BITS OF HUMOR FROM HERE & THERE

Essential Characteristic.
"Who's your friend, Joe? He looks like a man of decision."
"You've struck it; he's a baseball umpire."

One of the Sights.
A man was visiting Ireland for the first time. In Dublin one warm afternoon he put his handkerchief over his nose and said, in a choked voice: "What the deuce is that?"
"That?" said the Irish guide. "Why, that's the River Liffey. Didn't ye know, man, that the smee'l of the Liffey was one of the sights of 'Dublin'?"

Poor Johnny.
Johnny—"These pants that you bought for me are too tight."
Mother—"Oh, no, they aren't."
Johnny—"They are too, mother. They're tighter'n my own skin."
Mother—"Now, Johnny, you know that isn't so."
Johnny—"It is, too. I can sit down in my skin, but I can't sit down in my pants."

It's Up to You.
If you want to work in the kind of a shop
Like the kind of shop you'd like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long hike.
You'll only find what you've left behind.
For there's nothing that's really new.
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your shop.
It isn't your shop, it's you.

What Happened.
An Irishman, returning home after gathering dollars in Canada, decided to give to his old father an outing. The old fellow had never been in a train before, and he entered the compartment with much fear and trembling, and with many outspoken anticipations of what would happen.
Suddenly the train dived into a tunnel, and as suddenly the old chap's fist flew out and dealt his son a hefty blow on the nose.
"Be jebbers," he roared, "O' toulz yez something would happen. O'm' struck blind!"

Mary's Motor Mind.
Mary, a modern child, had been brought up, so to speak, in the front seat of her father's automobile. At the age of ten, she took her first journey in a train. When they made the first stop she looked astonished. Leaving out of the window, she inquired anxiously of the conductor, who had just swung himself off the platform: "What's the matter? What are we stopping for? Have you stalled your engine?"

Taught the Fowl a Lesson.
An ignorant chicken, unversed in the appetites of American darkies, crossed the road in front of a colored detachment. A soldier broke from the ranks and started off in pursuit.
"Halt!" bellowed the officer in charge.
Both fowl and Negro only quickened their paces.
"Halt! Halt!" repeated the officer.
The dusky soldier made one plunge, and grasped the chicken by the neck, and stuffed it, still struggling, inside his shirt.
"Here!" he panted. "Ah! I learn you to halt when de captain says halt, you disobedient bird."

The Naming of Cape Cod.
It is said that the Great Francis Drake was the first Englishman to set foot in New England, and that he landed on Cape Cod. French, Dutch, Spanish, English—all had names for the Cape; but in 1602 Gosnold, examining the coast of New England with a view to colonizing, gave it the predestined name—Cape Cod. "Making across Massachusetts Bay with a fresh gale of wind," writes his chronicler, "in the morning we found ourselves embayed with a mighty headland, with a white, sandy and very bold shore." After landing they returned to their ship and sailed on to Cuttyhunk, "amongst many fair islands." "But the significant point for us," says Miss Mary Rogers Bangs in Old Cape Cod, "is that the Indians pestered their ship so frequently with codfish that they threw numbers of them overboard and thereupon named the land Cape Cod."
Henry Hudson, too, spent a night off the Cape and had difficulty with shoals and mists; but he testified that the land was "very sweet." In 1614 Capt. John Smith set sail for those shores to look for whales and for gold mines. With eight men in an open boat he explored and charted the coast and dedicated his map to Prince Charles, afterwards Charles I, with a request that he change the barbarous names thereon, "so that the posterity might say Prince Charles was their godfather." New England, the river Charles and Plymouth retain the royal names, but the Prince's "Stuart Bay" and "Cape James" are still Cape Cod Bay and Cape Cod.

Working For It.
We do not value, properly what comes too easily. Rewards would not be worth a hundred dollars a gram—about fifty million dollars a pound—if we could obtain it without any effort. When the Emperor of Germany won every German medal he wanted it. As soon as the Kaiser began flinging it about by the carload through his armies it became nothing but a joke. Boy Scouts value their distinctions, track athletes, golfers and tennis players value the cups and the medals they win in proportion to the effort put into the winning. What everybody can get as a matter of course nobody values.

