

BIG SEASON AT SAND POINT

Four Million Bushels of Grain More Than Last Year

GENERAL FREIGHT IN GREAT QUANTITY

Enough in Sight Now to Load the Steamers Which Are to Come—P. R. Enlarges Yard Room—List of Sailings so Far as Known.

A great rush is expected at Sand Point this winter. It is expected that there will be shipped by the Allan line about 900,000 bushels of grain, by the C. P. R. Liverpool line, 1,100,000 bushels, by the C. P. R. London line, 1,400,000 bushels, by the C. P. R. Bristol line to Glasgow 900,000 bushels, by the Dominion line to Glasgow 1,232,000 bushels, and by the Manchester line about 400,000 bushels.

This means an increase of about four millions of bushels over last year and will keep about 300 cars busy for about twenty-two weeks. There is also enough general freight in sight to load all the steamers that are coming.

There are now about 100 men working at Bay Shore enlarging the yard room, and this will allow the accommodation of about 200 cars more than last year. The first shipment of grain will arrive from Port William the latter part of this week. The following is the schedule for the sailing of the steamers arranged so far this winter: C. P. R. Liverpool—Dec. 2; Lake Champlain—Dec. 23; Lake Erie; Jan. 6, Lake Manitoba; Jan. 20, Lake Champlain; Feb. 3, Lake Erie; Feb. 17, Lake Manitoba; and these will sail every fortnight until the end of the season.

Father in Deep Grief.

"He was my boy. I doted on him, and I don't know what I shall do without him," said Florence O'Regan, father of the dead young man to a Telegraph reporter soon after death was pronounced. Mr. O'Regan was strongly affected, and with difficulty restrained his open grief.

The News Spread Rapidly.

The news of the fatality in the rink was practically all over the city within an incredibly short time. Deceased was widely known and the intelligence of his tragic demise was everywhere received with sorrow.

The Contest Itself.

Round 1—They sparred cautiously, then O'Regan suddenly lit on his right catching the North End lad on the neck, who clinched and was with difficulty parted. On the breakaway O'Regan rushed Northrup to the ropes and the latter clung on. Both swung right and left. They clinched again and Northrup raised a right leg and O'Regan clinched.

A WOMAN'S HEALTH

Depends Upon the Richness and Regularity of Her Blood.

A woman needs a blood medicine regularly to keep her health and vitality. It is the life-giving element of her blood, its richness and its regularity, which determine her health and her happiness.

The Fatal Round.

Round 6—The men sparred cautiously and came to a clinch. On the break Northrup landed a hard left and right to the head. On the break they both missed their swings and got in a good straight right to the body. Northrup returned with left to the head and O'Regan clinched.

STRIKE AVERTED AT FALL RIVER

Cotton Operatives Accept the Profit Sharing Plan of Manufacturers.

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 30.—Amicable relations were re-established between the cotton manufacturers and their operatives at a protracted conference today between the organization of the mill owners and the textile council. A compromise agreement on the wage issue, which for several years has frequently disturbed industrial conditions here was reached, and in consequence of the understanding it was a strike averted, but that not only the troublesome wage question has been adjusted for at least a year.

Before the new agreement goes into actual effect, the compromise will have to be passed upon by the individual unions on Wednesday evening, but there is every reason to believe that the various organizations will endorse the action of the textile council which at a meeting tonight voted to recommend that the compromise stand be accepted. The manufacturers' association has already endorsed the proposed agreement.

The manufacturers, with the exception of M. C. D. Borden, of New York, owners of the Fall River, have declined to accept the plan to restore the wage schedule which prevailed before the reduction of 12 1/2 per cent on July 25, 1904, directly, but offered a straight advance of five per cent and introduced a profit sharing plan based on the margin between the price of eight pounds of middling uplands cotton in New York and the selling value of 48 yards of 28 inch 64's standard print cloth. The arrangement provided that when the margin between the price of the two commodities reached 75 cents, the manufacturers would pay a dividend of one per cent and a similar dividend for every cent above the minimum margin until the margin reached 85 cents. For each cent above 85 cents the dividend was to be one-half of one per cent.

The operatives were much dissatisfied with this arrangement claiming that they would seldom receive wages as high as those paid prior to the cut of 1904. A general strike was threatened, the textile council maintaining that the mill owners should restore the 1904 reduction and should take up the profit sharing proposition and textile council met, and for four hours a half went over the whole situation. Tonight both sides advanced of five per cent and introduced a profit sharing plan, and the manufacturers' association and textile council met, and for four hours a half went over the whole situation.
