A GREAT FUN-MAKER.

A very choice offering to the amusement seekers at Chatham is the extremely entertaining musical farce comedy, "Who is Who," which will be presented at the Grand next Monday evening. It is said that much of it is wholesome in the farce comedy field has been packed into two hours and a half of invigorating fun, centering about the actions of those two comical fellows, Chas. A. Lober and John Mc-Mahon, and a company of twenty artists.
What is not at all usual in such productions, "Who is Who," contains a plot, and one that keeps a lady's wits on the qui vive to follow. The story is of a young lawyer who forms a partnership with a notorious person whom he calls Nemo. The perplexities and complications then center about Nemo. The action is fast and genuinely funny and is said to be as gingery and effervescent as wine of the vine's vintage.
Interpolated, not obtruding are high class specialties and catchy musical numbers.

TILBURY.

Aug. 16.—Albert Keith is home on furlough after a year's absence in Cuba in the United States army of occupation.
To the wife of Asa Laing a daughter.
Quite a number visited Detroit yesterday via the City of Chatham.
Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shaw are spending the day in Amherstburg.
Robbie, son of A. A. Wilson, is quite ill.
The Miss Stewart visited in Comber yesterday.
The Daily Planet is on sale at Johnson's Drug Store.

A CARD.

We the undersigned do hereby agree to refund the money on a twenty-five cent bottle of Dr. Will's English Pills, if, after using three-fourths of the contents of bottle they do not relieve constipation and headache. We also warrant that four bottles will permanently cure the most obstinate case of constipation. Satisfaction or no pay when Will's English Pills are used.

WALLACEBURG.

Aug. 16.—Band practice took place last evening in Robertson's Hall, of J. O. F. Block.
The results of the Junior Leaving and Part II, examinations are expected to be out to-day.
Miss Ada Shain, of Detroit, Mich., is spending a few days with Miss Mamie Burgess.
Roy Clancy has accepted a position in M. J. Hurley's grocery.
The students, Mary and Hattie, which were expected to take excursions from here this morning, failed to be on hand. Quite a crowd awaited them at the depot.
Posters are out for a K. of P. excursion to Detroit, on Aug. 28, per St. Mary, to witness the grand parade of the Knights in convention there.
The celebration to be given by the firemen on Aug. 22, Wallaceburg's civic holiday, bids fair to be very successful. The prizes are good and should draw a goodly number of competitors.

LARGE FRUIT GROWER DEAD.

Edward Borrowman, the well-known Amherstburg fruit grower, passed away suddenly Sunday. He had been in ill health for some time, but much improved, Sunday morning he ate a hearty breakfast, and appeared in the best of health, but shortly afterwards he was taken ill and expired before night in awful agony.
Mr. Borrowman was a young man and resided with his father and one sister, Miss E. L. Borrowman. He was well known throughout the county of Essex, and he had one of the finest farms in Western Ontario. Mrs.
S. S. Kollage, of this city, and G.
Smith Borrowman, of Merila, are executors. The funeral took place on Tuesday.

The great amount of design work done at the Victoria Avenue Green House is sufficient proof of the excellence of the work. Nothing but the best at the lowest prices. Telephone Bitter Denunciation by a Well-known War Correspondent—His Own Actual Facts.

A. G. Hales, representative in South Africa of the Daily News, is the latest correspondent to attack the methods and the red tape of the British war office. He says:
"Let me tell you how our army in South Africa is treated by the incompetent people of the good city of London. I pledge my word as a man and a journalist, that every word written is true. I will add nothing, nor detract from, nor set down aught in malice. If my statements are proven false then let me be scourged with the tongue and pen of every word-writer of decent Britons' home and hearth forever after, for he who lies about his country at such an hour as this is of all traitors the vilest. I will deal now particularly with the men who are acting under the command of Lieut.- Gen. Sir Leslie Rundle. This good soldier and courteous gentleman has to hold a fronting line from Wierburg via Senekal almost to the borders of Basutoland. His whole front, extending nearly a hundred miles, is constantly threatened by an active, dashing and determined enemy, an enemy who knows the country far better than an English fox hunting squire knows the ground he hunts over season after season. To hold this vast line intact Gen. Rundle has to march from point to point as his scouts warn him of the movements of a tireless foe.

