain Burton, the Arctic traveller, writes to the Academy that he feels soothed at the polling of the English press over the gallant but unfortunate Greely expedition. He says the silly charge of cannibalism seems to have provoked an outbreak. He says that in all Islam, a religion of common sense, there is no obloquy for unfortunate men hunger compels horribly to save life. If it is civilization to make us such pitroons that we dare not venture everything for noble need, the sooner we abdicate in favor of a less advanced people the better.

The Marquis of Salisbury addressed a meeting of members of the Conservative party at Glasgow, on Saturday night. He said that the present state of affairs in Ireland is due to Gladstone's signing policy of extreme lenience and savage oppression. All the European powers, he stated, are united against England. The Egyptian dilemma was not due to the fulfilment of Lord Beaconsfield's engagements, but to the prostrating policy of the Liberal. Lord Randolph Churchill also addressed a meeting of conservatives at Leeds. He said that a franchise bill and a redistribution bill would have been passed by the Tories in 1866 but for the opposition of Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Bright to Lord Beaconsfield's measures. He regarded the opposition of powers to England as a serious matter. He believed that they would give a practical effect to the prospect of making money on the Egyptian sinking fund. Further danger he declared awaited the government both in Ireland and Egypt.
