

over a general loss. His eyes were closed, but one's was a look of pain.

On the other side of me was a fair girl of nineteen, perhaps. She was dressed in a full dress of white, and, old I had that brought my memory back. I remembered that I had often seen such a dress. I knew not where she was from, who she was, or what her name was. The girl was lovely. Her face was still round, her lips pale in a gentle heavenly smile, her white shoulders still smooth, but the young bosom that had once, perhaps, throbbed with love, now cold, suddenly, still lay long at the face. It was beautiful; it produced a sense in me. I did not remember, if I ever thought I had seen some here—some dream.

There were many other bodies, and I started at them all—last, all that the dim light allowed me to see. They lay close together, some dead and troubled. I laid at one remembrance that this must be death, and that I knew that I was really alive, and the thought of being alive amid the dead was awful.

I made a desperate effort, raised myself on my sinking legs, and crawled from my coffin. Before me lay the glass door. I remembered that it must be a door. I crawled to it in agony—terrible agony—the pain of longing to escape, and the impulsion of doing so without weakness. At last, I reached it, and by another effort, stood upright, and looked out, and saw the light outside—for sure it was—I saw a vast grayness. Oh! even that sight, all alone as I was, was cheerful, compared with what was behind me—the dead. I sought to open the door; I felt and found the handle, and almost without effort, I tried to scream, and my voice did not come. I was silent, and the silence was death, and this terror sent an unnatural force to my wasted limbs. I shook the door, and with all my might, I thrust my fist through the glass and then through the iron piercings of the door.

Oh! how terrible those sounds—the sound echoed through the dead house, and passed over the white, quiet, tombstones, and there was no answer. I shrank again and again, and then overcame myself, and I clung almost to the door, and this terror sent an unnatural force to my wasted limbs. I shook the door, and with all my might, I thrust my fist through the glass and then through the iron piercings of the door.

At last a light gleamed close by. Oh, it cheered me. I called for help and no longer feared my own voice. Still there was no answer, but in a moment or two a figure advanced slowly and cautiously, and by the light of the fire, the figure of a dead man so white, so full of dread, was the face. It advanced step by step, holding the light before it high up with a trembling hand. I cried, but still it answered not. I shouted. For God's sake, let me out.

He answered not, but came on slowly, and I could see him tremble. At last he came almost close up, but stopped and turned the light full upon my face. For some minutes, at least, he stood thus, and not knowing who or what he was, decided he could only cling to the door.

Presently I heard a jingling as of iron, next a ringing in the lock of the door, and then the door was opened, and I fell insensible on my face.

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE NEWS-ROOM.

FREDERICKTON, Feb. 27.—Mr. Lawrence presented a petition from the people of Fredericton, requesting for the appointment of a Committee of the House to investigate certain alleged injuries caused to petitioners by imperfect legislation, as manifest in an Act relating to the opening of Canterbury-street in the city of St. John. The Speaker appointed Messrs. Lawrence, Boyd, and Bedford, on committee.

Mr. C. Peiley introduced a Bill to continue the Act to incorporate the Maduxnuk Boom Company.

The House resolved itself into Committee of the whole, and passed a Bill to amend the Act incorporating the St. John Boom Company, April 25, 1857.

The Government continued its efforts to secure a session of Parliament for bringing down measures. Members of the Government stated that measures would be shortly introduced.

Hon. S. Smith stated that the Government had no time to spare to do this session as the late Government had no session.

Mr. Gilbert introduced a Bill to disqualify office holders and certain persons from holding seats in the Assembly.

Mr. Tapley obtained leave to bring in a Bill to divide the City of St. John into two separate parishes.

Hon. Mr. Gray introduced a Bill to provide for the incorporation of the Synod of the Presbyterian Church of New Brunswick.

The Bill enabling the St. John Semen's Friend Society to bring up its affairs, passed in Committee.

Very little business done. House adjourned at four o'clock.

FREDERICKTON, March 2d.—

Mr. Hathaway called a meeting of the House to consider that there was no copy of the Laws of the Province obtainable. The Attorney General would have some put up if such was the desire of the House. Mr. Connell said he thought more economy should be used in the manner of having them printed than heretofore. He thought they might be printed in a large quantity, and the price of a Bill if not in a sufficient number.

McLennan in the Chair, reported as agreed to a Bill to amend several acts to the Nauklukashuk Bill Company.

On motion the House went into a Committee of the whole in consideration of a Bill to amend chapter 22 of the revised statutes relating to sick and disabled seamen. After a long discussion, exceedingly barren of interest, no progress was reported.

Mr. Johnson obtained leave of absence for a few days.

On motion of Mr. Tibbitts it was resolved that an humble address be presented to His Excellency, asking for a detailed account of the proposed new boundary line between the Province and A. B. Woodstock, the Commissioner to establish the boundary line between this Province and Canada.

The resolution of which Mr. Smith gave notice on Saturday, passed; the committee appointed was Messrs. Smith and Lewis.

Mr. Tibbitts moved that a copy of the petition from sundry inhabitants of Carleton County, praying that the fund collected in the Town of Woodstock be paid over to the County Treasurer, be forwarded to the Mayor and Council of the Town of Woodstock.

Mr. Harding obtained leave to bring in a Bill relating to Hawkes and Pedlar.

A few minutes after 12 o'clock Mr. Harding, seeing the Attorney General in his place, arose and asked that gentleman if to his knowledge he (Mr. Harding) had been an applicant for office under the present Government.

