

Walking by the same rule," in the ordinances and commands of the Lord. In the visible world, is it not one law that binds the planets, and keeps them in their right position towards the sun? Similar to this in the Church is the Law of Love. Christians are one in Christ, and they love each other with a pure heart and of one heart and of one soul. This compelled others to say, "See how these Christians love one another." This made the Church strong. So that amid the fires of persecution she could rebuke all that was not accordant with loyalty to Christ, and not with the universal predominance of the celestial element of Love. How could the world see what was so unearthly in its nature, angelic in its beauty, and attractive in its power, and not know its Divine original, and not trace its descent from the Father of Lights? In this state the Church is prepared for powerful action upon the world. And the weapons of her warfare are not carnal. Not the glare of worldly wisdom as it may display itself on the battle-field, not the prowess of the warrior as in philosophy, which is falsely so called, "but spiritual;" weapons of love, the disposition to put forth labour, to endure hardship, to brave danger so that the kingdom of Satan may be invaded, and the kingdom of God's Son. To meet the demands of Duty, the Church must have armor bright, her artillery planted, combine long-suffering with zeal; beseech and allure by all the precious promises of salvation; and awe and adjure by all the threatenings and thunder of the Gospel. God will then speed the arrows of her love, and the slain of the Lord will be many.
