

RULE I. A verb must agree with its nominative in number and person ; as, Thou readest ; he reads ; we read.

EXERCISES TO BE PARSED AND CONSTRUED.

The birds sing sweetly.* Thou art the man. Of the metals platinum is the heaviest, gold the most prized, iron the most useful. The train of my ideas was interrupted. Almost thou persuaded me to be a Christian. In spring the ice melts and the fields become green. The number of pupils that attend our school has greatly increased since last session.

EXERCISES TO BE CORRECTED.

I loves reading. I is going to London. A cleart and approving conscience make an easy mind. Therè remains three things more to be considered. His conduct in public and private