Hon. Mr. Gray replied that Mr. Harding had not applied for an office under the present Government, and that the duty performed by Mr. Tibbitts as Commissioner to Canada were performed to the satisfaction of the Government.

A message from the Legislative Council informed the House that the Council had agreed to the Bill to incorporate the St. John Harmonie Society with several other bills.

Mr. Connell presented a petition from the Mayor and Town Council of Woodstock praying that no Amendment may be made in the Act to incorporate the Town of Woodstock without their consent.

Another animated discussion took place between the Government and the Opposition respecting the time for going into consideration of this Election Bill. Messrs. Connell, Watters and McAdam, with several others of the Opposition, advocated the petition of the Government.

Members of the Government contended that they had a majority and were not going to resign.

Finally decided to go into consideration of the Election Bill on Monday.

Messrs. Tibbitts and Watters complained of the neglect that had been manifested by the Government in not attending to the bridge at Grand Falls. Both gentlemen urged the necessity of the work being proceeded with. House adjourned at half past four.

PROVINCIAL APPOINTMENTS.—John C. Vail, Esquire, to be a Justice of the King's Court Grammar School, William Whitlock, Esquire, to be Commissioner of the Sick and Disabled Seamen's Fund at the Port of Saint Andrew.

On Wednesday, the dead body of an infant was found in an alley way, in Charlotte-street. It was wrapped in an old blanket and placed in a basket, and had evidently been there but a very short time.

It is the intention of Government to bring a measure to alter existing Railway acts.

Will the Government bring in Bill of indemnity to legalize the past issue of debentures for Rail-way purposes?

Government of numerous difficulties, and the offer of peace and submission which the Shah tendered through his special envoy now at Paris.

RECENTLY TERMINATED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

It is not intended, says the Daily News, to send out any troops from England to Persia. This announcement we make with the most entire confidence that it will be found to be correct. We believe we may add that the force already at Bushire will not advance into the interior, and that every effort is being made to bring about a peace.

The Murray affair, we are assured, forms no serious part of the negotiations, and being carried on at Paris by Perous Khan and Lord Cowley, and there is at present every reason to hope that these discussions will terminate in the establishment of amicable relations between the English and Persian Government.

THE WAR WITH CHINA.

The Daily News also gives prominence to the following paragraph:—In another column we have stated that no troops are to be sent from England to Persia. We have equally good grounds from England to China.

THE CHINESE REVOLUTIONS.

The Paris correspondence of the Times is chiefly devoted to the question of the Danish Principality. There can, it is observed, be no room for a foreign prince; and this would be impossible, except under a foreign prince; and this was the opinion of M. Kisseloff less than ten days ago. At the same time a foreign sovereign in the Principality would be contrary to the Treaty of Paris, which establishes the Suzerain of these Provinces.

NOTES ON THE EXPEDITION OF THE REBELS.

Paris, Feb. 12.—A madman attacked the Emperor to-day. He was instantly arrested; no arms were found upon him. He declared that his intention was merely to obtrude his views.

Negotiation has been opened in Paris between Perous Khan and our Ambassador, which will, it is hoped, end in peace. It is evident that neither Parliament nor people want a Persian war, especially since they have learned that the East India Company will delay only half of the expense and that John Bull must pay the other half. Moreover, the movements of Russia on the Persian frontier are menacing. She is strongly opposed to Great Britain possessing any points upon the Persian coast, and seems determined, if the Shahr dominions are to be dismembered, to share in the spoils. The papers connected with the Chinese quarrel have been laid before Parliament during the week, and when the financial discussions are concluded, no doubt there will be a field day, on which battle will be done on this question. Lord Palmerston's explicit denial of Mr. Disraeli's assertion that France, backed up by England, guaranteed to Austria her Italian dominions during the late war, elicited a repetition of the charge by the leader of the Opposition, and a denial on the part of the Premier, but it seems that though there was no treaty, a convention was proposed, by which, if Austria joined the allies and declared war against Russia, France bound herself to unite her troops with those of Austria to put down insurrection in the Austrian territories. As the court of Vienna did not actively join in the allied arrangement of course, it did not effect; but anybody may see that it would have been a virtual guarantee of the Austrian dominions in the peninsula.

Advocates for "Woman's Rights" and for the equality or even the inherent superiority of the ladies mentally, though not physically, over the "lords of the creation," will learn with satisfaction the rise into celebrity of a female sculptor.

The name of the lady is Miss Hattie Hosmer, a young American lady, described as of great energy and force of character, who is now pursuing her studies under the guidance of Mr. Wilson, at Rome.

As a pupil she is industrious and earnest. During four years she has worked with unflagging zeal at her profession, and she has modeled during the same time two original busts of singular merit both as to design and execution.

Lady Franklin, ever untiring in her efforts to rescue her lost husband, has addressed an affecting letter to the Premier, urging the despatch of another searching expedition, which she says may be done with but little risk to the lives of those engaged in it. This final search is, she says, all she seeks, and all she ever intends to ask, in behalf of the first and only martyrs to Arctic discovery in modern times; but she deserves the decision of the Government, upon her proposal, as an unfavorable one, she is prepared to send out an expedition at her own cost, and to spend, if necessary, the whole of her remaining fortune upon it. It is now, however, pretty well understood that the Government will despatch an expedition, and that a separate estimate of the expense will be issued.

The Empress of France has received a second warning for an attack on the Constitution. The first warning, given to the Gazette, was on the 14th February, 1853.

A third official warning will amount to a suspension of the paper.
