GERMAN REINFORCEMENTS IN THE SOISSONS SECTOR

Both Flanks of German Army Between Soissons and Rheims Appear To Have Been Turned—Allies Continue Advance—Terrible Scenes in Wake of Retreating Enemy—Many Bodies Found.

Paris, Aug. 4.—Both flanks of the German forces between Rheims and Soissons appear to have been turned. The French have forced a crossing of the Vesle west of Rheims.

German reinforcements are reported arriving in the Soissons sector from the north. The Allies continue their advance, according to latest reports, although it is held within prudent limits.

Allied forces in pursuit of the Germans have passed through veritable chanel houses, strewn with the debris of war. Bodies of men and horses are mingled with broken down vehicles alongside of monster ammunition dumps.

Paris, Aug. 3.—American troops hold the outskirts of Fismes the great German base in the centre of the Aisne-Marne salient, according to the war office tonight.

The Allies continued their successful advance today along a front of about thirty miles, toward the Vesle River. They have reached the southern banks of the Aisne and the Vesle, the line extending from Soissons to Fismes.

"During the course of the day our troops, driving back the enemy rear guards, continued their victorious march on a front of about fifty kilometres in the direction of the Vesle River."

"Our left our line extends along the southern banks of the Aisne and the Vesle, from Soissons as far as Fismes, the outskirts of which are Americans hold."

"East of Fismes we have reached a general line north of Courville, Brancourt, Courcelles and Champigny."

"Our cavalry patrols are operating along the railroad between Soissons and Rheims."

"Our progress at certain points since yesterday exceeds ten kilometres."

"More than fifty villages have been delivered on this day alone."

ANNUAL CRUISE OF YACHTSMEN COMES TO CLOSE

Able Sermon Preached at Sand Point Yesterday Morning By Rev. Dr. J. A. Morrison—Address on the War Was Instantly Listened To.

The annual cruise of the R. K. Y. C. on the St. John River was brought to a fitting close yesterday morning at Sand Point when the yachtsmen and their friends who assembled in large numbers listened with rapt attention to an able sermon preached by Rev. Dr. J. A. Morrison, of the First Presbyterian Church, West St. John.

After referring to the sermon he preached to the yachtsmen last year, Dr. Morrison then gave an able address on the war, saying that the war is still with us. Four years of strife such as the world has never seen before, a strife of over twenty millions of fighting men and yet no immediate hope of arriving at an end.

CRIME DETECTED BY MEN'S LAUNDRY

Scotland Yard, London, Maintains Biggest Washing Book in the World—Famous Cases Solved By Laundry Marks.

London, June 6.—The biggest washing book in the world, which is kept at Scotland Yard, has had to be called into use several times of late. And in each instance, as in hundreds of others before, the mighty register, which it is no exaggeration thus to designate, has proved an indispensable service in supplying the police with a clue which has proved the undoing of a previously unknown criminal.

The official name of the world's biggest washing book is "The Register of Laundries and Laundry Marks," and its owner is the commissioner of police. It comprises 12 massive volumes, in which are recorded particulars that make it possible to trace the ownership of any piece of wearing apparel that has ever passed through a wash in Great Britain, provided, of course, that the laundry mark is decipherable.

Scores of criminals in all parts of the country have been brought to justice by means of this remarkable book, which is most useful in cases of foul play and when unidentified bodies are found. The chief of the recent cases in which it enabled justice to be done swiftly was an extraordinary one, which made a sensation and almost succeeded in diverting public attention from the war during the surprisingly few days that it remained a mystery.

Behind the railings of a square in Bloomsbury, the great boarding house district of London in which, in peace times, so many American tourists find lodgings, and which is now largely inhabited by aliens, the dismembered trunk of a woman was found. Headless, armless and legless, this trunk, which was otherwise so mutilated that virtually no marks by which the victim might have been identified remained to give a clue.

All that the police had to go on, in fact, consisted of a piece of brown paper, about six inches by six, on which was scrawled in faint lead pencil the words, "Bloodie Belgium" and two fine white sheets, which the trunk had been wrapped in, one of which bore the laundry mark, "I.H."

This last, however, was all sufficient to enable the police to identify the washing book, which the woman had assumed name. He had also, by specious pretences, got her to hide her identity in every possible way, and he had decoyed her to the beach at dead of night and there strangled her—silently, swiftly, secretly—while pretending to care for her. But he overlooked the existence of that one little tell-tale laundry mark, which brought him to the scaffold.

Another recent murder case in which a laundry mark played an important part was the affair of Henry Lewis Salmon, a wardrobe dealer in Bishop's Road, Paddington. This tradesman was stabbed in the heart in his shop in the evening hours, after he had put up his shutters, robbery being the evident motive for the crime.

His assailant or assailants, which one of them is supposed to have taken from his own pocket into the victim's mouth, probably to stifle his cries. This handkerchief, which was in black cotton, these stitches being sewn well inside the left corner of the handkerchief. The police are now working on this and other clues, but as to the result Scotland Yard at present preserves silence.

Perhaps the most striking instance on record in this country of how laundry marks assist the police was that of the Yarmouth beach mystery, when the mutilated body of a woman was discovered on the western shore of that, previous to the war, popular seaside resort. Over 400 laundries were visited by the police to discover the ownership of the linen found on the body. It was traced at last to a small place of laundry at Woolwich, whither it had been sent by a Mrs. Bennett. Twelve hours later the dead woman had been identified and her husband, Herbert John Bennett, was in custody, charged with her murder.