PALE AND NERVOUS SCHOOL CHILDREN

Need Rich, Red Blood to Regain Health and Strength.

Many children start school in excellent health, but after a short time home work, examinations, hurried meals and crowded school rooms cause their blood to become weak, their nerves over-wrought and their color and spirits lost. It is a mistake to let matters drift when boys and girls show symptoms of nervousness or weak blood. They are almost sure to fall victims of St. Vitus dance, or drift into debility that leads to other troubles. Regular meals, outdoor exercise and plenty of sleep are necessary to combat the nervous wear of school life. But it is still more important that parents should pay attention to the school child's blood supply. Keep this rich and red by giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and the boy or girl will be sturdy and fit for school. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind is shown by the statement of Mrs. Watson, Grand Falls, N.B., who says: "In the winter of 1919 my daughter, Thelma, then 12 years of age, began to show symptoms of nervousness which developed into St. Vitus dance. She seemed to lose control of her limbs and at times every muscle in her body seemed to be twitching and jerking, and the trouble seemed to be growing worse. We finally decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and the result was better even than we had hoped for, and she is now enjoying the best of health."
You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

When Baby is Ill.
When baby is ill; when he cries a great deal and no amount of attention or petting makes him happy, Baby's Own Tablets should be given him without delay. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus drive out colds and simple fevers and make teething easy. Concerning them Mrs. Desire, Theberge, Trois Pistoles, Que., writes: "I am well satisfied with my use of Baby's Own Tablets. I have found them of great benefit to my baby when he was suffering from constipation and I can strongly recommend them to other mothers." The Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Gains For All Our Losses.
There are gains for all our losses—There are gains for all our pains; But when youth, the dream, departs, It takes something from our hearts, And it never comes again.
We are stronger and are better, Under manhood's sterner reign, Still we feel that something sweet Followed youth, with flying feet, And will never come again.
Something beautiful is vanished, And we sigh for it in vain; We behold it everywhere, On the earth, and in the air, But it never comes again.
—Richard Henry Stoddard.

French Farmers Emigrate to New World.
With thousands of acres of the finest Brittany farm land offering splendid opportunities for development, northwestern France for the first time in history is sending hundreds of emigrants to the United States and to Canada, due to the publicity which has been given to the wheat lands of the western prairies, says a Paris despatch. In one commune ninety passports were granted in less than a month, these being about equally divided between prospective Canadian and American farmers.
The attention of the French Government has been called to the situation, which is considered decidedly alarming, with the result that a special agent has been sent into Brittany to negotiate with farm laborers.
Plans are under way to establish a farmers' loan plan in the rural areas which will enable young farmers to buy their own farms and to develop them while paying off the original cost. Some of the biggest farmers in France have agreed to aid with funds, as they realize that if the emigration westward continues their own farms will suffer from lack of man power.
Even on a rental basis, it is being pointed out, a French farm of 160 acres can be worked for five years at less cost than it takes to purchase steamship and railroad tickets to the western wheat fields.
Spiders usually live two or three years.

"Mary's Little Lamb"