Gen. Rundle's task is a colossal one and any man would think that gigantic efforts would be made to keep him amply supplied with food for his soldiers. But such is not the case.
The men are absolutely starving. Many of the infantrymen are so weak that they can barely stagger along under the weight of their soldierly equipment. They are worn to shadows, and move with weary, listless footsteps to the march. People high up in authority may deny this, but he who denies it sullies the truth. This is what the soldiers get to eat, what they have been getting since the war began, time past, and what they are likely to get for a long time to come, unless England arouses herself and bites to the bone in regard to the people who are responsible for it.

DAILY RATIONS.
"One pound of raw flour, which the soldiers have to cook, after a hard day's march, is served out to each man every alternate day. The following day he eats one pound of biscuits. In this country there is no fuel excepting a little oak dung dried by the sun. If a soldier is lucky enough to pick up a little he has to go the nearest warehouse, bound up and tied with his cake without yeast or baking powder, and make some sort of a wretched mouthful. He gets one pound of meat, and this is eaten three times out of ten he cannot cook, and there his supplies end.

FOOD FORGOTTEN.
"What has become of the rations of rum, of sugar, of tea, of cocoa, of groceries generally? Ask at the snug little railway sidings where the goods are stacked and forgotten. Ask at the big stores in Cape Town and other seaport towns. Ask in your own country, where countless thousands of pounds worth of foodstuff lie rotting in the warehouse, bound up and tied down with red tape bandages. Ask—damn somebody high up in authority.
Don't let some wretched underling be made the scapegoat of this criminal state of affairs, for the taint of this shameful thing rests upon you, upon every British whose homes, privileges and prosperity is being safeguarded by those famishing folk in the field.
Authority will probably tell you that Gen. Rundle and his splendid fellows are so isolated that food cannot be obtained for them. I say that is false.
For recently I, in company with another correspondent, left Gen. Rundle's camp without an escort. We made our way in the saddle, taking our two sage carts with us, to Winburg railway station; leaving our horseflesh there, we took train for East London.
Then back to the junction, and down to Cape Town, which we reached in 48 hours, and then made our way back to Winburg, and from Winburg we came without escort to rejoin General Rundle at Hammona. If two war correspondents can do this, the country and get through with winter supplies for themselves, why cannot the transport people manage to do the same? These transport people seem to look with contempt upon the war correspondent and his opinions on things military; but if we could not manage transport business better than they do, we would not willingly stand up to be shot.

SOLDIERS FAMISHING.
"Our men on the facts of war are famishing, whilst millions worth of food lies rotting on our wharves and in our cities, food that ought with ordinary management to be within easy reach of our fighting generals. British ask of Rundle the fulfillment of a task that would task the energies and abilities of the first general in Europe, and which a stout heart he faces the work in front of him, face it with men whose knees knock under them when they march, with hands that shake when they shoulder their rifles—shake, but not with fear; tremble, but not from wounds; but from weakness, from poverty of blood and muscle, brought about by continual hunger. Are those men fit to storm a kopje? Are they fit to transport a whole night through a forced march to turn a position and then fight, like their fathers fought, next day?
I tell you no. And you're the shame if the empire's flag be lowered —not theirs, but yours—for you—what do you do? You stand in your music halls and shout a chorus of songs full of sentiment, and prize your soldiers, full of praise for his patience, his pluck and his devotion to duty; and you let him go hungry, so hungry that I have often seen him quarrel with a messenger for a handful of raw meal on the march."

A POST OFFICE CHANGE.
Miss Jessie E. Snell, the pleasant and obliging young lady who has had charge of the stamp stand at the post office for the past year, will sever her connection with the government establishment on Saturday. Miss Snell will take Miss Tuckers's position at the Queen street office. Her position at the post office will be taken by Miss Flo Smith, Raleigh street.

ROWDIES AT GALT.
The license game at Galt, between Galt and Brantford, upon the former city's civic holiday, was characterized by some of the worst ruffianism ever seen upon a field of sport. Two Brantford players were arrested and at one period of the game play was delayed for 30 minutes owing to a free fight.

We Make What we Sell

That refers to our clothing. We make it because we can make it cheaper and better than we can buy it, and we give our customers the profit.

It is eleven years now since we commenced to make our own Clothing. We have gained knowledge and experience with each year. We have learned where to buy, and how to make to the best advantage. The experience gained has all gone to reduce the price to the public.

There is no stagnation in this business—always advancing, always improving.

With every season we hope to make it more useful to the public.
