Some Sharp Passages With the Irish Members--Opposition Weakening.

showed a disposition to disturb the proceedings, William Redmond, Par-nellite Home Ruler, member for East

Clare, inviting Mr. Goshen to "try to talk sense," whereupon the speaker remonstrated, and Mr. Redmond with-Continuing, Mr. Goshen assured the House that since the outbreak of the war there had been an unbroken tension at the Admiralty. They knew their position and their strong and weak points. They had regard for the Empire, and not for that of South Africa alone. It would have been a criminal act to do otherwise, but it would be unwise to parade their strength. "If Germany or any of the great powers had been in our position would they have been more pa-tient?" Mr. Goshen asked. He then said he realized the position was serious, but, he added, there was no reason for any feeling of insecurity. While the navy was in its present position, with the country so conscious of its resources, it was folly to speak of panic.

Sir Edward Clarke, member for Plymouth, who followed Mr. Goshen, suggested that at the end of the debate, the amendment to the address should be withdrawn, as the vote might be misunderstood in the Transvaal and throughout Europe. He said that whatever difference of opinion there might be regarding the inevi-tability of the war, more mischief, in his judgment, would be occasioned by stopping hostilities than by conducting them to a successful issue.

IRELAND INSULTED.

Col. Saunderson, Conservative member for North Armagh, in a lively speech, criticising the pro-Boerism of the Nationalists, provoked another scene by declaring that the Nationalists never attacked in front, but al-ways from the rear.

This remark was met by an uproar from the Irish benches, Mr. Dillon complaining that the Nationalists had been grossly insulted, and others jeer-ingly asked Col. Saunders why he

Mr. Redmond retorted to the laughter—"That's the way to hoist the Union Jack in Pretoria."

John Redmond then appealed to the Speaker for a decision as to whether of. Saunderson's remark was not unparliamentary.

The Speaker declined to be drawn,

but, in quite a long speech for him, pointed out that such remarks used in the freedom of debate by the Na-tionalists, as well as others, were, so long as they did not become per-sonal, in order. He said he believed the members of the House would give

William Redmond said :- "This will be nice reading in Pretoria."

John Redmond replied: "Thrice as many Irish soldiers as English have been killed in the Transvaal."

the opponents of the Government are now attacking their diplomacy rather than their military shortcomings. Sir Edward Grey's utterances have also produced a good effect, and it is asserted in the lobby that pressure is being brought to bear upon the leaders of the Opposition to secure the withdrawal of the amendment. Should, however, this not be attained, it is expected that the debate will in any

At this juncture the Irish members showed a disposition to disturb the St. J. Brodrick, replying to a question, confirmed the accuracy of the statement of Count Von Buelow, the Germac Minister of Foreign Affairs in the Reichstag, as to the British engage ments regarding searching vessels. He explained that the Government undertook that there should be no search at Aden or at points more distant than the eat of war, because there was nothing to prevent the shipping of contra band from intervening ports. The Government, he added, had not surrendered any right, but on the repreentations of the German Government and assurances of the mail steamer company, Great Britain had agreed, pending further arrangement, not to arrest mail ships, except on the gravest

Mr. Brodrick also declared the Govment had no knowledge of any com-munication having passed between the Netherlands and other Governments with reference to the war, or of the mutual relations of the European powers with respect to war.

Attemps made to 'illuminate the connection of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, with the Jameson raid, did not meet with much success, Mr. Chamberlair, being asked in regard to a letter sent by Mr. B. F. Hawkesley, counsel for the British South Africa Company, to Earl Grey, formerly British adminis-trator of Mashonaland, under date of Feb. 29, 1897, in which he said that Mr. Chamberlain would bave no one but himself to blame if the cable despatches, referring to negotiations of 1895, were produced before the parlia-mentary committee of inquiry, replied that there were communications be-tween third parties and he had no knowledge of them at the time they were exchanged. He assumed that were exchanged. He assumed that the cable despatches were those which Mr. Hawkesley had declined to pro-duce. The cable messages were sent to him in 1895 for confidential perusal, and he returned them with a letter, eaying there would be no personal objection to their publication

AFRAID OF THEM. During the course of the day's proceedings, John MacNeill, anti-Par-nellite, enlivened the session by asking questions regarding the Irish mili-tia. Among other things, he asked why the Irish militiamen were sent away-from Ireland, to which William Johnston, Conservative member for

Johnston, Conservative interjected:— "Because they are rebels."

This caused John Dillon, Irish Nationalist, 'to exclaim:—"Irish -rebels are good enough for you to fight behind in the Transvaal.

Timothy Healy ber, joined in asking:-"Why doesn't Saunderson (meaning Edward J. Saunderson, Conservative member for North Armagh, and son of the great Orange leader, Col. Saunderson) go to the front?"

The Colonial Secretary, Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, in reply to a question of T. C. Heddernick, Liberal member for the Wick Burghs, said the offer of a second Canadian contingent was declined by the gov-ernment on Nov. 6th last for the reason that the war office had expressed a preference for colonial infantry as compared to colonial cavalry.

DEBATE ON THE ADDRESS. The debate on the amendment to address in reply to the speech from the throne was then resumed.

After James Bryce, Liberal - member for the South Division of Aberleen, had severely censured the government for "provoking an unjust war," George J. Goshen, First Lord of the Admiralty, declared that the Cabinet assumed full responsibility,

A YOUNG GIRL'S DANGER.

HOW SHE OVERCAME IT, AND BAF-FLED HER TORMENTOR.

Toronto, Dec. 26.-Miss Ida Hopkirk of 184 Harbord street, this city, is a young lady who is exceedingly popular with a very extensive circle of friends, all of whom are rejoicing over her re-cent escape from a terrible danger. The story of her experience is deeply interesting, told forward way: seting, told in her own straight-

Here is her narrative: "In 1896, I took a position in a down town store. My work was not unusually hard, but I soon found I could not stand it, and my health failed. I grew very thin, had splitting headache continually, dizsy spells, and extreme weakness. My tongue was thickly furred, harsh and try, every morning, and I arose tired and aching. I was dull and low spirited all the time.

"My sister had used Dr. Arnold's English Toxin Pills with remarkable bene-fit, and I also began to take them. I candidly state that improvement be-gan almost immediately. Daily I munded, till to-day I am in better besith and much stronger than I have been for years. To Dr. Arnold's Eng-lish Toxin Pills, and to them alone the ca, that God would bless, comfort and defend them.

Mrs. Mickle, Salem W. C. T. U., sent a paper, read by Miss Reddick, on "How to make our meetings interesting." She also informed us of the amount of work being done there, and the prospects of the temperance cause in that place are very encouraging.

Recitation by Miss Pearl Mitchell. Hymn 416.

After the reading of a paper on "Narcotics," from Blenheim, discussion was asked. One lady wanted to know why it is, there being a law forbidding the sale of tobacco, cigars and cigarettes to minors, it is openly done by a large number of shopkeepers. Another lamented the number of young lads who seemed to be drifting from the pure influences of home, to congregate at street corners, to the moral ruin of the boys and the grief of the parents, What can we do to make home life attractive to them? One lady thought by entering with zest into all that concerns boy life, eredit is due."

Every girl and woman who suffers as Miss Hopkirk did, should use Dr. Armold's English Toxin Pilis. They will give new life and health.