"Who wrote the world's most popular nursery rhyme, 'Mary Had a Little Lamb'?"
The question is asked in the recent number of a London magazine, which then goes on to answer it in the following manner: "There have been many claimants to the distinction, but most of the evidence seems to show that the real author was Mrs. Sarah Buell Hale, who for a number of years edited the Lady's Magazine, the leading journal of its kind for almost half a century in the United States. She was the author of many popular poems for children, and her son, Horatio Hale, stated that the poem was first published by his mother in 1830.
"It was written some time in 1827 and owed its origin to Dr. Lowell Mason, the American composer. Dr. Mason settled in Boston and gave particular attention to the training of children in vocal music, this being the first attempt to introduce singing into public schools in America.
"In order to popularize his classes Dr. Mason requested Mrs. Hale to furnish him with verses suitable for those children. Mrs. Hale did, composing a number of children's rhymes, among which was 'the now famous 'Mary's Little Lamb'."
The original version of some of the more popular women's silk stockings in the U.S.A. is made and transparent as the material has to be so soft and comfortable to wear, and has the advantage of being washable. These ornaments are made by a new development from the old-time stockings which were made of wool and cotton. The clock, which is a very beautiful series of watches, is the latest thing in the watch world.
The first watch in the world was wrapped around the wrist in the shape of a clasp. One of the earliest watches were made of brass and wood. It seems very strange to think of a watch, which is a very beautiful series of watches, is the latest thing in the watch world.

Women Song Writers.

In the field of song-writing some women have won fame, and from others a full measure of it appears to have been withheld. Notably is the latter statement true in the case of Clara Wreck, who became the wife of Robert Schumann. Before her marriage she had written a number of lovely songs. It seems hardly to be doubted that Schumann did not welcome his gifted wife as a collaborator, or that credit for the works that made her husband's name immortal does not, in part, belong to her.
Passing over the song writers of today, here is a list of some of the women who won fame and success in the last century. Under the name of "Clarel," Mrs. Charles Barnard, of Dover, England, wrote many songs, the most famous of which is "Come Back to Erin."
Annie Fortesque Harrison was the composer of "In The Gloaming," Mrs. Charles Moulton wrote "Beware," Dora Bland Jordan wrote "The Blue Bells of Scotland." Liza Lehmann was the composer of the lovely song-cycle "In a Persian Garden." Lastly, those hauntingly beautiful songs, "When Sparrows Build" and "Ruby," which had a tremendous vogue in the past generation, were but two of the outpourings of Virginia Gabriel, who can hardly be blamed for suppressing her first two Christian names—Mary Ann.
Fish in Tank Scows.
Norway and Holland huge tank scows, which are in effect floating pens, have long been used to fetch fish from the fishing grounds to market. Thus they reach the latter alive in fine condition.
The idea has been newly adopted on this side of the ocean, and several tank scows have been built for the trade between Canadian waters and the northern seacoast of the United States.
They are built of wood, their hulls, which are long and narrow, having a number of compartments to hold the fish. The compartments are perforated with holes in order that the sea water may flow freely through them. Water-tight bulkheads at bow and stern keep the craft afloat.
Some of the fishes inevitably die or sicken in the course of so long a voyage, and these are scooped out with long-handled nets and thrown away. The scows are sailing craft, but it is planned to equip them with gasoline engines for faster travel. One of them, twenty-four days out from Quebec, reached New York the other day with a cargo of 1000 tons of eels, caught in chicken-wire traps in the St. Lawrence River, which were delivered alive and wriggling at one of the city fish markets.

JOSEPH DROUIN, of Montreal, declares he suffered six years with dyspepsia but six bottles of Tanlac made a new man of him—Gained 35 pounds.

"I could hardly believe my eyes when I stepped on the scales after taking six bottles of Tanlac and found that I had actually gained thirty-five pounds in weight," said Joseph Drouin, 2194 St. Denis St., Montreal, who, for the past twenty-six years, has been passenger conductor on the Canadian Pacific Railway and is well and favorably known along the line of his run between Montreal and Mount Laurier.
"Before I started on this medicine I was in a bad way. For years I had to take my meals here, there and everywhere, and as the result of this irregular eating, my internal machinery got all out of working order. I lost all desire for food and what little I ate would form gas and bloat me up until I could hardly breathe. I became so nervous I couldn't sleep at all well at night and was often so tired in the mornings I didn't care whether I took my train out or not. I fell off twenty-five pounds in weight and became alarmed about my condition, for I had tried all sorts of medicine without getting any relief.
"Then, one day I read a statement in the paper that decided me to give Tanlac a thorough trial. Well, I never would have believed any medicine could do a man so much good in such a short time. It quickly settled my stomach and gave me such an appetite that I could eat three good square meals a day and no longer have any trouble with indigestion or gas and I sleep so well at night, even when on the road, that I think it would take a collision to wake me up. I now turn the scales at two hundred and ten pounds, which is ten pounds more than I ever weighed in my life and feel better in every way than I have for a very long time. Tanlac is the best medicine I ever tried."
Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere. Adv.

