

Better than our Fears.

BY ANSELME DE LANDE.

Oh, grieving heart! by anxious cares oppressed...

Art thou in weakness, poverty, and pain?...

Through many a sunless day and starless night...

His beacon-lamp has been thy guiding light...

When He was better to thee than thy fears...

Hushed be thy murmurs! Israel's God is thine...

He leads thee by His right hand divine...

Though dark the present, and the past a tomb...

Wait thou in patient trust the coming year...

God will be better to thee than thy fears.

SHORT INSTRUCTIONS FOR LOW MASSES.

[Delivered by the Rev. James Donohoe, rector of the church of St. Thomas Aquinas, Brooklyn, N. Y.]

XXXIV. PENANCE.

DEAR PEOPLE: In this, the last instruction on the sacrament of Penance, we shall endeavor to embrace in brief form many things of importance for the people to know concerning this sacrament which have been omitted in previous instructions.

In this as in other sacraments the matter is twofold, remote and proximate. All the sins committed after Baptism are the remote matter. The proximate matter consists in the three acts of the penitent, of which we have already spoken, contrition, confession and satisfaction. Sins previously confessed and remitted by absolution can be sufficient matter for the sacrament of Penance, for a sin remitted always remains a sin committed. Confession of and contrition for that sin can be renewed. In case a person come to confession and confess no sin, mortal or venial, absolution could not be given, as there would be no matter for the sacrament. Venial sin is sufficient matter for absolution. It sometimes happens that the penitent confesses matter doubtfully sufficient. In this case the confessor asks the penitent to confess a sin of his past life in order that there may be certain matter for absolution and that the sacrament may be saved from the danger of nullity. Those who frequently to confession and who carefully guard themselves against falling into any sin after telling their shortcomings should always tell a sin of their past life in order to guard against the danger of exposing the sacrament to nullity and in order to obtain the fruit of the sacrament. Those who do this must be careful to excite themselves to contrition. Remember always that the sacrament has three parts, contrition, confession, and satisfaction, and that each part is an essential one.

The form of the sacrament is the words used by the priest in giving absolution. As regards the priest, he says: "I absolve thee from thy sins." If you have confessed your sins aright, if you are sorry for having committed them and are determined to perform the penance enjoined, then your sins are forgiven. The sentence of the priest is ratified in heaven: "Whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven."

A firm purpose of amendment is necessary in order that your sins be forgiven in the sacrament of Penance. This firm purpose of amendment is included in contrition, for you could not be truly sorry for your sins without having this purpose of avoiding them in future. This purpose ought to have three qualities. It should be firm, efficacious and universal. It must be firm, that is, there must be a serious decision on the part of the will by which you simply and absolutely determine to avoid sin in future. It must be efficacious, that is, you must be determined not only to avoid sin but to take whatever means are necessary for its avoidance. You must be determined to shun the proximate occasions of sin.

Your purpose of amendment must be universal. That is, it must extend to all mortal sins, not only to those you have committed, but to those you might commit. There can be no true and full conversion to God without an aversion to everything that is mortally sinful.

In case a person forget to confess a mortal sin and afterwards call it to mind, it must be confessed in the next confession. If a person forget to confess a sin through culpable negligence, the confession is scrupulous.

Confession should be preceded by a diligent examination of conscience. The same diligence that is usually employed in other serious affairs of great importance will suffice. Equal diligence is not required of all. Those who go frequently to confession will not have to spend as long a time examining their conscience as those who have been a long time from that sacrament. Those engaged in business will require a longer time for examination than those who lead a quiet, uneventful life. The simple and illiterate are not expected to arrive at the same accuracy in telling the number of their sins as the educated, and finally, the sick are not required to give so much attention to the examination of conscience as those who are well. The examination of conscience should always be preceded by a prayer to the Holy Ghost for light to discover and grace to at least over the period during which had confessions been made.

For very scrupulous persons, generally speaking, a general confession is injurious. Those people wish to tell the same story over and over again, and this repetition, so far from bringing them peace of mind, only increases their misery. The only remedy for them is to obey the confessor. They are always afraid they have committed some mortal sin in their confessions. Even if they have omitted some mortal sin without any fault of their own, it has been indirectly remitted by the sacrament of Penance, for it is impossible to blot out one mortal sin without blotting out all.

