Brawn.—Take a pig's head and feet, and about one and a half pounds of shin of beef; boil together for about two hours and a half. Take out of the water, and remove all the bones, chop fine, mix about a teaspoonful of white pepper, a handful of salt, a little Cayenne, and a teaspoonful of mixed spice; mix all thoroughly together, and put into a mould, that has been previously wetted with cold water; place something heavy on the top to press it. This is a very economical dish, as the liquor in which it is boiled makes excellent pea-soup.

Dough-Nut.—Take two pounds of flour, half a pound of sugar, two eggs, one teaspoonful of carbonate of soda; mix with buttermilk. Have a pan (a three legged pot, if you can get it) of boiling lard, into which drop pieces of the dough, being rolled out and cut with a coffee-cup. They will rise like a nut, then turn, and take them out when they are brown.
