ABOUT NEW ZEALAND

A DESCRIPTION OF LABOR CONDITIONS AS THEY ACTUALLY ARE.

THE ARBITRATION LAW CAUSES A STATE OF SERIOUS UNREST.

The following is an editorial article, dealing with industrial conditions in New Zealand, which appeared in the New Zealand Herald of Wednesday, April 24th, 1901:

We hope that full consideration will be given to the remarks of Mr. John Ross on the restrictive labor laws of the colony. These remarks, reported in the Herald of Monday, should attract attention not only in the colony, but in Australia and Great Britain. They embody the deliberate judgment of a man thoroughly qualified in every way to speak on the subject.

CLAIMS PURCHASED

A DEAL INVOLVING PROPERTIES AT ST. THOMAS MOUNTAIN.

NEW DISCOVERY OF ORE IN THE BURNT BASIN DISTRICT.

A mining deal was closed here yesterday by which E. W. Thomas, a Philadelphia mining operator, secured a working bond on a promising group of St. Thomas mountain claims.

The present owners of the group are Steve Brallo, superintendent of the Cascade mine, and Steve Barbara, a well known prospector. The claims were staked in 1888 at the same time the Cascade was located by Mr. Brallo.