He had, as he thought, obliterated every clue. He had persuaded the woman to stay at Yarmouth under an assumed name. He had also, by specious pretences, got her to hide her identity in every possible way, and he had decoyed her to the beach at dead of night and there strangled her—silently, swiftly, secretly—while pretending to care for her. But he overlooked the existence of that one little tell-tale laundry mark, which brought him to the scaffold.

Over The Top And At The Germans--Nuxated Iron Helps Give Men The Strength, Power and Courage

Ass't Judge Advocate General, Richard R. Kenney, Former U. S. Senator, Says That With The Sustaining Tonic of Nuxated Iron He Has Had No Occasion To Weaken Under the Most Strenuous Army Duties.

Possessed of a vim and energy that might well be the envy of many a younger man, Ex. United States Senator Richard R. Kenney, at nearly three score years of age, today holds the rank of Major and Assistant Judge Advocate General in the United States Army, and is one of the most determined in the fight to whip the Germans. While the sudden change from the quiet life of a citizen prior to the outbreak of the war to the severity of army life might work a disastrous hardship on some man who had passed the half century mark, it was not so with Major Kenney. He realized that the supreme tests of war demanded great strength, power and endurance. As a means to this end in his own case he began taking Nuxated Iron with the result of instead of growing weaker under the strain of army service, as many older men often are afraid they will, Major Kenney says he enjoyed a decided increase in vigor and endurance and that with the sustaining tonic of Nuxated Iron he has had no occasion to weaken under the most strenuous army duties.

General Horatio Gates Gibson, U. S. A., (Retired), who entered the City of Mexico in the War of 1847 with General Winfield Scott, says that he feels that every soldier who goes to the front should take Nuxated Iron. General David Stuart Gordon, U. S. A., (Retired) noted Indian Fighter and hero of Gettysburg, says: "Despite my own advanced age, Nuxated Iron has made me fit and ready for another campaign and if my country needs me, I stand ready to go."

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly of Bellevue Hospital, (Out-door Dept.) New York and the Westchester County Hospital, says: "What how far you can work without becoming weary purchaser or they will refund every soldier most needs is tremendous 'stay-there' strength, power and endurance with nerves of steel and blood of iron. To help produce this weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained, since which I have found so valuable Numbers of nervous, run-down people as organic iron—Nuxated Iron. I who were ailing all the while have increased their strength, and endurance prescribed it for my patients, and I in two weeks' time while taking iron can truthfully say that it excels any preparation I have ever used for building up a delicate, nervous, run-down from anything."

Harvest Hands Wanted In New Brunswick The Department of Agriculture for war purposes, last spring urged Greater Production. 103,772 bushels of seed grain were imported. The farmers have responded splendidly. The acreage under crop is in excess of any previous year. Climatic conditions have been favorable, crops promise well. Every acre of crop in this Province must be properly harvested this year. Many men have been called to the Colors. Under the conditions the Department fears that many crops will remain in the fields unless men from our towns or industrial plants become harvesters, and are setting up labor bureaus in different sections of the Province to ascertain the farmers' labor needs and to register voluntary labor. Every man in the towns or cities who has had farm experience should be ready to assist for a few days. Every farmer should register his wants immediately at one of the following bureaus. A guarantee of help cannot be given by the Provincial Department of Agriculture, but when the requirements are known after a certain date, if necessary, the Dominion authorities will be appealed to. Give name, address, railway station, number of days help required and when. Approximate wages per day. Where wages cannot be satisfactorily arranged, an appeal to the Department of Agriculture may be made for adjustment. Every man willing to help should also be registered at one of the following places: St. John—William Kerr, N. B. Government Office, Prince William Street. Fredericton—A. B. Wilmot, Dom. Immigration Office, Post Office Building. Sussex—J. D. McKenna. Moncton—J. H. King, Agricultural Representative. Chatham—James Bremner, Jr. Bathurst—Frank P. Doucet. Andover and Perth—Dr. Dickenson. Woodstock—A. C. Taylor, Agricultural School. St. Stephen—W. S. Stevens. J. F. TWEEDALE, Minister of Agriculture.

Special to Physicians: Doctor, when you wish to prescribe a true tonic, strength and blood builder, one that helps put vim and renewed energy into the veins of the weak, inflame, run-down and aged—try Nuxated Iron. If you have been using the old forms of metallic iron, without success; if you have had patients complaining of discolored teeth, upset stomachs, hardened, tie-up secretions, etc., from the use of metallic iron, again we suggest, try Nuxated Iron. It is highly endorsed by such physicians as Dr. Schuyler C. Jacques, formerly Visiting Surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York City; Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly Physician at Bellevue Hospital (Out-door Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital; Dr. A. J. Newman, late Police Surgeon of the City of Chicago and Former House Surgeon Jefferson Park Hospital, Chicago; Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author; Dr. Kenneth K. McAlpine, Former Adjunct Professor New York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital, and others. In most cases physicians direct the use of two five grain tablets three times per day after meals. Nuxated Iron will be furnished by an absolute guarantee of success or money refunded.