For some, it is very advantageous to make a general confession. Those who make it for the first time may find it the beginning of a life of perfection. Devout persons find it of great assistance to make one every year, and the practice is highly approved by the saints. When you confess all the sins of a year you are likely to have a more lively contrition than is had by confessing the ordinary faults of a week. The confession of all the sins of a year is also likely to bring you greater humility, greater purity of heart, and a more efficacious purpose of amendment. It also enables the confessor to know your spiritual condition, to estimate your loss and gain, to know your dominant failing, and to prescribe special means for your advancement. Frequent confession is also highly commended by spiritual writers. It purifies the soul from every stain of sin. It purifies the heart, and makes us watchful over ourselves; lastly, it is a preparation for frequent communion.

These instructions on the sacrament of Penance would be incomplete without saying a word on the minister of the sacrament. On the part of the minister of the sacrament of Penance three things are absolutely required: the power of orders, the power of jurisdiction, and approbation.

It is necessary that the minister of this sacrament be a priest in the sacramental character. He must be a priest: The confessor is a judge in the confessional. Without jurisdiction he cannot exercise the functions of his office. He also requires approbation, which is a judgment on the part of the Prelate in whose diocese he hears confessions, of his suitability for that office. According to the present practice of the Church, jurisdiction and approbation are given together. Approbation now includes jurisdiction, but this approbation must be had from the Bishop of the place where confessions are heard.

A SCENE IN ROME.

In nothing does the kindness of the Romans show itself more than in their treatment of the dumb beasts who serve them. It is very rare to see in the streets of Rome those reckless and cruelly to animals that are but too often seen in England and America. The French system of vivisection is here, thank God! unknown. This people is passionate, but not cruel in its nature. The Church, too, takes animals under its protection, and on the day dedicated to Saint Anthony a celebration takes place which is characteristic, and to my mind, full of humanity and good feeling, and calculated to produce a good effect on the people. This is the annual blessing of animals which takes place on the 17th of January, when all the horses, mules and donkeys in Rome are taken to the church of Saint Anthony to receive a benediction. The doors are thrown wide open, and the church and altar are splendidly decorated with flowers, and the crowd pours in and out to see the pictures and make the sign of the cross. The priest stands at the door, and with a broom dipped in holy water, sprinkles the animals, as they pass in procession before him, and gives them his benediction. All the horses in Rome are there, from the common hack to the high bred steed of the prince; some adorned with glittering trappings, some covered with scarlet cloth and tinsel, with red roses at each ear, and tufts and plumes of gay feathers nodding at their heads. The donkeys come too, and often bray back their thanks to the priest. But see, there is a rustic in the crowd—who comes now? It is Gaetano, coachman of Prince Plombino, and prince of coachmen, mounted on an open car, and driving his magnificent team of fourteen horses with an easy skill which provokes plaudits of the crowd. Up he comes, the people opening before him, and triumphantly receiving his benediction, passes on gallantly and sweeps around into the great Piazza of Saint Maria Maggiore, followed by the eyes of all. And here, too, are the great black horses of the cardinals, with their heavy trappings and scarlet crests, lumbering up their luxurious coaches all glittering with gold, and carving to receive the blessing of Saint Anthony. All honor to this good saint, who blesses them in thy large choir, not man alone, but that humble race who do his work and bear his burdens, and murmur not under his tyrannical inflictions—that articulate race who suffer in patient silence "the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune!" Thy efigy shall be hung upon my stable walls, as it is in every stable in Rome.—W. W. Story

"The Merry Wives of Windsor" could scarcely have played such fantastic pranks had they been subject to the many ills so common among the women of that day. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Pencil Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition, and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. It cures all those weaknesses and ailments peculiar to women, and is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

Orpha M. Hodge, Battle Creek, Mich., writes: "I upset a tea-kettle of boiling hot water on my hand. I at once applied Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and the effect was to immediately allay the pain. I was cured in three days."

A MEMORABLE BIRTHDAY.

THE YEARS AND WORKS OF A GREAT CARDINAL'S LIFE.

From the Weekly Register.

The thoughts of Catholics all over the land will turn on July 15th towards Archbishop's House, Westminster, where the Cardinal Archbishop will keep his own simple way, his eightieth birthday. It was on July 15th, 1805, that Henry Edward Manning was born at Totterdean, and the history of his life may be said to be a history of much that is noblest and most humane in the national life of England during the eighty years that have since elapsed.