He (sincerely)—"No; but you are the only girl who ever accepted me."
Rouge and powder, if used to excess, clog up the pores of the skin and cause much damage.

Faith.
Better trust all and be deceived,
And weep that trust and that deceiving,
Than doubt one heart that, if believing,
Had blessed one's life with true believing.
O, in this mocking world too fast,
The doubling fiend o'ertakes our youth!
Better be cheated to the last,
Than lose the blessed hope of truth.
—Fanny Kemble.

His Hearing Restored.
The invisible ear drum invented by magnaphone, fitting inside the ear entirely out of sight, is restoring the hearing of hundreds of people in New York City. Mr. Leonard invented this drum to relieve himself of deafness and head noises, and it does this so successfully that no one could tell he is a deaf man. It is effective when deafness is caused by catarrh or by perforated, or wholly destroyed natural drums. A request for information to A. O. Leonard, Suite 437, 70 Fifth Avenue, New York City, will be given a prompt reply. advt.

Surnames and Their Origin

DWYER.
Variations—O'Dwyer, Diver.
Racial Origin—Irish.
Source—Given names.
There are two separate and distinct clan names of old Ireland which have been Anglicized into Dwyer and Diver, and if you bear either of these family names the only way in which you can find from which clan your name comes is to trace back the genealogy step by step.
One clan was that of the "O'Duibhir." An approximation of the Gaelic pronunciation would be "doo-wheer." The other was "O'Duibhir," with an approximate pronunciation of "dwee-heer." It is possible to give only approximate pronunciations by means of the printed letters to any one who is not a speaker of Gaelic, for the differences between English and Irish pronunciation are at once both marked and subtle, and even in the Gaelic there is considerable difference in various localities, not to mention the number of centuries which have also produced their changes in Irish as well as English.
The Clan O'Duibhir derived its name from the chieftain "Dubhir" who originated about the year 600 as an offshoot of the O'Connors. To-day descendants of this clan are known as the O'Dwiers "of Leinster and Munster" to distinguish them from the others.
The other clan took its name from a chieftain named "Dubhoshar" and came into being as a clan about half a century after the first. Both of these chiefs came from the same stock, their families having split, according to the records, some eight generations before, and tracing back ultimately to "Conaire Mor" (Connor the Great), who was monarch of all Ireland in 109 B.C.

NOYES
Racial Origin—English.
Source—A given name.
One might be tempted to ascribe a Spanish origin to this family name. It seems to lack that English sound. It is, however, just as English as Johnson or Rogers.
As a matter of fact it is derived from the given name of Noah, and means "Noah's son."
Noah is still met with occasionally as a given name, though it is not nearly so common as it was a generation ago. In the middle ages, though, it ranked among the most popular of given names, for the story of Noah in the Old Testament was one of sufficient dramatic appeal to grip the imaginations of the simple medieval folk, who were quite free from the class of doubt engendered by the modern "higher criticism."
But the medieval form of the given name was not Noah, but "Noe," the "o" and the "e" being pronounced as separate syllables, giving, in short, virtually the same sound as the name has to-day. Another medieval form, if anything more widespread than the other, was "Noy," also pronounced as two syllables, and often having a final "e" as well.
Thus came about the forms "Noyson" and "Noye-son," which in the course of time have been simplified by the elimination of all but the "s" in the ending "son."

The Canny Physician.
A doctor who had taken up as his specialty the treatment of skin diseases was asked by a friend how he happened to select that branch of medicine.
"There were three perfectly good reasons," replied the physician. "My patients never get me out of bed at night; they never die; and they never get well!"
