With Mr. Farwell for a guide, the Tribune comes to some very de-cided conclusions. China, it says, is to day the incarnation of a realism so dense, so materialistic, so utterly void of all idealism, that it stands for the most sordid plane of human life conceivable. It is incontestable that this swarming nation of indefatigable workers affars to the intellectual supremacy of the Northern races very tenuting comp m the mayor down enter into "Baxter's should all enter into "B provided Baxter workers offers to the intellectual supremacy of the Northern races very tempting oppor-tunities. Wealth beyond the dreams of avar-ice is attainable through this willing auxillary. But wealth at what a cost! To accept the Chinaman as a business partner is to employ the agency which so nearly ruined the South-ern States, but under far more disadvan-tageous conditions. The negro as a slave entailed upon his owders all the natural evils inherent in slavery; but enfran-chisement found him full of rudimentary eivic qualifications, and all his later development has been upward. But with the Chinaman ial cycle. As no such condition now prevails it is quite clear that qualifications, and all his later development has been upward. But with the Chinaman cames peonage, which is worse than slavery in that it can uever furnish an assimilable ele-ment to acciety. It drives out white labor, and changes the social structure. Left to de velop freely, it will convert the fabric into a wholly undemocratic form, having virtually but two strata, masters and alieb slaves. This was the condition, and this the destruction, of Carthage. This would be the condition and the destruction of any modern State which welcomed Chinese co-operation. And, finally, Chinese immigration is not something to be ration for either of them to refrain taking the minds of thoughtful is to the patent fact that there a more fues and feathers connected y diministration of affairs from the then there need be.