Leaving Oxford, after having taken his degree and a first class in classics, the future Prelate entered the Colonial Office, in preparation for the political career which had always had fascinations for him. He was soon face to face with the first, but not the last, great sacrifice of his life. His keen desire to be of use to his fellow men in the most direct and efficacious manner took him away from his new and beloved home, where a brilliant secular career seemed secured to him—and back to Oxford, where he became Fellow of Merton, and took Anglican Orders in the memorable year 1832. The clearness of vision and precise logic which led him to make religion a part of his programme for benefiting his countrymen, led him, later on, to leave the pleasant life of an Anglican minister, and to adhere to that old religion which had, he sagaciously perceived, lost none of its power to influence—not a class or a group, but all mankind. During the nineteen years which he passed in the Anglican ministry, he became Archdeacon of Colchester, and the advocate of many social reforms which were democratic to wit the metropolitan diocese to which he was appointed in 1851. It needs no prophet to foretell what his career might have been had he remained where he was. But the pleasant present and the promised future were left out of sight when he came to a spiritual reckoning between the claims which he owed to his country and the claims which he owed to his religion. He had to choose between the two, and he chose the latter. He had to choose between the honors and emoluments of his recognized position with a knowledge that no success was ever more worthily attained.

To go through a detailed account of the myriad mechanical and electrical appliances and contrivances here to be applied, or to lead your observation through suit upon suit of cheerful and elegant consulting and treatment rooms, and to dwell upon the other thousand-and-one attractive and useful features of the establishment, would be a pleasing task, but at the present moment, for us an impossible one. Enough for us to say that the people of the country should be proud of this great and successful work for humanity, and can accept the honors and emoluments of his recognized position with a knowledge that no success was ever more worthily attained.

Honest and True. This is eminently the case with Polson's Nervine and great pain cure. It is an honest remedy, for it contains the most powerful, the purest, and most certain pain-subduing remedies known to medical science. It is honest, for it does all that it claims to do. It is honest, because it is the best in the world. It only costs ten or twenty-five cents to try it, and you can buy a bottle at any drugstore. Nervine cures rheumatism, neuralgia, pain in the back and joints. All pains are promptly relieved by Polson's Nervine.

Sleeplessness is due to nervous excitement. The delicately constituted, the financier, the business man, and those whose occupation necessitates great mental strain or worry, all suffer less or more from it. Sleep is the great restorer of a worried brain, and to get sleep cleanse the stomach from all impurities with a few doses of Parmentier's Vegetable Pills, gelatine coated, containing no mercury, and are guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money will be returned.

It can be no harm to try Freeman's Worm Powder if your child is ailing, febrile or fretful.

ALL AGES AND CONDITIONS of people may use National Pills without injury and with great benefit.

A SINGLE SCRATCH may cause a festering sore. Victoria Carbolic, salve rapidly heals cuts, burns, bruises, burns and all sores.

PURELY VEGETABLE and accuracy of compounding, make Milburn's Anodyne Quinine Wine the criterion of excellence.

Hay Fever. I have suffered greatly from periodical returns of hay fever. Cover & Cheever, Druggists, suggest Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, used it during a severe attack, and I fully testify as to the immediate and continuing benefit obtained by its use. I heartily recommend it to those suffering from the kindred complaints.—(Rev.) H. A. Smith, Clinton, Wis.

THE NEW MECCA.

In this age of misrepresentation, when the irrepressible Quack walks abroad through the medium of the printing press, and with an entire disregard of the consequences to humanity, seeks to impose his unskillful services or worthless decoctions upon the public, we take especial pleasure in saying a word in commendation of a reliable and justly famous Institution of Health.

We refer to Dr. J. C. Ayer's "World's Dispensary and Invalid Hotel," the pride of the good City of Buffalo and the "Mecca" of a multitude of invalids who owe recovery to the skillful treatment and attention there received. Dr. Ayer's establishment is a most complete and modern one, and is situated in a beautiful and airy location, and is well adapted for the treatment of all classes of invalids. It is a most complete and modern one, and is situated in a beautiful and airy location, and is well adapted for the treatment of all classes of invalids.
